U. S. EXPERT HITS WAGE, HOUR BILL AS ANOTHER NRA

Nothing Is Changed but Name, He Says.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—While the house labor committee today was recommending passage of the wage and hour bill as revised by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, an ominous warning of the effect of the proposed legislation emanated from Dr. Charles F. Roos, director of research of the defunct NRA.

Dr. Chas F. Roos.

Declaring that the bill proposes to set up a new NRA, Dr. Roos predicted that imposition of minimum wages and maximum hours of work will level down more wages than it raises, will destroy eventually more jobs than it creates immediately, and will slacken small town industry throughout the country to the benefit of big business in urban centers.

President Presses for Action.

Notwithstanding this blow delivered by an expert who stood high in the Roosevelt administration during the career of the NRA the President is pressing for passage of the bill at this session. Increasing opposition, however, promises a stubborn fight against passage of the bill in the house.

Dr. Roos, who gave his opinion of the bill at the solicitation of Representative E. E. Cox [D., Ga.], said that in his judgment the 40 hour week would lead to:

"1. Curtailed employment by at least half a million within the first year of operation.

"2. Decrease in production and average standard of living.

"4. Geographical realignment of industry.

"5. Higher production cost for farmers."

Identical with NRA.

Dr. Roos says that the only difference between the NRA and the setup under the pending bill is some added definition of policy in the latter.

"In NRA," he went on, "we gathered a vast amount of statistical data showing that the introduction of a minimum wage always produced a high concentration of employés receiving exactly the minimum wage set. The wages of some were raised, but the wages of a substantial percentage were lowered to the minimum. It is therefore my judgment that this bill will tend to level down the present wage scales.

"In an article recently published in Rural Progress on the probable effects of the measure upon agricultural and industrial price parity I summarized our NRA findings as follows:

Effect on Farmer.

"The wages and hours bill must therefore mean restriction of the supply of manufactured goods. Once this curtailment takes place the farmer will be caught in a vise of higher prices for the goods he buys and lower prices for the goods he sells. He will find the prices of overalls, clothing, leather [illegible] implements, and building supplies materially increased.

"Data collected by the United States census bureau indicate that in some measure the heaviest burdens of NRA wage increases fell on small industries. Large industries with huge capital can afford expensive machinery which increases the output per man and permits higher wage rates. Particularly in rural districts, smaller industries with simpler equipment, if required to pay the high wage rates of large companies would be unable to compete.

"Because the south has so many small cities and semi-rural communities in which small industries are not yet so highly mechanized as in large industrial centers where money wages are higher, the south would bear the brunt of this measure. But industries in small towns of the more populous states, New England, the middle west and elsewhere, also will be adversely affected for the same reason."

COURT WILL FIX FINAL CUSTODY AT NEW HEARING

Joyful Baby Returns to His Toys.

BY MARCIA WINN.

Little Donald Horst went home again last night with the only parents he ever has known, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Horst.

Released from St. Vincent's orphanage by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on a court order granting temporary custody of the baby to its foster parents, he was taken immediately to the rambling white frame house at 6189 McClellan avenue from which he was abducted last Tuesday by his unmarried blood parents, John and Lydia Regan.

Once there, however, his concern was not for the tearfully happy man and woman who wish to adopt him. Instead, it was for the toys he missed while held at the orphanage.

Boy Agog Among Toys.

He ran toward his shining red fire engine, big enough for two small boys of 2½ years, and started to clamber in. But then he spied his red scooter. Running toward it he propelled it straight through a crowd of reporters. Abandoning it, he ran, too excited to talk, from teddy bear to train to velocipede, touching all tenderly.

Neighbor children clustered around the doorway.

"Hello, Donnie!" they caroled.

"Hi," came his laconic reply, as he turned back to his toys.

His foster mother, whose tearful entreaties won for her his custody until Aug. 23, noticed that Donald was tired. Gathering him into her arms she ran upstairs to give him a bath, to dress him in a fresh blue and white suit and white shoes and socks, and order his supper prepared.

"He's going right to bed," she announced.

Boy Has Slight Cold.

The Horsts asked Donald's playmates not to come back until 11 o'clock this morning, in order that the youngster might get a good sleep. They said he had developed a slight cough and was nervous after the day's excitement.

Horst said they would have to remain in Cook county, in the court's jurisdiction, pending final settlement of the case. Then, he said, he and Mrs. Horst hope the child will be theirs and they can take him away for a vacation.

The foster father said he received a number of congratulatory telegrams after winning temporary custody. Since the child was taken, he said, more 100 letters of best wishes have been received from couples with adopted children.

Delay Adoption Papers.

Various legal issues still block the signing of the final adoption papers. Judge Jarecki will rule Aug. 23 on the Horsts' petition to adopt Donald.

Pending final ruling on the adoption, Judge Jarecki appointed Miss Bernadine Healy, social service director of St. Vincent's, as the child's guardian during the litigation.

The court may give Donald to the Horsts; he may give him to his real parents, the Regans, of 4539 Congress street, who surrendered the baby at birth, kidnaped him last week, and surrendered him again Saturday; or he may place him elsewhere for adoption. The Regans were not in court yesterday to indicate whether the action Saturday was final.

Before Aug. 23 there will be a hearing in Juvenile court, for on Aug. 19 the state will seek to prove that Donald is dependent, his parents being unfit to care for him.

Doctor's Hearing Today.

Today there will be still another hearing centering around the boy. This will be on a quasi-criminal complaint against Dr. John A. Rose, 900 South Western avenue, filed in Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby's court yesterday regarding Donald's birth certificate, in which he was listed as the son of Mrs. Horst.

Dr. Rose was the attending physician at Donald's birth. The complaint, filed by Dr. Ernest Lowinger, chief of the bureau of vital statistics, charges that Dr. Rose wilfully and

Monkey Squad Meets the Foe and He's Theirs

If Chief Sullivan of the detective bureau doesn't know by now that some of his men can catch a monkey, then he hasn't read the special ability questionnaires he had them all fill out last week.

He is doubtless aware that his more experienced monkey catchers can catch a monkey on the seventh floor, but it's extremely unlikely that the chief thought to ask if any one could catch a monkey that was playing on the roller of a blueprint dryer on the seventh floor near the ceiling. In that case it may be worth the chief's time to read this, because detectives with that kind of ability are rarer than those he found who can speak French or run a typewriter.

Outsmarts 'Em on Bananas.

When employés opened the Charles Bruning Blueprint company office on the seventh floor at 445 Plymouth court yesterday, they found a monkey taking setting-up exercises on the roller. Detectives Joseph O'Connell, Edward Dennis, and Sylvester Stock were summoned.

The detectives pretended they were only visitors who wanted to know how blueprints are dried, but they didn't fool the monkey.

They offered him bananas, but the monkey waited until they went to the other end of the room—every time—to come after them. Then he munched the bananas in a rather superior manner, as if he thought the detectives lacked a little in subtlety.

Rope Does the Trick.

When they ran out of bananas the detectives got a rope. They fashioned a noose, climbed up near the ceiling, laid it on the roller, and then climbed down again.

Detective Stock pulled on the other end of the rope, as if he wanted it. The monkey, thinking to outwit the detectives again, put his foot in the noose and pulled. That's how he got caught.

The detectives found he was from a South State street animal show. And the chief should have found by now that he has three detectives for monkey-on-the-seventh-story blueprint-dryer-near-the-ceiling cases.

A CANDID MOTHER IS GLAD HER CHILDREN LOOK LIKE PRESIDENT

New York, Aug. 9—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt considers her children lucky in that their looks were inherited from the President rather than from her, she says in the seventh chapter of her life story, appearing in a national journal tomorrow.

"Luckily for all of them," she writes, "the children have inherited their looks from their father's side of the family. One or two of them have eyes like my side of the Roosevelts, but eyes happen to have been rather good in that branch of the family.

"I had prominent front teeth, not a very good mouth and chin, but these were not handed down to any of my children."

80 MILLION LIGHT YEARS SPANNED BY SPECIAL LENS

Rochester, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Believed by its makers to be the fastest in the world, a new photographic lens has just been completed to take pictures of light rays which left distant stars before dinosaurs trod the earth.

The Bausch & Lomb Optical company announced tonight the completion of tests of the new lens by Dr. M. L. Humason at the Mount Wilson observatory. In conjunction with the 100 inch reflector at Mount Wilson, the largest existing telescope, the new lens has protographed spectra of nebulæ 30,000 times fainter than the faintest star visible to the unaided eye.

Recent data has put these nebulæ at an estimated distance of 80 million light years from the earth, Dr. Humason said.

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 9.—S. E. Stanford, chief of the fire department at Crawley, Sussex, was "burned up" today when he learned that after driving fire engines for twenty-eight years he does not know how to drive. At least the ministry of transport, which recently gave him a test, refused to grant him the required license to drive "a heavy goods vehicle."

Costly Judah Estate Sold to Dr. Bevan

The million dollar estate of 31½ acres at 740 Green Bay road, Lake Forest, with a house which is one of the north shore's residential show places, was sold yesterday by Mrs. Dorothy Patterson Santini to Dr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Bevan of 1550 North State parkway. The terms of the sale were not revealed.

Mrs. Dorothy Santini.

Mrs. Santini, now the wife of Randolph Santini of Glen Head, Long Island, N. Y., got a divorce from Noble Brandon Judah, Chicago lawyer, in Nevada in 1933. The Lake Forest residence was given with other properties in settlement.

House Cost $1,100,000.

The house and land represent an investment of more than $1,500,000 by the Judahs. The house itself was built in 1928 to plans of Philip Goodwin of New York and Frederick Hodgdon of Chicago at a reported cost of $1,100,000.

It has 25 rooms including seven master bedrooms and an indoor swimming pool. In addition there is an elaborate outdoor pool and a formal garden. The Bevans have purchased under contract 25 acres of the total estate and have made a verbal agreement to buy the remaining 6½ acres.

New Owner a Noted Surgeon.

Dr. Bevan, who is a famous surgeon, is head of the surgical department of Rush Medical college and is professorial lecturer on surgery at the University of Chicago. He is a former president of the American Medical association and a former president of the American Surgical association.

For several years Dr. Bevan had a large home on Green Bay road near the entrance to the Onwentsia club. He sold it in November, 1933, to Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, who razed the house and erected a large new home.

Quack Detects Arm Pains by Gleam in Eye

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

"Dr." Joseph Castello combines astrology, Yogi teachings, imitation chiropractic, plain massage, electric light and heat treatments, and some strange insight which enables him to tell by looking in a person's eyes where he is ailing.

Before his arrest last week on the complaint of the state department of registration and education in its latest onslaught on medical quacks, Doc Castello was visited by a TRIBUNE reporter in his second floor flat at 2801 Harrison street.

In all his windows are signs. Physio-therapy, colonic irrigations, light treatments and other methods are listed. Sciatica, lumbago, rheumatism and other ailments are named.

His Cards Tell All.

On one side of Castello's professional cards are the words: "Children Massaging Specialist & Neuralgist. Uterus Treatment. Dr. Joseph Castello. Electric lights, sweat cabinet reducing, no diet. Pine needle oil and salts bath. Bronchitis and Rheumatism. Hours 9 a. m. to 6 p. m." On the other side:

"Internal Baths. Head, eyes, ears & throat. Chest, arms, legs, feet. Spinal curvature, sprains, and bones. Neuralgia, neuritis & arthritis. Stomach, intestines, colon, kidney & bladder. Electric lights treatments. Violet ray, hot air, infra red, ultra violet rays, electric lights, sweat cabinet, diathermy, fever treatment."

Specialist in Hot Air.

A short, almost bald man with lustrous dark eyes, wearing a soiled white jacket or blouse, opened a door and eyed his visitor suspiciously.

"You are the one who saw my wife yesterday?" he asked. "I do not remember a Mrs. C——. She said you told her she sent you."

Then he led the way into a large, dirty room in which soiled canvas curtains partly hid an iron bed and, across from it, a homemade treatment table. Several machines, including one such as Docs S. B. Butler and W. J. Elmore had used, and a few lamps were in a corner near the windows. The odor of stale garlic filled the room. Pink and blue chromos hung on the walls.

Patient Undergoes Quiz.

Doc Castello apologized for the untidiness of the place and began making up the beds with clean linen. He questioned his prospective customer closely. Where did she live? Near what streets was that? Where had Mrs. C—— lived when she knew him?

"Of course, if you don't think you can do anything for me——" his visitor said, making a motion to depart.

"Well," he said, with a benign smile, "of course I can help you."

Having decided to accept her as a patient, the doc lost his suspicious manner and became confidential. In his soft, deferential voice he said sorrowfully:

"I can see you're not feeling good."

"I have pains in my arms and shoulders," the reporter said.

"Your left arm hurts worse than

Tokio Calls Cabinet Council.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—The highest officers of the Japanese navy assembled at the navy department at 1 a. m. today. They held an all night conference as the result of the killing of a Japanese naval officer and a seaman by Chinese troops at Shanghai. The navy regards the incident extremely seriously and is taking a determined stand.

A state of unusual tension prevails in Tokio. The government considers the killings as a matter inseparable from the conflict in North China. The cabinet council will take up the matter at 10 a. m.

The Japanese press describes the shooting affray as setting a match to the time fuse China has been laying by a prolonged series of outrages and challenges. The newspaper Asahi suggests the affair is exceptionally grave because, first, it occurred along a road of the international settlement; second, it is a challenge to the imperial navy since both victims were in uniform, and third, it violates the Shanghai truce agreement. Unless Nanking acts with utmost prudence and sincerity, says Asahi, the affair may bring on serious developments.

PUT UP BARRICADES

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—All roads leading out of Shanghai were barricaded early today following a clash between Chinese and Japanese on the outskirts of the city. An officer and a seaman of the Japanese navy were killed and a Chinese member of the peace preservation corps was reported slain in the fight. The Chinese feared Japanese vengeance which might lead to serious fighting.

The clash occurred at sundown yesterday when Isao Ohyama, a sublieutenant, riding in an auto driven by Yozo Saito, a seaman, attempted to drive past Chinese guards and enter a Chinese government military airport at Hungjao, ten miles west of the international settlement.

Chinese Servant Shot.

A Chinese servant employed by H. F. Seitz, American employé of Socony-Vacuum Oil company, was shot through the arm. Seitz and his wife reside near the airport. Several bullets struck their house.

An official Chinese version of the shooting was announced as follows:

"The Japanese auto, driven at high speed, attempted to pass the guard and enter the airport, which is under military control and is closed to the public. The Japanese drew pistols and fired at the Chinese guards, but the guards did not retaliate until reinforcements from the peace preservation corps arrived.

"The Japanese continued firing, killing one of the Chinese, whereupon the Chinese troops fired, killing Ohyama. The sailor, Saito, jumped from the car and began running across a field. He collapsed and died. The automobile was riddled with bullets."

Japanese Blame Chinese.

The Japanese blamed the Chinese for the clash. Chinese authorities said the Japanese failed to explain why the automobile's occupants were trying to enter the airport. The Chinese alleged that the Japanese frequently have been seen in the vicinity and have been attempting to inspect the airport, which was bombed in 1932 during the Shanghai war. At that time the buildings at the airport were destroyed and the landing field was filled with craters as the result of bombing operations.

The Japanese argued that the road on which the shooting occurred belongs to the international settlement. They insisted the Japanese officer and the seaman had a right to drive in the vicinity of the airdrome.

O. K. Yui, mayor of the Chinese municipality, communicated with the Japanese consulate after the fighting and expressed "profound regret" over the incident, but said the incident was a culmination of numerous attempts by Japanese to spy on the airport.

"The killings," he added, "were a direct result of an attempt to force an entrance."

Seek Diplomatic Adjustment.

The mayor said both sides had agreed to adjust the incident diplomatically and to avoid any aggravation of ill feeling.

Nevertheless, Chinese authorities, fearing retaliation by the Japanese, mobilized gendarmes. The peace preservation corps barricaded all roads leading from the international settlement into the Chinese communities of Chapei and Kiangwan to prevent any invasion by Japanese from the nearby barracks of the Japanese naval defense force in the Japanese settlement in Hongkew.

Chinese Claim Rout of Japs.

PEIPING, Aug. 10 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—Chinese sources reported today a Japanese army detachment had been routed in a battle with Chinese defenders of the Great Wall pass at Nankow, 30 miles northeast of here.

The unconfirmed Chinese reports indicated a major engagement was being fought in the vicinity of Nankow with the reinforced Chinese divisions effectively defending their positions below the centuries-old wall from the advance of the Japanese army seeking to bring Charhar province under its domination.

The destruction of the Japanese unit was said to have taken place west of Nankow. Nankow is just north of the Hopei province border on the highly important military railroad from Peiping through Chahar to the provincial capital at Kalgan.

Northeastern Hopei province has been brought under complete Japanese domination in the month-old undeclared war between China and Japan for control of the North China area.

Erase Traces of Nationalism.

PEIPING, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—(AP)—The soldiers of Japan erased methodically from this old capital of the emperors of China today all traces of the nationalism of Dr. Sun Yat-sen and Dictator Chiang Kai-shek.

Under Japanese military guard—[a brigade of 3,000 marched in Sunday]—the city gates swung open now and then, to permit a well watched populace some measure of freedom.

From the bookshops the military patrols tossed out "objectionable literature"—that which is offensive to the Japanese.

In the public schools they forbade the teaching of the principles of national salvation of Sun Yat-sen, the Chinese "liberator." These, they said, were impractical and "tended to poison youthful minds."

The troops searched Tsing Hua university, built in 1911 as the result of United States remittance of more than ten million dollars of the Boxer indemnity. They looked for traces of activity which they might not approve. Then they forbade the payment to professors and others of some 170,000 Chinese dollars [about $51,000].

U. S. SHIPS' VISIT TO JAPAN PORTS IS CALLED OFF

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The navy announced today that the scheduled cruise of the Asiastic flagship cruiser Augusta and four destroyers to Japan had been "indefinitly postponed." The flagship and destroyers were scheduled to visit Japanese ports during the next two months.

While naval officials declined to comment publicly on the reason for postponement, it was assumed by close observers that it was desired to keep the American ships close to danger points in case it becomes necessary to evacuate Americans from Chinese ports.

CHIMPANZEES SIT IN TALL PINES OF DUCHESS' ESTATE

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Six chattering chimpanzees sat atop tall pines on the palace grounds of the dowager duchess of Aosta today, fugitives from a gland hospital.

The monkeys, part of a fresh consignment for the hospital of Dr. Alfredo Lembos, broke from their cages yesterday.

They were to have been shot at dawn today but members of the hospital staf, pleading their scientific value, saved them from a rifle squad. The ingrates sat in their trees and jeered.

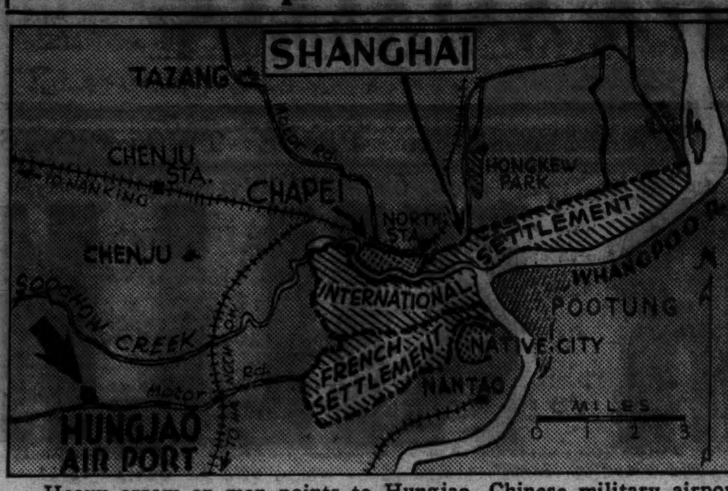
China Prepares for New Clash



Heavy arrow on map points to Hungjao, Chinese military airport 10 miles west of the international settlement at Shanghai, where Chinese troops yesterday shot and killed a Japanese naval officer and a seaman in a fight. The clash occurred when the Japanese attempted to ride past Chinese guards and enter the airport. Fearing Japanese vengeance, the Chinese barricaded roads leading from the international settlement into the Chinese community of Chapei as indicated by smaller arrow.

Nazis Hit Back at Britain; Oust Veteran News Writer

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 9—German retaliation against the expulsion of three Nazi newspaper men from Great Britain was made known tonight with the announcement in Berlin that the Nazi government had ordered an English correspondent out of the country. The correspondent is Norman Ebbutt, who has represented the London Times in the German capital for twelve years.

The expulsion of Ebbutt took the form of a request that he "replace himself with another correspondent in Berlin." He was allowed two weeks to get his affairs in order. The Times was informed officially that Germany objected to the manner in which Ebbutt covered Nazi activities. The government requested that his successor take care to "pay less attention to work considered in Berlin as trivial and more attention to what is important."

The Times announced it would not send another "more amenable" writer to Berlin.

Action Follows Protest.

The Nazis consider Ebbutt the most prominent English correspondent in Berlin.

The Nazi government's action was announced shortly after a formal protest had been lodged with the British government by Nazi diplomatic representatives in London against last week's expulsion of the three German newspaper men, two of whom already have left the country.

Refusing to take the British action without striking back, the German government sent Dr. E. Woermann, chargé d'affaires of the German embassy in London, to the British foreign office.

Officially he went "to present the view" of his country. That was interpreted generally, however, in view of earlier protests, as Germany's method of objecting to the British order under which Dr. Wolf Dietrich von Langen, London correspondent for the Graf Reichschach Newspaper service; Werner von Crome, representing the Berlin Lokalanzeiger, and Franz Otto Wrede, Von Crome's colleague, were expelled.

Britain Afraid of Spies.

There were reports that the three news writers were suspected of espionage. The British are afraid of spies these days and are taking no chances. But the three German writers and the two secretaries never were officially accused by the government. They simply were told that they could not stay in England. In the language of the home office, it was "not in the public interest to renew their labor permits."

British newspapers have begun to protest what they view as high handed methods of British officialdom.

Sharp criticism appeared tonight in the Evening Standard in an editorial which declared that it was impossible to assume, in view of Britain's declared tolerance, that the Germans were expelled for purely journalistic activity.

"Is there any reason," the Standard asks, "why the home office should not clear up the situation immediately by a simple statement?"

It adds that "nobody doubts that an explanation, if it were given, would be one which public opinion would indorse, but it should be given."

MERRY FAHRNEY REUNITED WITH HER 3D HUSBAND

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Merry Fahrney Berlingieri, Chicago patent medicine heiress, was reunited with her third husband, Baron Arturo Berlingieri of Rome, here today. The baron went to bed at a hotel after arriving from the east by automobile. The baroness arrived by train Saturday.

She said they plan to remain here two or three weeks for a rest before returning to Chicago to settle an estate and then sail from New York for Paris Sept. 15. The baroness declined to disclose the time or place of their marriage, which she said "wasn't terribly recent."

"We met about a year ago in Rome through mutual friends," she added. "My husband was a steeplechase rider."

TRIAL OF U-BOAT PASTOR WHO HIT NAZIS POSTPONED

Hunt Fresh Evidence in Niemoeller Case.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 9.—The trial of the Rev. Martin Niemoeller, fighting leader of the Confessional [Evangelical Lutheran] church movement, which is fighting for the freedom of the Protestant creed, has been postponed indefinitly. The trial was scheduled for tomorrow.

Authorities said the purpose of the postponement was to examine new evidence, but his friends see in it further persecution of the church leader and his supporters.

Seek to Aid Pastor.

Prominent members of the reich's civil service appealed to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and church authorities in behalf of the wartime submarine commander. Many persons offered to testify that he never attacked the Nazi state. If all of them were called into court the trial would last for weeks observers said.

After police last night broke up a meeting of church members who wanted to attend intercession services for Niemoeller at Dahlem, a Berlin suburb, and took the names of persons attending a demonstration for arrested pastors in St. Matthew's church at Steplitz, it was announced that the intercession services would take place today. But the police prohibited them. After several hours of negotiations the church members were allowed to attend holy communion under police supervision.

How Nazi circles feel about the church feud was illustrated in the Siegrune, organ of the semi-pagan "Fighting Right for German Faith" group.

"Pastors and Christian church officials feel they are losing power over their German souls," the paper gloats. "'Pure teaching' of Christianity has lost its miraculous power. It cannot be the source of strength for the struggle with hard reality. The religion of humility is no armor for a nation which is struggling on the brim of an abyss."

Orders Catholics to Save Oil.

Roman Catholic churches in Germany have been ordered to save on oil burning in eternal lamps. They have been ordered to report to Hans Kerrl, minister for church affairs, on Oct. 15 as to how they are doing it.

Kerrl issued a special decree for this purpose. He said that owing to the burning of the eternal lamps in churches and chapels "the oil consumption must not be inconsiderable."

Kerrl's instructions recommended an oil saving device known as a "narcissa." The decree praised the archbishop of Muenster who, it said, through introduction of this device saved up to 47 per cent of the oil formerly used in the Muenster cathedral and chapel.

Zionists Attempt to Draft Unified Stand on Palestine

ZURICH, Switzerland, Aug. 9.—(AP)—A committee attempted tonight to draft into one resolution the divergent views expressed in the world Zionist congress in the British proposal to partition Palestine.

The resolution was expected to reach a vote tomorrow after an address by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, Zionist president. A motion to end debate on the British plan was voted down earlier.

Included in the drafting committee of 48 were Rabbi A. H. Silver of Cleveland, Jacob Fishman of New York, Mrs. David De Sola Pool of New York, Abraham Goldberg of New York, representing the general Zionists, and Louis Segal and Chaim Greenberg, both of New York, representing the labor Zionists.

Goldberg spoke in favor of negotiation on the British plan and Mrs. Goldie Meyerson of New York asked the congress to reject negotiation.

"American Jews have contributed substantial sums toward building up Palestine, while Polish Jews have given heroic qualities of the actual builders," Goldberg said.

"A decision must be made. The great Jewish mass is impressed with the prospect of a future Jewish state."

Mrs. Meyerson, who opposed the British plan, urged the mobilization of public opinion against it.

Max Zaritsky, New York labor leader, announced that Leon Blum, French minister of state, had declared himself interested and "grateful" toward Zaritzky's plan to name a Palestine colony after Blum.

GREEN CAR LEADS TO SEIZURE OF 2 IN JAIL DELIVERY

A green automobile led to the arrest last night of two men as suspects in the delivery of Steve Casper and John Filas, Chicago toughs, from the Oak Lawn police station Sunday night.

Casper and Filas had been seized in Oak Lawn early Sunday morning on suspicion of tampering with automobiles. About 11 p. m. Sunday several men in a green car drove up to the station during the absence of the lockup keepers, who were out on patrol. They opened the cell door for Casper and Filas and drove them away.

New City police, in whose district Casper and Filas live, knew that one of their friends, Peter Bricks, 26 years old, 1808 46th street, owned a green car. They arrested him and later Stanley Lipski, 21, of 4500 South Marshfield avenue. The two admitted they drove in the car with Casper's wife and Filas' sister to the Oak Lawn police station Sunday night. They said they left without seeing the prisoners.

Trainer Sticks Tongue Out, So Rattlesnake Bites It

Newton, N. J., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Harry Osburn, 56, a snake exhibitor, wound a rattler around his neck today at a show and stuck his tongue out. The snake bit it. Physicians said Osburn's tongue was swollen to twice its normal size. They administered serum.

MADRID FORTIFIES VILLAGE TO BLOCK REBELS' ADVANCE

Franco Reopens Drive to Take Santander.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Government labor battalions rushed to the Teruel front in northeast Spain tonight to throw earthworks and fortifications across the path of the rebels' steadily lengthening salient.

The whole town of Canete, which straddles the Cuenca-Teruel highway, apparently was to be transformed into a fortress for a stand in defense of the vital government communications between Madrid and Valencia on the east coast.

Canete is about 40 miles on a direct line southwest of Toril, southernmost tip of the rebels' fingerlike salient. It is on a main highway east of Cuenca and southwest of Teruel.

Trucks Haul Up Sandbags.

Although rebel quarters expected the government to mass its defense forces there, the government also fortified positions closer to Toril and in the Valdemeca mountain passes northeast of Cuenca, capital of Cuenca province.

Rebel field headquarters on the Teruel front said their observation planes sighted a column of government troops and a long line of sandbag laden trucks moving up from Cuenca to Canete.

The same sources said they had intercepted a government radio broadcast ordering "all able bodied men in Cuenca province" to rush to Canete to build a lacework of barricades in its streets and to encircle it with trenches.

Open Santander Offensive.

A terrific land and air bombardment in northwest Spain opened what rebel officers called "the final offensive" against Santander and Asturias provinces, the government's last territory on the Biscayan coast. Rebel headquarters refused to disclose any information concerning troop movements, announcing only "the drive has started."

The combined artillery and aviation attack, described as even more deadly than the fire that buckled Bilbao's "iron ring" defenses last June, was believed to carry the rebels' hopes of a swift "cleanup" of the Spanish northwest in order to release troops and equipment for action on other fronts.

More Disorders in Toledo.

MADRID, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Spanish government officers, in trenches less than a mile from Toledo, reported again today they heard firing in the rebel stronghold, indicating internal disorders.

This is the third day they have heard shooting back of their enemy's lines and they quoted refugees as saying the city has been the center of dissention for some time.

Refugees said requetes [monarchist troops] and Moors have been hostile to Italian troops, and legionnaires have complained they were used as sham troops and "cannon fodder."

Protest Attacks on Ships.

LONDON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Despite official French and British wrath over attacks by unidentified airplanes—presumably Spanish—on neutral shipping in the Mediterranean, diplomats sought tonight to avoid any fresh international complications.

The British foreign office, authoritative sources said, was primarily concerned with protecting the foundations of its new friendship with Italy after several years of bitterness.

Both Britain and France protested to rebel Generalissimo Francisco Franco against attacks on the British tanker British Corporal and the French cargo vessel Djebel Amour Friday off the coast of Algeria. An Italian freighter, the Mongioia, and the Greek steamer K. Ktistakis were attacked about the same time and place, apparently by the same squadron of three "mystery" planes.

The British protest was based on the presumption that rebel planes made the attack although British officials said they were "not sure." It supplemented an earlier protest by British naval officials to rebel authorities at Palma, Mallorca.

France, besides protesting, warned Gen. Franco that French planes and gunboats would guard her Mediterranean shipping lanes henceforth. Paris declared that investigation definitly proved rebel responsibility for the attacks.

ENTER BABY CASE

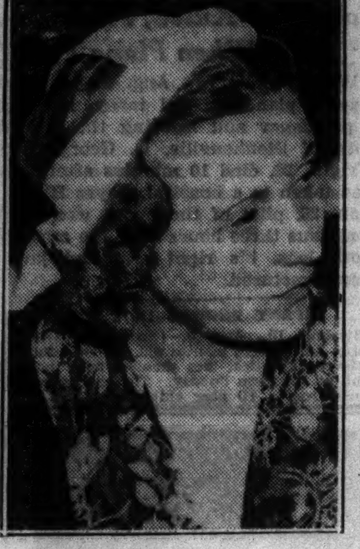
Mrs. Ada Fox, mysterious figure who rushed into hearing on custody of Donald Horst and told Judge Jarecki that she wished to help Mrs. Lydia Regan, the natural mother, by providing an attorney.



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Shortly afterward an attorney stepped to the bench and said he represented Mrs. Constance Ewert. He said Mrs. Ewert, at whose home Donald was born, also wished to help Mrs. Regan.

MESHIE, MOTHER APE, DIES AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Meshie, the Chicago Zoölogical park chimpanzee who gave birth last month to a daughter, Eve, died Saturday night at the Brookfield park of septic poisoning, a consequence of childbirth. Her death was announced yesterday by Director Edward H. Bean.

Meshie's baby, whose father is Chimpanzee Mike, appears to be thriving on her diet of powdered milk, fed every three hours. Meshie was obtained by Dr. Henry Raven of the American Museum of Natural History, New York, in 1929 in the French Cameroons. She was purchased by the Brookfield zoo in 1934. Eve was her first child.

HORSTS GRANTED CUSTODY OF BOY PENDING HEARING

Baby Returns Joyfully to His Toys.

unlawfully failed to report Donald's birth within ten days after Jan. 4, 1935. Failure to report a birth renders the attendant liable to a fine of $25 to $200 for each unreported day.

Judge Sonsteby issued subpenas for Mrs. Horst, Lydia Regan, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ewert, 2631 23d place [in whose home the baby was born], and all were served yesterday, with the exception of Donald's mother, who could not be found.

MRS. HORST WEEPS IN COURT

Mrs. Horst's eyes were red from weeping when she and her husband came into the crowded courtroom with their attorney, I. Harvey Levinson. She was pale and nervous, and her paleness was emphasized by her black crêpe dress.

Levinson presented the foster parents' adoption petition and asked that they be given temporary custody for the child's best interests.

"The child was surrendered at birth to the Horsts," Levinson said. "Since then it has been taken care of by Mrs. Horst as her own child."

Mrs. Horst then took the witness stand.

Q.—How long have you lived in Chicago? A.—Eleven years.

Q.—Where were you born? A.—Duluth, Minn.

Q.—When did you marry Otto Horst? A.—June 12, 1928.

Q.—When did you first obtain possession of this child? A.—On Jan. 4, 1935.

Q.—That was about the day he was born? A.—Yes.

Tells of Medical Care.

Q.—Did you personally attend the baby? A.—All the time. I had a maid, but she took care of the house. Nobody else laid hands on that baby."

Mrs. Horst said Donald had necessary inoculations and vaccinations, and periodic dental examinations.

She identified a bank book with $148 deposits in Donald's name and $300 in government savings bonds in his name. Asked if she intended to give the child a good education, she replied: "O, I do. I do."

Mrs. Horst said her husband had given up his interests in the Z-Grand hotel at 40-42 North Halsted street, now called the Randel, which was the scene of several vice raids.

Intervening Petition Filed.

John R. Sullivan, attorney, filed an intervening petition on behalf of Lydia Regan, asking that the court inquire into her legal rights. Sullivan is an associate of James E. Daniels, who said he had been engaged by Mrs. Ewert to see that Lydia Regan's interests were protected.

A young, curly haired woman who identified herself as Mrs. Ada Fox but declined to reveal her address also appeared in the blood mother's interests. Mrs. Fox said she had two children of her own and wanted to help the mother. Mrs. Fox said she had a lawyer. The judge advised her to consult the blood mother.

Donald came to court in the arms of Deputy Sherif Mary Deverman. A grave child in a brown and yellow suit, he sat in Judge Jarecki's lap as the hearing was closed.

The Horsts were overjoyed at the prospect of having Donald back. Rushing to him, Mrs. Horst took the child into her arms. She and Horst then left the courtroom, all smiles, with the child for whose possession they are fighting.

Test Homing Instinct

[One-fourth natural size.]

Wilson's petrel, commonly called the stormy petrel, of the type to be released from ocean liner to test their homing instinct.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 9.—A new experiment in ornithology is to be made aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Britain now en route to Quebec from England by Dr. William Rowan, professor of zoölogy at London university.

Dr. Rowan, a passenger, has with him a number of stormy petrels, small dark plumaged birds of great endurance, and plans to release them from the liner to test their homing instinct and powers of flight.

They will be released from the liner in two batches, one when the ship is half way across the Atlantic, and the second group when the liner reaches the Strait of Belle Isle. The birds are marked for identification. It is expected they will reach home off the coast of Scotland in a comparatively short time.

SPANISH REBELS TAKE 3 MEN OFF FRENCH STEAMER

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Reports from Las Palmas in the Canary Islands today said Spanish rebels forced three Spanish passengers off the French steamer Marechal Lyautey after threatening the crew with machine guns.

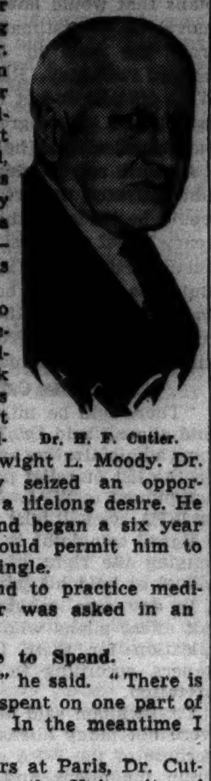
Rebel authorities notified the ship's captain the passengers were wanted for military service, but the crew refused to allow the trio to disembark. When the captain, acting on the advice of the French consul, ordered the three passengers off, the crew defied him.

Rebel officials returned with machine guns and sent 100 soldiers aboard. After scuffles the crew was segregated in the stern under guard and the Spaniards were escorted ashore.

TEACHER ON WAY AT 75 TO TAKE MEDICAL DEGREE

Will Go to Vienna for Final Two Years.

East Northfield, Mass., Aug. 9.—(AP)—At an age when most men are drawing up their wills and living life leisurely, Dr. Henry Franklin Cutler, 75 year old former headmaster of Mount Hermon school, is studying as hard as any freshman on a medical course—working for his M. D.



Dr. H. F. Cutler.

Five years ago Dr. Cutler retired as headmaster — a task to which he was called by Mount Hermon's founder, Evangelist Dwight L. Moody. Dr. Cutler promptly seized an opportunity to realize a lifelong desire. He went to Paris and began a six year course which would permit him to hang out his shingle.

"Do you intend to practice medicine?" Dr. Cutler was asked in an interview.

Lifetime to Spend.

"Who knows?" he said. "There is a lifetime to be spent on one part of the body alone. In the meantime I keep studying."

After four years at Paris, Dr. Cutler transferred to the University of Vienna.

Here for a holiday, he plans to sail Sept. 8 to finish his course. He will take with him numerous books on which he has "boned" many hours this summer.

Dr. Cutler has spent nearly two-thirds of his life thus far as a teacher. Asked how it felt to "be on the other side of the fence," he laughingly said "it felt good."

Wants to Keep Going Up.

Pressed for a reason for starting his medical career, Dr. Cutler explained, with gestures:

"They say that a man stops going this way [his hands swept upward] he starts going this way [and his hand dropped]. I hope to continue upward."

Often during his busy teaching career, Dr. Cutler said, he had been fascinated by the study of medicine but never had the opportunity to more than glance through medical books. He thought of a long vacation when he retired—but he reckoned without Mrs. Cutler.

G. O. P. WILL SEEK AID OF ANTI-ROOSEVELT DEMOCRATS IN 1938

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—An alliance with anti-Roosevelt Democrats is one of the subjects suggested for discussion at a proposed Republican rally next winter, or spring, G. O. P. leaders said today.

They reported some party members favor iniviting anti-administration Democrats to run on the Republican ticket in the congressional elections next year.

An alternative proposal, that the Republican party change its name so Democrats may enlist without going under the banner of their traditional foe, has aroused little enthusiasm over the country, leaders declared.

It was said in informed circles that talk of arranging the national Republican gathering sprang up about the time of Herbert Hoover's recent eastern visit. The former President, sightseeing today in Yellowstone Park, made no comment.

John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, told reporters he was aware of the proposals for the meeting.

The general purpose of the rally, as outlined privately by other leaders, would be to re-invigorate the party and consider tactics for the 1938 elections.

EX-CONVICT SENT TO BRIDEWELL.

Edward Lind, 26 years old, an ex-convict, was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge George B. Weiss in Felony court on a charge of malicious mischief. He was arrested after attacking Otto Strohm, 59, caretaker of a building at 4609 Magnolia avenue.

WPA DROPS PLAN TO TAKE ALIENS OFF STATE ROLL

Officials in Washington Override Congress.

Works Progress administration officials in Washington have canceled plans that would have meant the removal of an estimated 5,000 aliens from the rolls in Illinois, it was learned yesterday. Reports were that WPA officials do not favor the policy established by congress on June 29, barring aliens from holding WPA jobs.

A month ago Charles E. Miner, state administrator, declared that a review would be made by the Illinois Emergency Relief commission to determine aliens certified to WPA by the IERC. But this plan has been dropped, it was disclosed, since the receipt of contrary instructions from Harry Hopkins, national administrator.

Review Is Called Off.

"There will be no review made to find aliens," said Dr. Martin H. Bickham, administrative assistant, "except on the list of relief persons awaiting assignment to WPA. As to those now on WPA, we will take no action unless a signed complaint is sent to us challenging the right of a specific individual to hold his job."

In any case, congress' policy does not affect aliens who have made application for their first citizenship papers, according to Hopkins' interpretation.

Dr. Bickham said he believed there were not many aliens on WPA rolls because of the WPA educational program for aliens and the efforts of social workers in their behalf.

1,085 Get Final Papers.

"Case workers have been pushing them into classes so they may become naturalized," said Dr. Bickham. "Most aliens have been warned that congress eventually would take the action it finally did take on June 29."

At the office of the WPA adult education project it was learned that in the last year 6,500 have attended special citizenship classes. Of these 1,085 obtained their final papers, 2,400 applied for their final papers, and 1,115 obtained their first papers.

Dr. Bickham said that the reduction program of the WPA has brought the number of pay rollers down to 112,000 as of last week, compared with 150,000 in the spring.

JUDGE REJECTS GUILTY PLEA BY SLAYER OF GIRL

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Lawrence Marks, 49 years old, an ex-convict who has confessed slaying and raping 8 year old Paula Magagna of Brooklyn, tried to plead guilty to murder in the second degree today when he was arraigned in the Kings County court on an indictment charging him with murder in the first degree.

Lawrence Marks.

Judge Peter J. Brancato refused to accept the plea after District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Kings county had told him that such a plea was not "acceptable to the district attorney." He remanded Marks to jail without bail to await trial on the indictment, which was returned in fifty-five minutes to the Kings county grand jury.

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The investigation of the killing of Miss Irma Padier, a French hospital domestic, by Mounted Patrolman Arthur Chalmers turned today to finding what became of $314 she is known to have had with her when she went to meet her married policeman boy friend on July 19.

Two days after he had killed her, according to his confession, he went on an eight day motor trip in a new motor car with Mrs. Vera Lorden, who lives with her husband at 121 Seaman avenue, Police Commissioner Valentine said in outlining the new developments in the case.

Since his wife and two children, with whom the policeman lived, required money on which to live while he was on his vacation, and as his vacation pay amounted to only $200, the commissioner said he was looking into the source of the money which Chalmers and Mrs. Lorden spent on their trip.

YOUTH CLEARED IN EX-CONVICT'S ROBBERY TOUR

John Elliston, 16 years old, 4847 Winthrop avenue, arrested Saturday in company of an ex-convict who toured middlewestern states on a career of robbery with his young wife and their 14 month old baby, was freed yesterday by Lake county authorities.

The ex-convict, Harold W. Dean, of 936 Leland avenue, is awaiting arrival of detectives from Kansas to return him for robbery. He has waived extradition, according to Thomas F. Kennedy, chief deputy sherif.

The child, Robert, is being cared for in the home of Walter Dienes, 4813 North Lincoln avenue. He was brought there by Mrs. Helen Dowd, sister of Dean. Dienes said yesterday he did not know Dean but that his wife was a friend of Mrs. Dowd.

LAST OF ACCUSED CHASERS SENT TO JAIL FOR 8 DAYS

Two Others Start Serving Thirty Day Terms.

With the sentencing of George L. West, confessed ambulance chaser, to eight days in the county jail yesterday, the ambulance chasing prosecutions launched last December were brought to a close. Three defendants are in jail, three are free on bond pending appeal, and four others have been acquitted.

West, roly-poly star witness for the state in the chaser trials, pleaded guilty to conspiracy with intent to defraud the Chicago Surface Lines before Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley in Criminal court on two counts, each involving a different street car accident as a result of which fake injury claims were filed. Assistant State's Attorney James A. Brown recommended that West's sentence expire on Aug. 17—his birthday—and this was granted.

Two Others Start Terms.

Two other men began serving 30 day sentences yesterday for their part in the fake accident claims conspiracy. They are Attorney Drake L. Berg and Joseph Nieman, 50 years old, 2237 West 18th street. Both pleaded guilty.

Last April two men and a woman, convicted of a part in the conspiracy, were sentenced to the county jail. They are Attorney Leo M. Tarpey and Edward Feeley of 2243 West 71st street, each of whom got a year, and Feeley's wife, Frances, who got a three months' term. These sentences are being appealed. The accident on which this case was based occurred last Aug. 31 at Fillmore street and Kedzie avenue.

Four Freed in Another Case.

Last Wednesday a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Peter H. Schwaba freed Attorneys Murphy O. Tate, George N. Welch and Tarpey, and Dr. Andrew B. Rotche on ambulance chasing charges involving another accident last Nov. 20 at Clark and 18th streets.

In this case 30 claims for personal injuries were filed by persons who said they were passengers on a street car which was later shown to have been empty.

$4,000,000 CAFE CHAIN OF RAKLIOS SOLD FOR $86,500

Owner Sees Friends Lose Bankruptcy Bids.

The auctioneer's hammer banged down on the Raklios chain of restaurants yesterday, salvaging only $86,500 of the one time $4,000,000 fortune of a former Greek immigrant, John Raklios, founder of the restaurant chain, who came to Chicago from Athens in 1901 with only $10.

Raklios, 58 years old, watched the sale wet-eyed and silent. A group of friends surrounded him. They had bid as high as they could—$85,000—to save the restaurants for him. The sale over, Raklios returned to his palatial home at 6326 Sheridan road which he purchased for $70,000 several years ago. Whether he loses this home too, only time can tell.

Liabilities Exceed $200,000.

The auction was held before Archie H. Cohen, federal referee in bankruptcy. Thirteen Raklios restaurants in various parts of the city were involved. Liabilities exceeding $200,000 stand against them. Bids on the stores had been held previously, and yesterday's were to be the final ones. Among the bidders were Herbert Byfield and Harry E. Rice, owners of White City; John R. Thompson, restaurant chain head, and B. H. Matthews, a lawyer.

At the initial bids two weeks ago Mr. Thompson had offered $65,000, but Referee Cohen had refused it. Some one else bid $75,000, and then Mr. Thompson raised it to $78,000. The bidding was resumed from this figure yesterday. Under Referee Cohen's promptings the offers rose slowly, with Attorney Matthews, who had not previously appeared in the auction, taking part.

Bid of Friends Is Beaten.

Rice and Byfield, representing a group including Raklios, finally bid $85,000. Then Mr. Thompson said $86,000. Mr. Matthews raised this figure $500. No one offered to better the $86,500 bid.

Referee Cohen, unable to get a higher bid, asked a recommendation from Marshall Keig, trustee of the restaurant properties, and Mr. Keig urged acceptance of the Matthews bid.

The bidding lasted from 2:10 to 4:15 p. m., unusually long. At the end, John H. Lyle, counsel for Rice and Byfield, asked a postponement on the chance he might find a bid of $90,000. However, unless his request is granted by Federal Judge Woodward and the bidding reopened the thirteen restaurants will go to Attorney Matthews' clients. They are reported to be either the Childs interests of New York or the Triangle restaurants here.

Only Two Show Profit.

The hearing before Referee Cohen revealed that only two of the thirteen restaurants were operating profitably. Separate bids were made on only four of the thirteen for a total of $51,700. The Raklios commissary at 247 East Ontario, mostly occupied by a night club, was not involved in yesterday's sale. It is to be sold later. It is encumbered by $202,200 in mortgages.

Raklios built his restaurant chain from almost nothing. In 1901 he peddled apples in loop buildings. Then he opened a hamburger stand. In 1906 he opened his first restaurant at 489 South State street. By 1918 he had several successful restaurants at choice locations. He once operated twenty-four.

Slaying Investigated

Florence Barton of Kansas City as she appeared shortly before she was slain in 1920. A North Carolina prisoner has confessed the crime.

Andrews, N. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—T. O. Sleyton, superintendent of the state prison camp here, said today he places credence in the statement of a camp prisoner, Clyde Cummings, 40 years old, that he killed Florence Barton of Kansas City in 1920.

Sleyton said the prisoner told him that "another party" had paid him $200 to kill the girl. The superintendent would not disclose the other person's name until Cummings' story has been investigated. Cummings is serving a nine month sentence for posing as a revenue official.

Miss Barton was shot to death near Kansas City when she and her fiancé, Howard R. Winter, were sitting in a car on a lonely road. Another car drew up and one of three men in it leaped out and shot her.

Held as Tipsy Driver, He Sets Fire to His Jail Cell

Albert J. Decker, 23 years old, 1461 Berwyn avenue, who was arrested Sunday for driving while intoxicated after his automobile was involved in a three car collision in Antioch, set fire to the mattress and sheets in his Lake county jail cell at Waukegan yesterday. After the blaze was extinguished Decker was held in bonds of $5,000 on charges of drunken and reckless driving, malicious mischief, disorderly conduct, and driving with fictitious license plates.

U. S. HOMES SHUT TO NEEDY; GIVEN TO PROSPEROUS

Building and Loan League Protests to Congress.

BY THORNTON SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—A protest that Parklawn, the new government housing project here, is supplying superior, tax free, low cost homes to tenants well able to pay for them and denying applications for space from the people of low wages has been sent to all members of the Wisconsin congressional delegation by Carl Taylor, secretary of the Milwaukee Building and Loan league.

With his protest Taylor sent a case history of the first of the 127 tenants accepted for the project, a family with a fixed income of $1,820 a year, steadily employed at the same place for fifteen years, a family man, and the type of regular tenant for whom a private landlord's mouth waters, Taylor said.

Relief Denied Truly Needy.

"We have affidavits from a number of persons living in actual slum conditions, but with steady jobs, who were denied admission to Parklawn," the letter to Wisconsin congressmen explained. "Apparently the Parklawn authorities took the most affluent tenants they could locate and gave no thought to housing relief for the truly needy."

The Building and Loan league, which fought a long fight to have tenants for Parklawn selected from persons earning $1,000 a year or less, is making further investigations of the circumstances of Parklawn tenants and expects to make further protests to Washington.

City Must Provide Services.

Parklawn is a project of the General Emergency Administration of Public Works, under Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes. It is located on the northwest side of Milwaukee, in a new residential section. It has no detached homes but comprises a group of modern apartment buildings with space for 518 families. It is federal government property and free from local taxes. The taxpayers of Milwaukee, Taylor points out, are expected to provide schools, fire, sewer, and water services.

The city at one time offered to supply these services free if the project were filled with tenants of less than $1,000 annual income. If it were made to serve as a poor relief or slum clearing project and held to the lower income classes, the council was willing to donate the necessary public services on a basis of charity.

Revenue Problem Unsettled.

The question of whether the city will receive any revenue from the 518 families it must serve in Parklawn has not been settled.

In the case history of the first tenant, the Building and Loan league continues, he not only has a steady income but has a building and loan investment of $1,400 and several hundred dollars in another investment. He is 39 years old, living with his wife, a daughter 16 years old, sons 14 and 12 years old, and an infant daughter. He lived for the last five years in a two family apartment on North Holton street.

"Do you think," the league asked Senator F. Ryan Duffy, "that the federal government should build this man a house to live in and take it off the local tax roll so the community will have to school his children and furnish him services at the expense of those who earn much less?"

Quotes A. F. of L. Figures.

Taylor quoted American Federation of Labor figures to show that the average earning of a laboring man in the city of Milwaukee is slightly under $100 a month.

Raymond A. Voigt, housing manager of Parklawn, was asked by the Building and Loan league if this tenant were a typical case, but Voigt did not answer, Taylor said. Voigt explained, however, that the tenant was certified because of the overcrowded condition and the location of his home, which was on a street car line and in the immediate vicinity of a local business district which included several taverns.

"The facts clearly justify the action taken, and while the income may seem somewhat high, it does not seem excessive for the needs of a family of this size," Voigt explained.

The actual cost of the Parklawn project has not been made public. Forty-five per cent of the unknown cost is an outright gift by the United States government, Taylor said. The remaining 55 per cent is to be returned to the government in thirty-five years, with interest at 3.5 per cent.

Greendale, the subsistence project, a suburban development of 3,000 acres just outside of Milwaukee in Waukesha county, will not be ready for tenants until next year. This is the Tugwell homes project of the resettlement administration. It will have 750 units, mostly single homes.

COPELAND RAPS ROOSEVELT FOR ACTIVITY IN N. Y.

Real Object Is to Aid La Guardia, He Says.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.] charged today that President Roosevelt, through his intervention in the New York mayoralty contest, was beginning the first of a series of reprisals against senators "who had the temerity to oppose his will on the court packing measure."

Senator Copeland, the Tammany candidate for the mayoralty nomination, made his allegations on the basis of dispatches from Hyde Park, N. Y., saying the President had thrown his support to former Supreme Court Justice Jeremiah T. Mahoney at a conference with Edward J. Flynn, secretary of state and Democratic leader of the Bronx.

Object to "Destroy Party."

Senator Copeland accused Mr. Roosevelt of trying to destroy the Democratic party and said his real candidate for mayor of New York was Fiorello La Guardia, radical Republican incumbent, and "his band of Socialists, communists, and other radicals."

"The President wants La Guardia," Copeland said. "If he thought I would be a weak candidate against La Guardia he would be for me.

"Mr. Roosevelt is not a voter in New York City. Why should he attempt to dictate to the Democrats of my city what they should do? Our contest there is in the primary, a democratic institution set up to permit every enrolled voter to express his personal preference for mayor.

Government Not Democratic.

"But government in the United States is no longer democratic, with a big 'D' or a small 'd.' It is largely personal, dictated by the White House. At least we have in the United States personal dictatorship, if not political dictatorship."

Dr. Copeland today proposed a constitutional amendment prohibiting a third term for Presidents. Attainment of the office by succession would constitute one term, under the amendment.

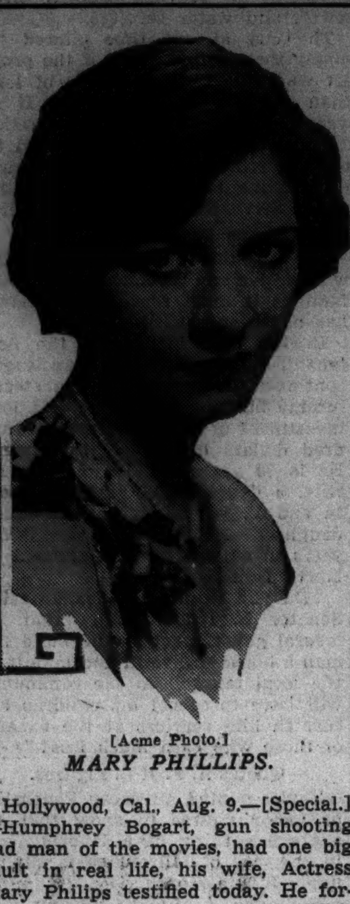
Other Democratic senators who have opposed the policies of the Roosevelt administration, particularly the ill fated court packing scheme, are watching the New York mayoralty contest with great interest, for they believe it will show whether and to what extent the President is slipping, what influence he can be expected to wield in the 1938 congressional elections and in the 1940 convention, and whether he will be able to designate his successor if he does not run for a third term.

TRIES HOSPITAL FOR CHANGE AND GETS $25 WORTH

A well dressed man who seemed to typify the successful business executive called at Presbyterian hospital yesterday and said he needed a rest. He represented himself as the patient of a prominent staf physician and engaged a room at $12.50 a day. He gave his name as Garron.

The man went to his room, but returned to the hospital office soon afterward and said he had no ready money for incidentals and would they cash a small check for $25. The check was cashed. Soon afterward the patient disappeared.

DIVORCES ACTOR



[Acme Photo.]
MARY PHILLIPS.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Humphrey Bogart, gun shooting bad man of the movies, had one big fault in real life, his wife, Actress Mary Philips testified today. He forgot to come home at night. With testimony about this and other grievances, Miss Philips won a divorce from the actor who figured in both stage and screen versions of "Petrified Forest." Miss Philips testified that Bogart informed her he no longer loved her and that he preferred life as a single man.

Miss Philips played the stage lead in "The House Beautiful," "The Old Soak," and several George M. Cohan shows on Broadway and was in "Farewell to Arms," Life Begins," "Wings Over Honolulu," and "Maytime."

Bogart formerly had been married to Actress Helen Menken. They were divorced in 1927.

DENY ROOSEVELT IS TAKING SIDES IN N. Y. PRIMARY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight ended his visit to his family estate on the Hudson river where he spent three days in selecting a successor to Willis Van Devanter, retired justice of the United States Supreme court.

He gave no hint that he had made a decision on his nominee. It was said he had "explored the situation."

The New York mayoralty race diverted the President from his task. He was annoyed by reports, occasioned by the visit of Edward Flynn, Bronx political leader, that he had thrown the weight of his administration solidly behind Jeremiah T. Mahoney, anti-Tammany Democrat, who is opposing Senator Royal S. Copeland, choice of the Democratic wigwam.

"The President repeated today for the thousandth time that he has not taken part, is not taking part and will not take part in any local primary election, except in his home town and home county," Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, said.

Airman Faces Trial for Low Flying Over Crowd

Madison, Wis., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Merle Buck of Corona, S. D., charged with having piloted an airplane too low over a crowd attending a carnival at Middleton last week, pleaded innocent in Superior court today. He was placed under $200 bond for trial Thursday.

SABATH'S BOND QUIZ EMPLOYES CALLED CROOKS

House Agrees to Pay $7,139 Overdraft.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Employés of the Sabath bondholders investigating committee were assailed as "crooks" on the floor of the house today when Representative Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.] sought to obtain another $7,139 for his committee which has spent $110,000.

The Sabath committee, it was brought out, has retained a number of persons on the pay roll and has incurred big stenographic, telephone, and telegraph expenses although it officially expired last Jan. 1 and had exhausted all its funds.

$50,000 More Sought.

Sabath early this session had attempted to obtain authorization for continuance of the committee and an extra $50,000 appropriation. At that time, Representative Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.] protested vigorously and drew attention to several aspects of the committee's activities which needed investigating.

Sabath had denied that his committee had overextended itself and appealed to the house for a continuance of the investigation as "a vindication." After the house today, by a vote of 199 to 92, agreed to pay the $7,139 bills, Sabath moved to lay the continuing resolution on the table. None objected.

Taber Fights Payment.

Representative John Taber [R., N. Y.] led the fight against payment of the bills.

"There is a payment of $5,843 to one Murray Garsson involved here," he declared. "I am informed that he has been indicted several times and is notorious in the criminal circles of this country in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping case.

"Then there is a Joseph Tupy, who sent out letters on committee stationery soliciting the deposit of bonds. He's on here for $500."

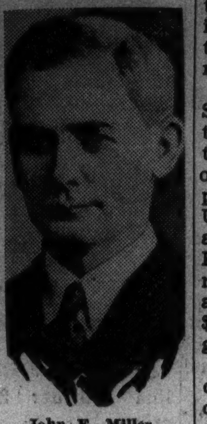
Representative Claude A. Fuller [D., Ark.], a member of the Sabath committee, attempted to reply to these charges.

"I don't know if Garsson was a crook or not, but his work was eminently satisfactory," he remarked.

Sabath also offered a defense of Tupy.

"Mr. Tupy is no crook," he said. "He is a gentleman. I have known him from childhood."

PICK CONGRESSMAN TO OPPOSE ARKANSAS GOVERNOR FOR SENATE



John E. Miller.

Little Rock, Ark., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Congressman John E. Miller of the 2d Arkansas district was nominated today in a "rank and file" convention of Democrats to oppose Gov. Carl E. Bailey for the United States senate seat left vacant by the late Joe T. Robinson.

The self-assembled convention repudiated the recent action of the state Democratic committee which rejected petitions for a party primary.

Miller was nominated by acclamation. His was the only name considered at the meeting, which showed on its roll call the names of representatives from 46 of the state's 75 counties.

Gov. Bailey, who has not yet issued the special election call, declined comment on the day's developments.

Conn House, Valparaiso's Oldest Hotel, to Be Razed

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The Conn house, the city's oldest hostelry, built in 1851, has been condemned as a fire hazard and will be razed. During the building of the Pennsylvania railroad from Valparaiso to Chicago it was used by railroad workers.

LEVINE, FLYER OF OCEAN, NAMED IN SMUGGLING PLOT

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Charles A. Levine, former scrap metal dealer whose troubles began shortly after he and Clarence Chamberlin, aviator, flew from New York to Germany in the old Columbia, is in trouble with the federal authorities on charges of smuggling, it was revealed today.

A complaint on file with United States Commissioner Garret W. Cotter charges Levine with facilitating the transportation and concealment of some 5,000 pounds of tungsten powder which was smuggled into the United States from Canada in the fall and winter of last year. John H. Klugh, Negro train porter, also is named as a defendant and both he and Levine have been released in $500 bail each for the action of the grand jury.

Tungsten powder pays an import duty of $1 a pound, almost 100 per cent of its value. The tungsten powder was smuggled into the United States, it was learned, by train porters in small packets.

DEBOWSKI GAINS SLIGHTLY AFTER NEW TRANSFUSION

Lige Debowski, citizen hero, who is in a critical condition in the County hospital from bullet wounds suffered in a gun fight with two bandits whom he shot to death three weeks ago, was givin his fourteenth blood transfusion yesterday. With his temperature fluctuating downward, his condition last night was described as slightly improved. He is not out of danger, but the longer he survives the better are his chances for complete recovery, physicians said.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—A, B, and C Janik are no more.

The girl triplets born June 29 to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Janik are now Joyce, Joan, and Jeanette, respectively. They were christened yesterday at St. Ladislas' church here. The Rev. Ladislas Necid performed the ceremony, which was attended by the family and friends of the Janiks.

ATTY. GENERAL SNUBS SNELL ON DEMOCRAT SLUSH

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Attorney General Homer S. Cummings today refused to give House Minority Leader Bertrand H. Snell an opinion as to the legality of the sale of Democratic national convention programs to corporations at $250 per copy. The programs contained President Roosevelt's autograph.

Snell has a resolution pending calling for an investigation of the sales as a violation of the federal corrupt practices act which forbids contributions to political campaigns by corporations.

Cummings informed Snell in a letter released today that the department was making an inquiry. But he declined to express an opinion as to the legality of the sales. He added that the attorney general may give opinions only to the President and heads of departments on projected legislation.

EYES of one who strives for perfection
Pupils large; gaze steadfast, piercing and intent. Wrinkles or folds in upper lids and at eyes' outer edges. The center of heavy, ruffled brows lies close to the eyes—drooping down to the very root of the nose. The two strong, deep perpendicular furrows on a knobby forehead constitute the most marked identifying facial feature of this type.

LIPS of one who is hard to convince
The lips are generally long and thin—or give that impression, because of the firmness with which the mouth muscles are held. The outline of the lips is a sharply defined one, although the lips themselves present a slightly crinkled appearance. Beneath the lower lip, the chin is particularly broad—but angular and projecting at the tip.

RULING ON BABY'S PATERNITY ASKED IN DIVORCE FIGHT

Edward G. Kuehn Denies He's the Father.

The paternity of a baby girl, less than 2 months old, was the chief point of contention yesterday between Mrs. Verna G. Kuehn, 2817 Logan boulevard, and her husband, Edward C. Kuehn, a real estate broker, who is suing her for divorce.

Mrs. Verna Kuehn.

The baby, Patricia Anne, was born last June 16, entering the case as a surprise factor. Less than a month before, at another hearing, Kuehn had offered testimony that his wife, who is 30 years old, was guilty of misconduct with a Milwaukee man at their summer home near Mercer, Wis., last September.

In an amended bill Kuehn asked the court to determine the paternity of the baby. He alleged that the last time he and Mrs. Kuehn lived together as man and wife was Aug. 5, 1936.

Judge Defers Ruling.

Judge Joseph B. David indicated yesterday he would grant Kuehn the divorce, but deferred final ruling until Aug. 22, when both sides will present written arguments on the question of paternity of Patricia Anne and custody of her and two older children, Elsie, 9, and Charles, 6.

In the absence of conclusive proof to the contrary, Judge David said he would rule that Kuehn is the baby's father. Kuehn's lawyer, Benjamin S. Leiser, said that at the next hearing he would summon physicians to testify it was physically impossible for Kuehn to have been the father.

"It is up to the husband to establish the question of parentage," Judge David declared. "The law assumes he is the father until proven otherwise.

Indicates Possible Decision.

"In this case I may take a short cut and hold that although Mrs. Kuehn is guilty of misconduct she is not an unfit mother. If I rule this way I would give her the baby and divide the custody of the older children."

"Don't you think that is hard on the children?" asked Mrs. Kuehn, who was on the witness stand.

"It may be," replied Judge David, "but you are responsible for this situation according to the record here."

Mrs. Kuehn lowered her head, blushed, and hastily wiped away a few tears. Previously she had testified that she lived with Kuehn after the alleged misconduct, which occurred between Sept. 10 and Sept. 16 last year.

TEXANS TAR AND FEATHER A RED LABOR AGITATOR

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A confessed communist who identified himself as Herbert Harris, 41, of New Haven, Mo., was tarred and feathered here tonight and dumped from a car in front of the Dallas News building after he had exhibited a labor picture from a portable sound and film truck.

Preceding the attack, according to Sherif Smoot Schmid, there was a near riot in Fretz park, where the picture was being shown. When found by the sherif the victim was dressed only in his underwear, socks, and shoes. Crude oil and feathers covered virtually his whole body.

This attack followed by a few hours a similar affair in which George Baer, 38, a vice president of the United Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers of America, a C. I. O. affiliate, was the victim.

PASTOR PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF SLAYING CHARGE

Trial was set for Nov. 15. After the hearing the pastor was taken back to his cell where he is being held without bond.

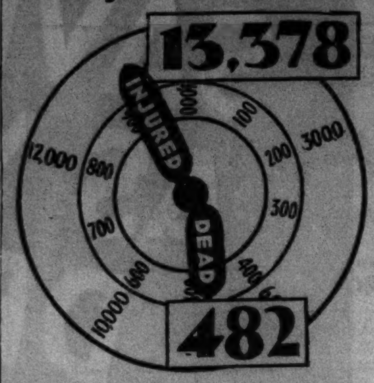
THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1937 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Keeps His Engine on Rails, but Wife Appeals to Judge

Mrs. Lulu Doarin, 7924 Harvard avenue, told Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday that her husband, George, a locomotive engineer, threatened to mow her down by running his engine across her lawn. Her attorney, Norman Becker, said Doarin had ejected her from the home he gave her after she dismissed her first divorce bill last fall. Judge Finnegan granted Mrs. Doarin $10 a week temporary alimony, and continued the question of ownership of the home.

COLLISION KILLS TRUCK DRIVER, 16, AND INJURES TWO

Vehicle Strikes Auto at West Side Crossing.

A young motorist was killed and two other persons were injured last night in a collision of a small truck and a passenger car at Division street and Kostner avenue. The victim was William Serafini, 16 years old, 5424 Division street, whose family operates the Serafini Baking company at that address.

He was driving west in Division street in a baking truck, accompanied by a friend, Robert Chichester, 18, of 5456 Division street, when he drove into the rear of an auto crossing north in Kostner avenue. The driver of this car was Mrs. Maud Swelbach, 52, of 2437 North Rockwell street. With her was Miss Anna Krup, 37, of 3940 Byron street.

Serafini's truck turned over several times, crushing him underneath and decapitating him. His companion suffered rib fractures and possible internal injuries. Miss Krup's skull was fractured. Mrs. Swelbach escaped unhurt. The injured were taken to Danish-American hospital.

Four Killed in Indiana.

Four persons were fatally injured and five hurt yesterday in an automobile collision, six miles southeast of Lafayette, Ind. Three of the dead and two of the injured are Chicagoans. The Chicago party was driving home from a wedding in Cincinnati.

The dead were Alex Sanders, 54 years old, Central Park avenue and 15th street, his wife, Jennie, 51; Albert Brooks, 154 South Central Park avenue, and Mrs. Fannie Turetsky, 58, of New York City, a sister of Sanders.

Mrs. Brooks and Harry Eisenstein were the injured Chicagoans. Others hurt were Norman J. Atkins of Bonham, Tex., his wife, and their baby, 6 months old. The Atkins family was in one car, the Sanders, Brooks, Mrs. Turetsky, and Eisenstein in the other.

Walter Ostrowski, 10 years old, 1055 West 47th place, who was injured yesterday when he slipped under the wheels of a truck on which he was attempting to steal a ride, died early today in the Evangelical hospital. His skull had been fractured. Julius Pioharski, 19 years old, 1015 West 47th place, the driver, was not held.

Verdict in Policeman's Death.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest over Frank Tamulis, 26, of 4344 South Hermitage avenue, a state highway policeman of the Blue Island station. Tamulis was fatally injured earlier in the day when his motorcycle crashed into the rear of a truck on the Southwest highway near Oak Lawn.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Michael Mardersian, 40, of 600 North Clark street, be held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter. The verdict was returned at the inquest over Julian Gurzec, 40, of 1501 Cortez street. Gurzec was fatally hurt last Saturday at Ashland avenue and Augusta boulevard by an automobile driven by Mardersian.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 624 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. Of these, 482 were killed in Chicago, where 13,378 were injured in the same period.

TEN DRIVERS SENTENCED

Judge Charles S. Dougherty lectured a group of erratic drivers yesterday in Safety court on the wisdom of driving carefully on Sundays as well as on week days. He suspended the driving privileges of ten motorists, bringing to 100 the total of those who have been so penalized since the new Illinois driving law went into effect last July 15.

Judge Dougherty also sentenced three of the ten drivers to jail and fined the other seven.

"The number of trafic offenders has been decreasing through the week," the judge observed, "but every Monday a crowd of wild week-end drivers appears."

Steve Majcinik, 28 years old, 1628 Greenview avenue [Holt street], and Seaborn J. Davis, 27, of 4255 Milwaukee avenue, were jailed for 10 days for drunken driving and barred from the driver's wheel for six months and four months, respectively. Joseph Kenneally, 44, of 9630 Forest avenue, got five days in jail and a 90 day suspension of driving privileges for reckless driving.

Lose Driving Privileges.

Others whose driving privileges were suspended and the length of suspension:

Ernest Rasmunson, 57, of 2430 South Troy street, 90 days; Walter K. Pawlowski, 28, of 2112 West 24th street, 90 days.; Walter Majchowski, 32, of 1228 North Maplewood avenue, 90 days; John Jackson, 23, of 4413 Evans avenue, colored, 90 days; George Hanson, 24, of 10634 Langley avenue, 60 days; John Damijan, 23, of 311 West 53d street, 30 days; John Davis, 23, of 4317 St. Lawrence avenue, colored, 30 days.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve

FEMININITY SLANDERED

By CALEB

EVER since Mr. Kipling took the worst view of things and dubbed woman "a rag, a bone, and a hank of hair," there has been a tendency among the League of Belittlers to disparage everything beautiful and feminine.

We talked with a man recently who said Florida was a pot-pie of alligators, sand flies, swamp, and sunburn. We discounted his opinions for two reasons. First, he was a Californian, and second, we knew better anyway.

Some states are characterized primarily as being industrial or manufacturing. They escape such withering criticisms as the above, for they do not largely maintain their sovereignty through feminine virtues like landscape, beauty, and breeze. They are commonplace — our big business states — and no more is expected of them than to be commonplace.

But states like Florida are expected to be perfect and of beauty without blemish. That's because they beguile with the blandishments of recreation, and are dependent on the expenditures of people from sections where sordid commerce holds sway. Being perfect is their profession—or so presumes the most exacting class which patronizes them.

This is a strange and difficult thing to explain. It has its parallels in many fields, however. Who serves beauty or the arts must meet standards above ordinary. The violinist who plays in the symphony can never be forgiven slips which do no discredit to the fiddler who strokes dance tunes from a violin. The luxurious automobile for pleasure must be above the vulgar regurgitations, known as backfire, permitted in trucks.

The cartoonist who draws pictures to produce prejudice can resort to compromises with art not permitted the fine arts painter. A work horse can slouch, but a show horse must have stance.

In regard to all such exacting standards at least, the department store is of feminine gender. In common with all artists, and all appealers to taste, it is expected to be refined utterly, and without blemish. But it has also to fulfill many masculine characteristics. It cannot fail in the hard-as-nails functions of scouring the earth for merchandise, of rendering required service in the face of all difficulties, and of operating on a business basis. Striving to live up to such standards is good for us.

QUACK DETECTS ARM PAINS BY GLEAM IN EYE

But Astrology and Yogi Lore Will Cure All.

the right," he said, peering into her eyes.

"Why, doctor, how did you know?" the patient asked.

"I could tell by looking at your left eye," he said impressively.

He hitched his chair a little closer. "When were you born?" he asked mysteriously.

"In June."

"O-ho," he said, lifting his dark eyebrows, "between May 21 and June 21, huh?"

The reporter, not liking to disappoint him, agreed.

Ah! She's Under Mercury.

"I might have known," he said. "You're under Mercury. That means you are a superior person, very smart in school. But it also means you are weak through here," he said, clutching his chest and looking extremely ill. "Yes, weak in chest. And here, and here," he went on, warming to the subject and indicating the back of his visitor's neck and the middle of her back. "And in the arms, too."

"Do you mean I have tuberculosis?" the reporter asked.

"No," he said positively. "A Mercury person might have hemorrhage of the lungs, inflammation, or abscess of the lungs, anything but tuberculosis."

"Do you combine astrology with your work, Dr. Castello?" he was asked.

Much, Much Is Mental.

"I try to," he said, modestly. "I am not a spiritualist. I am a believer in the Yogi philosophy. A great Yogi taught me astrology and taught me that much is mental. If a man is well, he sends out health through his mind. He does it by his breath, like this," he said, breathing a great blast of garlic into the face of his visitor. "That is the health force. I will teach you how to breathe."

"Is there anything that you can do to help my pains?" his visitor asked.

"I can do everything that can be done. I can do anything any one else can do," he said, lifting his chin. He added majestically: "Remove your clothes and I will return."

Consents to Compromise.

He consented to a compromise, and the patient removed her blouse only. She lay on the home made table arrangement, covered with a clean sheet, and he placed a tattered but clean counterpane over her. He wheeled over a machine such as Doc Butler had used.

"This is a radio machine," he said. "It is the only machine which will go clear through the bone. That loosens up the nerves. Your blood stream and nerves are all run down."

He excused himself. He wanted to listen to the ball game on the radio, he said. He left the patient with pads on her shoulders, coming back on one occasion to ask her more questions about the C——s and herself. The patient told him she made $15 a week in a loop department store.

"That's nice," he said. "I'm glad you make so much. Mercury people are very mental. You should maybe get to be head of your department. You never married?"

Cure for a Disappointment.

"No," said the patient.

"Well, don't be discouraged. Mercury people marry late. You will find a man yet. You been disappointed?"

"Yes," his patient said lugubriously, "I was engaged a year ago, but I couldn't hold him, I guess."

"That's too bad," he said. "Here, I'm going to do this—" he said, placing one pad under his patient's back. "Often after a disappointment this helps."

He left the room again for a long period, returning to exchange the machine for a violet-ray lamp.

An Aid to Rheumatism.

"This will help your rheumatism," he said. "You'll have to come here every other day for a while and get these treatments to cure it. I could tell you to come once a month, but that wouldn't help."

"I don't think I can afford that," the patient said.

"Would you rather get down on your back with rheumatism?" he asked. "Look at your arm now. See the joint at the elbow?"

"What's wrong with it?"

"Why, your arms are out of joint. They're drawing up now. That's your rheumatism. Let that go on and you'll be in a bad state."

He then had the reporter wriggle up past the head of the table, on her stomach, so that her head hung down off the end. He clasped it in his hands and moved it gently from side to side.

Neck Bones Congested.

"My, that's bad, that's very bad," he said, shaking his head.

"What is, doctor?" asked his visitor.

"The bones in your neck should crack. But I can't crack them."

"What does that mean?"

"Congestion," he said, with a sinister frown. "Of course, all these things could be corrected with three treatments a week."

Next he massaged the back and said: "O—this is what is causing your rheumatism. You have a vertebra in the lower part of your spine out of place. I can get it back in place, of course. It will take a little time, though."

When the reporter had been there two hours he wound up his treatment, which cost $2. He had only $2 in change for a $5 bill, so his patient paid $1 on an advance treatment. He made out a receipt for this at her request, signing his name as "Dr."

4 OF THE QUINTS GET MILD COLDS; PUBLIC BARRED

Callander, Ont., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe said today that four of the Dionne quintuplets have developed "mild colds."

Emilie, who was isolated for five days with a sore throat, is now "quite well," the physician said, but the others—Yvonne, Annette, Cecile, and Marie—caught colds today.

Dr. Dafoe ordered that the tourist public be kept away from the children for two or three days. He said their condition caused no anxiety, and that they were given the run of the play yard.

Dr. Dafoe said the quintuplets caught their colds from an "outside" source.

"Due to the colds and the intense heat of the last few days the five little girls will not be visible to the public for the next two or three days, as this is somewhat of a strain on them," the physician said.

FIVE MORE CITED IN STATE WAR ON MEDICAL QUACKS

Warnings Will Be Served on 3 Men, 2 Women.

Five men and women were served late yesterday with citations to appear before John J. Halligan, director of the state department of registration and education, at 10:30 a. m. tomorrow, as part of the department's drive against medical act violations. They will be warned against practicing medicine without a license or otherwise violating the act.

Citations were served by department investigators against:

Mrs. Hilda S. Ahlborn, physical therapist, of 3449 North Kostner avenue.

"Dr." Theodore Schroeder, "metaphysician," of 5114 Berteau avenue.

Fee Cut for Testimonial.

Ullrich, according to department records, sold his radioactivity apparatus to Norris Brownlee and his wife, Gussie, of 4111 Grenshaw avenue. He usually charged $10, but sold it to them for $2 when they agreed to sign a testimonial before using it, their complaint said.

The apparatus consists of two small metal discs, one of copper and one of zinc, to be fastened around the feet of the patient with string. On the copper disc are the words, "Health through radio-activity." With them went small copper sheets, 9 by 10 inches, to be placed under the bedding. A pan of water placed under the bed was needed to make the radioactivity active.

Barzso was visited by a man and a woman investigator for the state department. She described a chronic imaginary skin ailment which, she said, she expected to return any time.

"Let's see," replied Barzso, "it isn't hives, it isn't seven year itch, but if it's a skin disease I can cure it. For $5." He sold her a jar of salve and told her to take few baths. She could take one every two weeks, but only if she needed it, he cautioned her.

Money Back Guarantee.

A huge sign in front of his home reads on one side: "Your money back if Myona fails on psoraisis [psoriasis], eczema or any skin disease."

Mr. Hallihan and Attorney Philip E. Ringer, counsel for the department, will question the persons cited and warn them against further alleged violations.

GERMAN PLANE TO HOP ON ATLANTIC SURVEY FLIGHTS

Stops at Lisbon, Azores En Route to U. S.

LUEBECK, Germany, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The giant seaplane Nordmeer will take off on the first of eight projected German North Atlantic survey flights at 6 a. m. Wednesday [midnight Tuesday, Chicago time], Lufthansa officials announced today.

The ship, which will carry Germany's bid in the international race to establish air service between Europe and the United States, made two final test hops today.

Flight Captain Joachim Blankenburg expected to make the difficult overland first leg of Wednesday's flight to Lisbon, Portugal, in about thirteen hours. The next stop will be Horta, the Azores, where the catapult ship Schwabenland waits to launch the seaplane on its flight to New York. The final leg is expected to take about 15 hours.

Largest Planes on Pontoons.

Besides Blankenburg, the Nordmeer will carry Second Pilot Count Siegfried von Schack, Radio Operator Wilhelm Kueppers, and Mechanic Otto Gruschwitz.

At Lisbon, Friedrich Buddenbrock, director of Lufthansa's Atlantic service, will board the plane for the flight to New York. The Nordmeer will share later flights with its sister ship, the Nordwind.

The Nordwind and Nordmeer are the world's largest seaplanes—machines supported on pontoons as compared with flying boats. They have a range of 3,107 miles with a payload of 1,100 pounds.

The four motors are 600 horse power Junkers Jumo 205 Diesels. They are cooled by new type radiators in the columns supporting the plane on the pontoons, and the fuel is carried within the pontoons themselves.

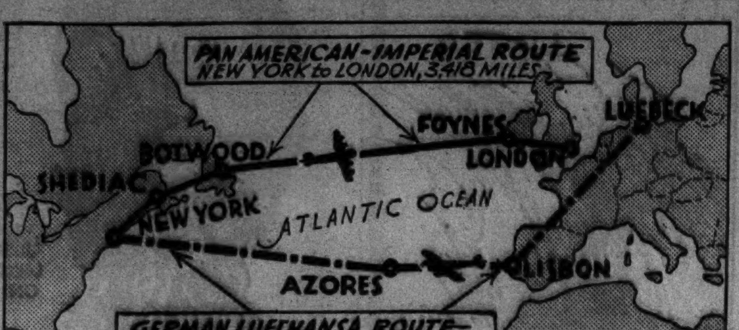
The big planes cruise at 155 miles per hour and have a top speed of 186 miles per hour. They land at 61 miles per hour. Their empty weight is ten tons.

British Plane Lowers Record.

FOYNES, Irish Free State, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The British flying boat Cambria landed at the mouth of the river Shannon today at 10:30 a. m., completing its survey flight of the North Atlantic airways from Botwood, Newfoundland, in 12 hours and two minutes. The Cambria's time was just under that of a sister ship, the Caledonia, on a similar flight and was the fastest west-east crossing of the current series of exploratory hops being made by the British and American planes. Her average speed was 168 miles an hour.

GERMANY SURVEYS ATLANTIC AIR ROUTE

(Story in adjoining column.)



The German seaplane Nordmeer hops at 6 a. m. tomorrow (midnight Tuesday, Chicago time) on the first leg of an Atlantic survey flight entering competition with the Pan-American-Imperial Airways project. The Germans plan their crossings in three hops—Luebeck to Lisbon, to Horta, the Azores, and New York.

AIR BATTLES RAGE OVER LONDON AS TEST OF DEFENSE

400 Planes Engage in Mimic Warfare.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Tuesday].—Mimic warfare raged over London and its environs last night and early today as 400 British air force planes demonstrated the possibilities of defending the capital against raids by hostile aircraft in wartime.

The maneuvers were the most extensive yet staged. The raids were led by 76 light, medium, and heavy bombers, including the latest and deadliest types, which were detailed to destroy London. Operations for the defense of the city and the protection of a large slice of England, bounded by the southeast coast line and a line running from Boston through Worcester to Gosport, were entrusted to nineteen fighter squadrons totaling 222 planes.

Test to Guard Nerve Centers.

Hour after hour throughout the night planes zoomed overhead in the darkness on bombing expeditions or in aerial combats. Below, in the fields and on the outskirts of the metropolis members of the civilian observer corps and the territorial [National Guard] searchlight and anti-aircraft units played their appointed rôles in a grim test of guarding Britain's nerve centers.

Giant bombers tore across the sky in raids to "paralyze" railroad communications and vital points such as tending from 6 o'clock last night to 9 a. m. today and a similar one beginelectric plants, munitions factories, road junctions, and airdromes.

Half of Invaders Fail.

Weather conditions favored the defenders, whose fast, high flying observer planes were able to spot the raiders quickly in the cloudness sky.

The majority of the bombers flew at an altitude of 12,000 feet. At least half of the raiding squadrons, it is claimed, were intercepted and attacked by the defending fighters before reaching the targets. One plane was forced to make an emergency landing.

Throughout the night pilots stood alert at Northolt airdome, four miles from London, ready to take off. In full kit with gas masks, they waited, and both officers and men had food brought to them within a few yards of their machines.

LINDBERGH FLIES BACK AND FORTH ACROSS THE ENGLISH CHANNEL

PARIS, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh interrupted a visit to Dr. Alexis Carrel's St. Gildas Island home today by a sudden round trip flight to London. The aviator landed here tonight after a trip to London and back, then took off for St. Gildas Island off the north coast of Brittany. Lindbergh and Dr. Carrel are co-inventors of a mechanical heart.

NAVY WILL TEST GIANT 4 ENGINE BOMBING PLANE

Craft Will Carry Two Tons 4,000 Miles.

Bridgeport, Conn., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—A new type of navy patrol bomber, a giant flying boat with four engines, is nearing completion at the Sikorsky Aircraft factory here, it became known today. The experimental plane will weigh about 50,000 pounds, or approximately as much as the Martin Clipper ships flown by the Pan-American Airways across the Pacific.

The navy communiquè announcing existance of the big craft stated that it will "represent one of the most powerful bombing planes in the United States, having a military load carrying capacity comparable with that of any known existing airplane." This means that the new ship will have a military load of about 4,000 pounds and a range exceeding 4,000 miles.

Ship Is All Metal.

The machine when completed will be constructed entirely of metal. It is a high wing monoplane without external bracing. In this feature it represents a radical departure from previous Sikorsky practice of bracing the wings of large flying boats with heavy struts. The motors, according to announcement, will be Pratt & Whitney Twin Wasps of 1,050 horse power each.

Every known approved device for safety and ease of operation is incorporated in the airplane. Aileron and flaps are of all metal construction, fabric covered, with full trailing edge flap permitting rapid takeoff and slow landing speeds.

The ship has a radio compartment with equipment comparable to that installed on a destroyer. Sound proofed throughout and equipped with commodious living accomodations for the crew—a mechanics workshop, galley with electric stove, water distiller, and dry ice refrigerator—sustained operation with the ship is possible and the physical endurance of the personnel increased.

It will afford the navy department an opportunity to compare the relative value as a national defense weapon, both from a tactical and engineering viewpoint, of the large four engined type of flying boat with the smaller twin engined patrol bombers already in service.

JEALOUS SWAIN KNIFES GIRL TO DEATH AT DANCE

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Helen Wellhouse of Little Chute gave her regular boy friend "the gate" last night. She went to a country dance at Twelve Corners, eleven miles north of here, with another youth.

Her spurned lover, Glen Barker, 24, and a farmer, followed her to the place of revelry. Burning with jealousy, he watched her whirling in the arms of his rival.

He worked himself into such a rage by what he considered his girl's perfidy that he decided to "make her pay for two-timing him."

Casually he walked up to Helen. He put his arm around her as if to embrace her. Then suddenly he stabbed her in her breast with a pocket knife he had concealed in his hand. She died on the way to a hospital. She was 18 years old.

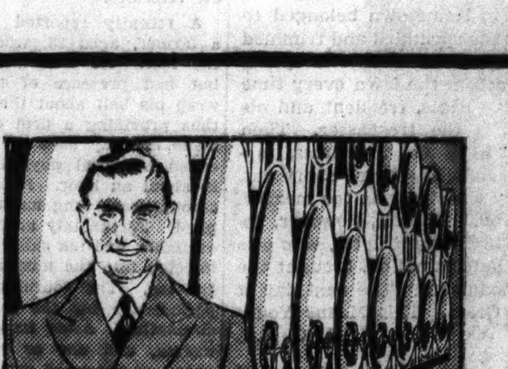
WHAT IS DARK STORAGE?

"Dark Storage" is one of the secrets of the delicate flavor of fine beers and ales. Brewers spend millions to protect their brews from light, heat and changing air conditions during the aging and storing periods . . . Now, the can for beer and ale has made it possible for fine brews to travel in absolute darkness all the way to your table.



Beer has always been lagered and stored in darkness. Now it comes all the way to your table in "Dark Storage", if you say "IN CANS" when you buy.

"Dark Storage" is just one of the advantages of buying your beer and ale in cans trade-marked "Keglined". When you say "IN CANS", you get light weight and easy stacking, too.

Canned beer is easy to open. Just ask your dealer for a new, sharp "Canco" Beverage Opener. It looks like this Trailer travelers: Don't waste space. Don't carry extra weight. A can is just the size of the beer it holds. Light, easy to stow and nothing to bother with after you've sipped its delicious cargo.

A CASE FOR A SPECIAL PROSECUTOR.

From the testimony of Robert Young, the railroad financier, it appears that a purchaser of Mr. Farley's campaign book at $250 the copy did not thereby contribute $250 toward the reduction of the Democratic deficit. The party got only half; the solicitor got the other half.

It is scarcely necessary to point out that a 50 per cent commission is quite a commission. Commercial travelers would like to do business on that basis, but mighty few of them ever have. Professional fund raisers for hospitals and universities dream of 50 per cent commissions but don't get them.

In this instance the size of the commission is particularly puzzling. The prospects were pushovers. Mr. Young may be taken as typical. He says he would have taken soap wrappers for his $15,000 if the salesmen had asked him to do so. When Mr. Farley's solicitors call, the cigars and the check book are on the desk before the salesman gets through the door. It is what is known as a seller's market. The prospect, pen in hand, greets the salesman with a fervent plea to be shown the dotted line as speedily as may be.

A 50 per cent commission for that kind of selling seems rather higher than is strictly necessary. The earnings of some of the solicitors must have been sizable, large enough even to divide and still leave a comfortable living. Perhaps the revelation about the size of the commissions may go far to explain the reluctance of Democratic leaders in congress to permit any formal investigation of the selling of the souvenir books. Maybe the party chiefs would rather not trace too carefully the ultimate division of the receipts.

Mr. Cummings, the attorney general, has also shown a certain reluctance to take off his shirt. He received a letter the other day from Representative Snell asking whether the sale of souvenir books to corporations constituted a violation of the federal corrupt practices act which forbids contributions by corporations to political funds. Mr. Cummings replied that he would be glad to answer the question in the light of any evidence which Mr. Snell might present.

What evidence Mr. Cummings wants to see that he has not already seen or could not easily get for himself is not stated. It is known that corporations were solicited to buy the books. It is known that the books are not worth $25 to any one and cost much less than that to produce. If Mr. Cummings is in doubt as to the facts he can consult his colleague, Mr. Farley, who knows all that is to be known on the subject. Mr. Cummings' attitude is admirably judicial, to say the least.

As Mr. Cummings has clearly indicated he prefers to sit as judge in the case rather than to take charge of the prosecution, his feelings may be respected. A special prosecutor should be appointed to handle the matter, a special prosecutor who can be independent of the attorney general and the administration. There appears to be no other way by which all the facts can be brought to light and the guilty, if any, punished. The suggestion should be welcomed by an administration which has repeatedly asserted its determination to prevent money from exercising any influence in public affairs.

DESTROYERS FOR BRAZIL.

Secretary Hull's suggestion to congress that the United States lease decommissioned destroyers to Brazil and others of our South American neighbors has a fundamental sanity which contrasts refreshingly with the armament madness of Europe.

Brazil properly may be anxious over assertions by European powers, Germany and Italy in particular, of their "rights" to colonies and raw material sources. The nation's agricultural and mineral resources, still only partly developed, would be a vastly richer prize than Ethiopia.

Under the circumstances the Brazilians naturally wish to strengthen their defenses. Secretary Hull's proposal would permit them to do so without the tremendous expense of the usual armament campaign. The decommissioned craft are above the age at which they may be operated efficiently with the present United States fleet. They are held in reserve and would be put back in service only if our navy were placed on a war footing.

Mr. Hull suggests that the destroyers be leased to Brazil or other South American nations that might ask for them, the rent to consist of marine insurance against the loss of the craft. Kept in service and used for training Brazilian crews, the craft would be more readily available to our own navy, if we needed them, than if they were kept tied up in navy yards.

The Monroe Doctrin, by which the United States set itself for more than a century against European territorial aggressions in Latin America, was never regarded with approval by the states it was designed to protect. They were never satisfied that it was completely altruistic. The destroyer leases would be a logical development of a successor policy, under which the United States and Latin America are equal partners in protecting the western hemisphere against aggression.

PEIPING IS JAPANESE.

The Japanese in their persistent endeavor to make the Chinese more "sincere" in the relations of the two countries now include in their persuasion the occupation of Peiping, the old capital of the Chinese emperors. A Japanese brigade marched into the city Sunday and it is current rumor that the old capital and the adjacent region will be included in the reorganization of northern China in its union with Manchukuo under the puppet Henry Pu-yi, who since 1934 has been known as the Emperor Kang Teh.

The Japanese have their own definition of insincerity and it is one of the numerous things that occidentals do not understand in Asiatic affairs. One Japanese definition of the word appears to be "honest friendliness." The Japanese want the Chinese to be friendly. They encourage them to be friendly by taking their territory from them and shooting them down. It used to be said here that a good Indian was a dead Indian. The Japanese equivalent appears to be that a friendly Chinese is a dead Chinese.

Possibly the Chinese show insincerity because when they say they're going to make a final decision in this long standing opposition to Japanese aggression they don't do it. It may be a Japanese complaint that the Chinese government to prove its sincerity should throw its full force into the fight and accept the annihilation which the Japanese think would follow and the subsequent extension of Japanese government or influence all over the country.

It is not a safe assumption at this time that the Chinese will not put the matter to the supreme test. They are in a better position to risk a prolonged war than they have been since the first effort to create a republic. For once they appear to be united.

Heretofore Japan has been invaluably aided by the Chinese civil war which has been unremitting since 1927. Chiang Kai-shek has been almost continuously at war with the Chinese Reds, first in the provinces of Kiangsi, Fukien, and Hunan, against which five major campaigns were conducted involving the loss of at least 300,000 Nanking government troops. A great strategical withdrawal of the Red army from these southeastern provinces into the northwest, a march of 8,000 miles, put the Reds in North Shensi and in direct contact with the Russian sovietized territory in Mongolia and Singkiang.

This ten year civil war has been ended by a treaty aimed at Japan. In accordance with the new Russian policy, the Chinese Reds have formed a popular front with the Nanking government, the determining consideration being joint action against Japan.

There may be a lull in the war news from China, but it is well within the probabilities that with the occupation of Peiping the fight for a final settlement has just begun.

THE WILL ROGERS MEMORIAL.

If Will Rogers could come back to life to comment upon the congressional appropriation of $500,000 for a memorial to him, he would smile and ask "Why?" The federal appropriation is to be matched by an equivalent amount to be raised by the state of Oklahoma or by popular contributions. The memorial, it is suggested, will probably take the form of a museum of Indian life.

Rogers was much endeared to the American public both in his writing and in his movie characterizations. He persuaded a great many American people that his ruggedness, honesty, sincerity of purpose and speech, his naïveté and his simplicity, and even his pronounced lack of Norman blood in his features were characteristics of the average American of which each American might be proud.

He was one of the best nonprofessional promoters of American aviation. As a passenger traveling almost all the time by air, he contributed to the sense of confidence necessary for the public to accept the new transportation methods. He died with a pioneer professional airman, Wiley Post.

In aviation Post was, of course, the greater of the two national figures, but sentiment has neglected him and concentrated on Rogers, which is the one thing Rogers himself would have thought unjust. And we may be sure that if he could speak his mind on an appropriation such as congress has voted for the purpose intended, he would, if he were not too kind hearted, say that the proponents of this thing were flattering themselves more than they were him.

LICENSE PERJURY.

[Indianapolis News.]

It is common knowledge that when the clerk of Lake county issues from fifty to sixty marriage licenses a day and has a rush of 250 or more couples over Sunday, most of his customers are not residents of Indiana. One of the marrying squires says that they come "from all over." Most of them are residents of Illinois, rushing into Indiana to evade the Illinois statute that requires blood tests for those who seek to marry. A representative of the county clerk dismisses objections by saying that "we swear 'em," and implies that if they commit perjury it is none of his business.

Every applicant for a marriage license in Indiana must take oath that true answers have been made to a series of questions asked by the clerk or his deputy. The law says that the license shall be issued in the county where the female resides. If she lives in Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, or some other state and swears that she lives in Lake county she has committed perjury. If the male makes a false statement regarding his place of residence he also is guilty. The Indiana law says that no person afflicted with a transmissible disease may wed in this state, and it is a fair assumption that many who are coming from Illinois to obtain licenses are so afflicted. Their own state would require a blood test. Indiana's law requires evidence of suitable health, but it is not enforced.

The marriage mill at Crown Point and others in border county seats throughout the state could be stopped almost immediately if somebody charged with the enforcement of the criminal laws would do his duty. Whoever swears or affirms "willfully, corruptly and falsely touching a matter material to the point in question" is guilty of perjury and when convicted shall be sentenced to prison for not less than two years. Another act says that "whoever willfully, corruptly, and falsely, before any officer authorized to administer oaths, under oath or affirmation, voluntarily makes any false certificate, affidavit or statement of any nature, for any purpose, shall be deemed guilty of perjury," imprisoned for not less than two years, fined from $50 to $1,000 and disfranchised. Any one who suborns or procures any person to commit perjury shall be imprisoned not less than two nor more than twenty-one years, fined from $50 to $1,000 and disfranchised. Public officials who encourage false affidavits so that they may profit from the transaction are trifling with the possibility of conviction under this law.

WE SHALL CONTINUE to read the stories about the unhappy "doctors" who are being so mercilessly investigated. Perhaps from these tales of astral healing and of the potency of massage something as glorious as the prescription of Father William's physician will emerge. He is the medico, you remember,

The work of college professors has been described as the process of casting artificial pearls before real swine.

CONTEMPLATING the situation at Randolph and Michigan the other evening we thought for a while that the city's motion game had at last reached stalemate. Two buses, trying to make a left turn, were wedged sideways across the street and trafic had jelled solidly around them as far as the eye could see. Making a hasty calculation, we arrived at the conclusion that about seven more cars would have sufficed to bring the town to its final standstill. What sights will be seen when the day actually comes! First, the passengers crawling out over bumpers and roofs, abandoning their vehicles to time and slow decay. Then the long trek of the millions to find a new site for a city. All the while the lights will keep changing senselessly from red to amber to green, winking like sentient, mocking creatures at trafic that will never move again.

Greenest front lawn in Hometown belonged to Aunt Letty. Each year she sprinkled and trimmed it until it reached perfection. But one spring her friend Flossie cut across the lawn every time she came to the house. Hints, frequent and obvious, failed to impress the trespasser. Then one morning a sign, "Keep Off the Grass," appeared. Still Flossie made her usual short cut. So Aunt Letty, deciding the sign was too meager, added "This Means You." Flossie, however, remained impervious. Finally Aunt Letty, who was always known for her determination, brought the sign in for further amendment. The next day it read: "Keep Off the Grass. This Means You—and No One Else." J. C. R.

WHAT TO DO IN SNAKE BITE.

GREAT consternation reigns in the ranks of the followers of Izaak Walton! The bourbon whisky treatment for snake bite is "out"—discredited, and many a pack outfit is less burdensome in consequence. In its stead has come a far more rational plan which may be regarded as efficient and satisfactory.

To a large extent we have become a nation of outdoor hikers and trampers, but the city dweller, who perhaps has never seen a rattlesnake, may not be on his guard against this vicious reptile. There are only four types of poisonous snakes within the borders of the United States. The rattlesnake, the water moccasin, and the copperhead are fairly widely distributed, while the fourth, the coral snake, is found only in the southern states. Most of the bites occur on the legs below the knees, or on the hands and forearms. Prevention lies in the wearing of high boots, thick woolen hiking costumes, and gloves.

Let us assume that one has been bitten and that the culprit has been identified as a snake of venomous species. The first maneuver is to encircle the part above the site of puncture with a firm bandage [tourniquet], adjusted tightly enough to shut off return circulation, but not to hinder arterial blood from reaching the extremity. A small rubber hose, a necktie, a belt, or even a sizable handkerchief will serve. Many advocate releasing the bandage for about sixty seconds every fifteen minutes or so, in order to insure the tissues against damage from lack of blood. It is sometimes necessary to move the band upward, inasmuch as it must always be above the swollen area.

The next step is to make incisions through each fang mark deep enough to reach the tissues beneath the skin. Two cuts are made at each point, at right angles to one another. The objective is to promote bleeding and, if possible, to eliminate some of the venom through drainage. Suction is then applied, either by mouth or through the use of a syringe similar to a breast pump. This is maintained intermittently for an hour or more. The lips may be applied directly to the bleeding wound and the material expectorated. There is no danger of absorbing the venom if the mouth is emptied promptly and then rinsed; furthermore, digestive secretions have a tendency to destroy the poison. If no one present has sufficient courage to make the incisions—and, by the way, only a sterile knife blade should be used — the patient should be transported as quickly as possible to the nearest physician or hospital.

Then antivenin, if obtainable, is used. Inasmuch as this antidote is horse serum, every patient should be tested for sensitivity before a full dose is given. A small quantity may be injected under the skin, and if no reaction is observed after one-half to one hour the required amount is then given into the muscles in the vicinity of the wound. If the swelling shows a tendency to increase, additional ampoules may be needed.

In most cases the incisions and the application of suction will suffice. Jackson, who has treated a large number of cases of snake bite, reports an exceedingly low mortality without the use of serum, and it must be said that removal of the venom by suction constitutes one of the most valuable remedial measures.

The poisonous character of snake venom is due to the fact that it causes the red blood cells to swell, rupture, and hence lose their power to carry oxygen. The blood pressure falls rapidly, and such general symptoms as nausea, vomiting, and diarrhea appear. Involuntary urination is common. In severe cases marked anemia may be combated by blood transfusion or other appropriate remedies.

A recently reported case is that of a farmer, aged 28, who was bitten on the foot. He was alone at the time, but had presence of mind enough to wrap his belt about the calf of the leg, thus providing a firm constriction. He made his way back to the house and called his local physician, who arrived in about an hour. Incisions were made through each fang mark and suction applied. Fortunately antivenin serum was available, and ten cubic centimeters were injected into the muscles of the calf of the leg. The tourniquet was released periodically for the purpose of aiding circulation. Aside from marked pallor, nausea, and one or two vomiting attacks, no untoward symptoms developed. Within three or four days the patient recovered completely.

We must keep in mind the fact that snake venom is usually contaminated with bacteria, and through the hollow fangs there may be injected into the wound gas bacilli or organisms of other types. Scrubbing the part with soapsuds and hot water is of value, and for several days the wound must be observed critically for the presence of infection. In some cases it is wise to give antitoxin against tetanus and gas forming bacteria.

ANNOYING NOISE.

Mrs. W. T. writes: Why do noises annoy some people? I have reached the point where the rumble of other people's radios is getting the best of me. I have tried everything I can think of, but I guess I am going about it the wrong way.

REPLY.

Many of us abhor noise. It can be terribly irritating, especially to a person of a nervous temperament.

There are two procedures that may help. One is to take small doses of bromides each day, as prescribed by your own physician. The other is to place a bit of cotton moistened slightly with vaseline in each ear canal. These plugs are easily inserted and removed, and it is surprising how much more peaceful and quiet they make things. Incidentally, they will help save your hearing, if worn in the presence of excessive din.

You might also ask the neighbors to "pipe down."

FALLEN KIDNEY.

2. Is this condition serious in a woman past 45 years of age?

3. Does it call for an operation?

REPLY.

1. Usually none, unless a ureter [tube leading from the kidneys to the bladder] becomes kinked.

2. As a rule, no.

3. Operation is not advised except in rare instances.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark.—Scandinavia made her great mistake in letting the cream of her youth emigrate to America instead of sending them to conquer colonies, the well known author and big game hunter, Bengt Berg, says.

He predicts that "the time will come when the parts of the world today ruled by a few nations will have to be divided among all the white nations," and suggests immediate emigration to other nations' colonies so Scandinavia can "have a piece of the cake."

Berg has spent many years as a hunter in Asia and Africa and travels with Sweden's noted hunter, Prince Wilhelm, when he goes to Africa and Asia. He has just come back from one of his expeditions.

"How long," he asked, "do you think Belgium will be allowed to run more than 2,000,000 square kilometers of the Congo? How long will Portugal be allowed to sit on just so much land in Africa? Or do you think that what we today call soviet Russia will stick together forever and rule some of the best and most fertile soil in Central Asia?"

Division of colonies among all white nations will come, he predicts, "not by war, but by mutual agreement in order to absorb the white expansion and in order to civilize the whole globe."

Asked if the natives should not have some share in governing themselves, Berg declared that long acquaintance with them had convinced him they were incapable of self-rule.

On his last trip, he said, he visited all the tribes adjacent to Ethiopia and "for the first time found them at peace." Until then, he said, they had always been afraid to sleep at night for fear of Ethiopian slavers' raiding parties.

He is trying to start a movement of emigration from Scandinavia to Africa and Asia so Scandinavian colonies can grow up within other nations' colonial dominions.

TITLE TO PROPERTY.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. [a] I have a title to a lot which my mother bought and it is made out in her name; she is now dead, but left no will. [b] Can I build a house on this lot without having the title changed over to my name? I would have to pay back taxes.

2. If I did build on this lot and paid taxes, could any other heirs dispute my ownership? There are six children in the family and a widow who has paid up on a house all except the last $25 when she died without leaving a will. Now two of her boys and a married daughter have taken possession of the house.

3. Can any one of these people living in the house procure same for themselves by paying up this small balance and thereby leave the other three children without compensation, for after all they all contributed to purchase of said house.

E. K.

1. We cannot reconcile your statement at [a] that you have title with your implication at [b] that you do not. If you mean that your only claim is an heir and that the estate has not been probated, the importance of this point relates to the possibility of future sale rather than to your present rights in the property.

2. Depends on the facts. See 1.

3 In general, one of several co-owners would not be permitted to take advantage of the others in this way. But we cannot well advise you without having the facts.

NECESSITY FOR PROBATE.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. How long may a will remain on file in the Probate court before it will have to be probated? 2. 1. Probate can be entirely dispensed with on some facts.

2. Yes.

3. On a small estate we would consider it reasonable to hold down expenses, providing there is no confusion involved.

DOCTOR, PATIENT, AND GOVERNMENT.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 4.—A short time ago you gave space to the speech of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, delivered to a section of the American Medical association. In my opinion the senator had such a complete misconception of his subject that I am kindly asking you for space that I may overtake him.

I think that without a breach of modesty or the truth I may qualify as a doctor, a lawyer, and a nationally known medico-legal economist. In any event, for thirty-five years I have been pointing out to Presidents, congressmen, governors, state legislators, sociologists, and medical editors, who ought to know better, that the doctors of the United States are not going to be required to do anything they do not want to do, at least while the thirteenth amendment remains in the constitution of the United States. As the late Chief Justice Fuller so forcefully pointed out, there are certain things which cannot be brought about in the United States, under the guise of an exercise of police power, and one of them is involuntary servitude.

I think that this will make it perfectly clear to the senator that his idea of issuing a federal or state license to the doctor, contingent on his entrance into a compulsory contract—a legal monstrosity—had better die aborning.

Further, the senator seems to have forgotten the legal status of the doctor. At law, with the usual exceptions, the doctor is an "independent contractor" who feels, rightly or wrongly, that it is in the public interest at the present time to keep the government a "stranger to the contract." As long as he feels that way, a contract being a meeting of the minds between two or more persons for a consideration, there is nothing the senator can do about it.

It only remains for me to supply the proper response to the senator's unanswered question, addressed to the convention of the American Medical association: "Where did you doctors get the idea that you owned the patient?"

Senator, the doctors got the idea from the laws of contract, the idea finally resolving itself into fact: The doctor owns the patient by contractual property right; the patient owns the doctor by the same right; the government owns neither, but on the contrary is owned by both. JOHN J. HURLEY, M. D.

SUGGESTION.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—A contributor to the Voice of the People in this morning's issue remarks about the loud shouting electric sign at Grant park concerts: "Petrillo, Dunham, Petrillo, Dunham."

Grammatically as well as otherwise the sign is all wrong.

Maybe they could correct it so as to read: "Petrillo Did 'Em, Petrillo Did 'Em," etc., etc. J. M. HATHAWAY.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—Webster spells it "traffic," but THE TRIBUNE spells it "trafic," and not in one issue but in every issue. Now who is correct, Webster or THE TRIBUNE? G. W. M.

PALESTINE.

Berwyn, Ill., Aug. 5.—Jews and Gentiles alike [in this country] are protesting with great vigor and vehemence against the purported partition of Palestine, this partition to be executed by England, the nation in control of the land in question.

On first analysis I would say that we in the United States would do well to attend to our own business and affairs rather than brewing international trouble, disputes, and hatreds, but it seems that as a whole we cannot do this and we seem unable to control certain minorities, who so readily permit their sympathies to run away with their good judgment and in many cases invite hatred toward our entire population.

It would appear that the question revolves around a purported agreement or covenant, executed some years ago by the British imperial government, whereby England agreed to allot at least a portion of Palestine to the Jewish race for the establishment of a homeland. What the terms of the covenant were I do not know; neither do I know how closely either the British or the Jews lived up to the terms thereof, nor do I imagine that any of our zealous Americans have troubled to investigate the merits of both sides of the question.

ALL-AMERICAN.

THE TAXICAB MONOPOLY.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—THE TRIBUNE deserves a pat on the back for publishing the editorial in this morning's paper entitled, "The Taxicab Monopoly."

I am certain that if the city would only grant the license over 1,000 individual owners would form their own company with a fleet of light cabs. The saving of approximately $1.50 to $2 per day on gasoline, plus the lower storage rates, would enable them to operate at a low rate and still make a fine living.

By placing into operation what is known as the "open stand" as used in New York and other large cities all of the cabs, including the independent cabs, could serve the public. The "open stand" would enable the city to cut the number of cabs, thus relieving the trafic situation and at the same time adequately supplying the public with cabs. Smaller cars with less overhead would mean lower rates for the public, competition for the monopoly, and a chance for the drivers to earn a decent living out of a fair investment.

SCHOOL TO FORM MEDICAL CENTER IN SYPHILIS WAR

Building to Be Remodeled for Laboratory.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Plans to establish a medical center in the old South Division High school, Wabash avenue and 26th street, for all activities in the campaign to eradicate syphilis were announced yesterday by Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, head of Mayor Kelly's committee of 400 to bring venereal disease under control.

Occupancy of the building is expected to be turned over to the federal, state, and city health agencies by the board of education before Oct. 15. The structure is used by the Dunbar pre-vocational school, and it is planned to transfer the pupils to a new school at 45th street and Prairie avenue.

Meanwhile the city architect is looking over the old high school building with a view to remodeling it for extensive laboratories and a treatment clinic for those unable to pay for health examinations. Part of the $50,000 appropriated last week by the city council for the battle against syphilis and gonorrhea is to be used for laboratory equipment.

Medicine to Be Distributed.

The proposed headquarters for social hygiene services also is to be a distributing center for free medicines to physicians and for the transfer to private doctors of persons suffering from syphilis who can pay moderate fees. Names are to be secret and confidential.

The plan is to continue other free clinics now operating, the pre-marriage clinic at the city hall, the diagnostic clinic at 1121 South State street, and the clinics in the Bridewell and county jail which have been running some twenty years.

On the west side the state health department under Dr. Frank Jirka, director, is sponsoring a proposal before the Works Progress administration for rehabilitation of a building owned by the state at 1800 Fillmore street. It was turned over to the state years ago by the Rosenwald Foundation, and it is proposed to spend $27,550 on remodeling it into a laboratory for tests for venereal disease.

Doctors Aid in Fight.

In addition to all this, various clinics under private auspices which charge small fees, and the medical profession are said by Dr. Schmidt to be giving full coöperation in the drive against the plague.

A youth movement became an adjunct of the syphilis campaign yesterday. The health agencies announced that 1,000 boys and girls have volunteered to distribute ballots to apartment houses, hotels, and lodging houses in the referendum on voluntary blood tests. This group is to meet Friday morning at the Great Northern theater to receive instructions by Dr. Schmidt and Dr. Oliver C. Wenger, specialist of the United States public health service, which is back of the campaign.

Group to Take Ballots.

Friday noon the group will march to the city hall, where Paul de Kruif, a writer on health and disease, will speak to them. Approximately 200,000 ballots are to be distributed by the young men and women, with a view of reaching citizens not on the mailing lists.

Returns yesterday yielded 37,052 ballots, of which Dr. Schmidt said 35,541 were marked "yes." The number of persons answering yes is given as in excess of 100,000, as various members of a family register their sentiment on one ballot.

More than 100 dancing teachers from throughout the country and Canada and Mexico yesterday began an intensive course in dancing which will continue for two weeks as the twenty-fourth annual normal school conducted by the Chicago Association of Dancing Masters. They then will hold a convention for another week. Both school and convention will be in the Sherman hotel.

While some instructors of the dancing school predicted the return of old-fashioned dances, the demise of the fox trot and the rhumba and even the reappearance of the gavotte and minuet on the dance floor, others disagreed.

Most of the teachers have their own specialties and are convinced of the merits of them. Clement O. Browne, dancing master of Akron, O., described the grace and beauty of the Rye waltz, an old fashioned dance which originated in the nineties.

An explanation of how it is done is far more complicated than doing it. The chassée, or the slide, cut, slide, or the one, two, and three actually is just the same waltz step, which every good dancer knows without knowing how he does it, one teacher said. Or, it was explained, it is the polka step without the hop, or the skip step without much of the skip.

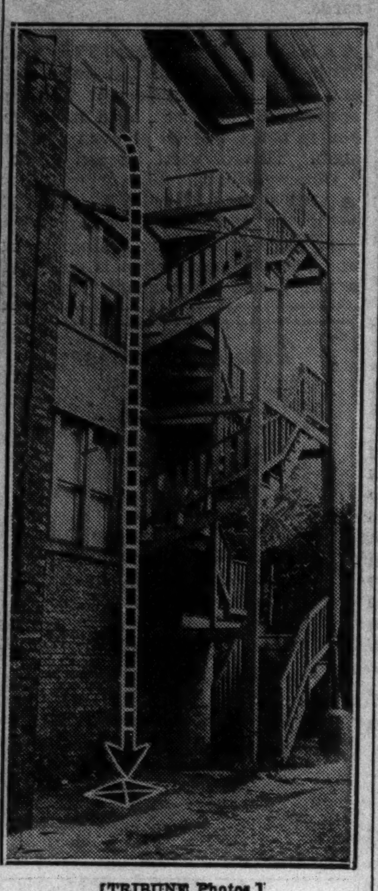
Dies in Sleep Walk

James Kern, who died yesterday in hospital of injuries received when he fell from the third floor of a flat at 2620 North Rockwell street.



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

This photodiagram shows the course of the fatal plunge of the Frankfort, Ind., boy from the window. He was visiting friends.

James Kern, 14 years old, of Frankfort, Ind., died yesterday in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital of injuries suffered Saturday morning when he fell from a third floor window at 2620 North Rockwell street, where he was visiting friends.

He was sleeping next to a three panel window. The screens of two of them were secure, but the third opened outward. The boy evidently moved in his sleep and pressed against this movable screen, falling out.

At the inquest later yesterday Carver Endsley, young Kern's host, told the coroner's jury the boy was a sleep walker. He became such three years ago, Endsley said, as the result of shock from the murder of a chum.

It's all about the boy from the sticks who comes into the big city to double his money. The city slickers put over a couple of fast ones, but the boy with the hay in his hair, with the help of a smart secretary and some dumb luck, shows 'em a thing or two, b'gosh, before he's through.

Erwin is always likable, and Allen Jenkins has plenty of ability—because of their natural talent there are occasional weak laughs, but they're few and far between.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

Brushing Means Healthier Hair.

F. H. No doubt the reason your hair is dull and lifeless is that you don't brush it enough. Comb it with a fine comb, as this takes out the dust that accumulates from day to day. Wash your hair once a week with an oil shampoo and rub a little olive oil into the scalp daily.

Hit by Actress Wins Places for 3 in Family

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Judy Canova's instantaneous hit in her featured rôle in "Artists and Models" got Paramount so pepped up about her singing and clowning that this studio has now signed not only Judy but Zeke and Anne Canova, her brother and sister, for featured appearances in "Summer Romance." The brother and sister appeared briefly with Judy in one song in "Artists and Models." The latter picture has not been released yet. It is the best film that Jack Benny ever appeared in, and the same can be said for each of his two leading women, Gail Patrick and Ida Lupino.

Ernest Haller, movie cameraman who has now progressed to the stage where Warner's publicity alludes to him as a "director of photography," has been pioneering in the use of infra-red photography. In "The Great Garrick," in which Brian Aherne, Olivia De Havilland, and Edward Everett Horton have the principal rôles, Haller is photographing in daytime a scene which will appear in the film as a moonlight sequence.

Pamela Harris, 20 years old, of Los Angeles has just sold Universal studio a story for its next Deanna Durbin picture, titled "Baby of the Family." Miss Harris is a member of a writing family, her dad, Ray Harris, having been a script writer for fifteen years; her mother, who writes under the name of Marshall Harris, being a magazine contributor, and her sister, Eleanor Harris, being in the scenario department at a studio.

In the seven years since Richard Dix began bestowing $100 on each son of an employé who was named after him Dix has paid out $1,600 to the employés working on his ranch near Hollywood.

Noticed as one of the Mongol guards in a steel chain mail armor on the location sets of "Marco Polo" yesterday was the broad bulk of Jim Thorpe, one time world's champion track and field athlete and one of the greatest footballers in American college history. Jim was one of a special guard of plus 6 footers, most of them professional wrestlers and ex-varsity gridiron men, who get $25 a day for growing mustaches, looking ferocious, and wearing a steel suit in weather that verges around 100 degrees every day in the hot canyon in Malibu mountains where a portion of the Chinese Great Wall has been recreated. Unlike the German, Hungarian, Scandinavian, and Slavic wrestlers who play the other Mongols, Thorpe has no mustache. He says it's true that Indians never grow them.

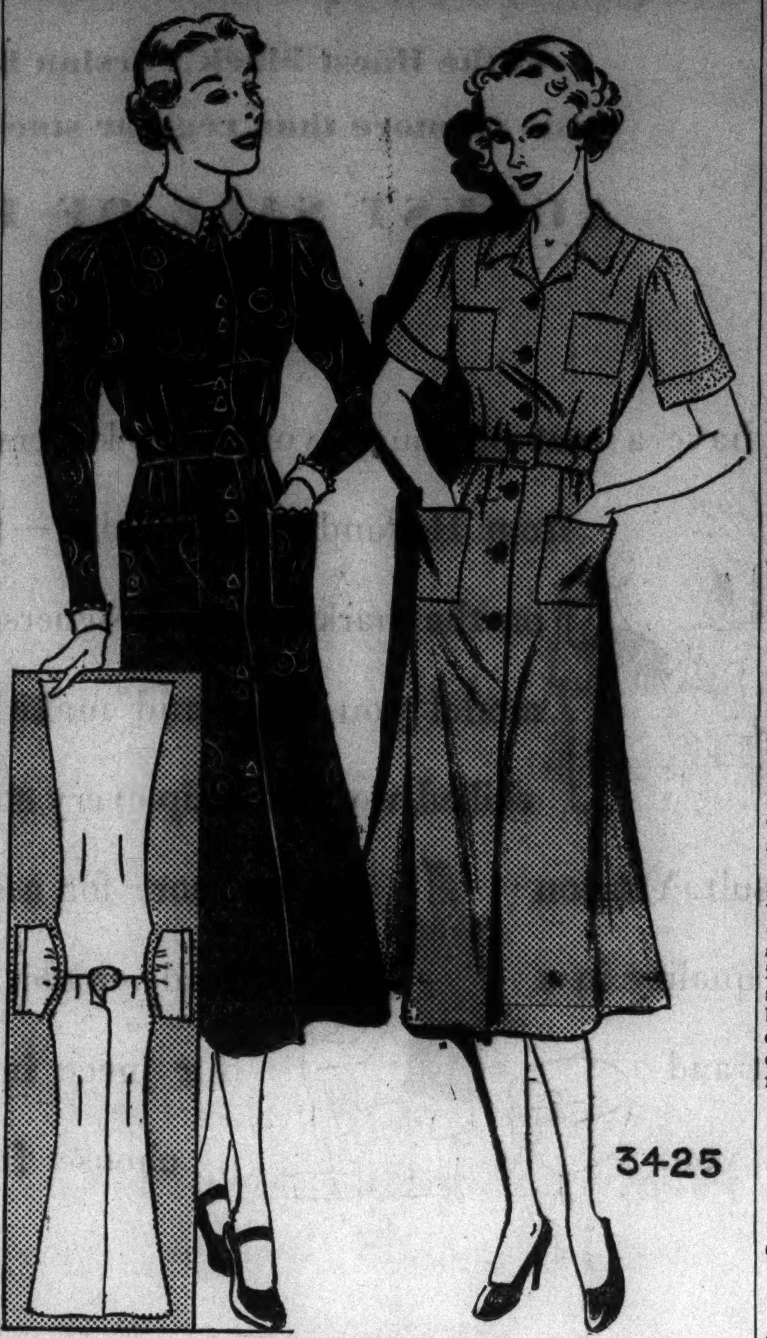
Crisply Tailored and New



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Crisp as a new dollar bill is this trimly tailored frock for the midseason. It may be made of either cottons, linens, wash silks, or the heavier fall fabrics. In any case, it is the perfect dress for the present time, since you can wear it simply everywhere, including the office. We have a suggestion to offer. Since hints of autumn decidedly have invaded the fashion scheme of things, make this dress in a dark shade, no matter what fabric you choose. Smart women will be wearing cottons for another couple of months, and dark shades make them particularly suited to fall days. Of course, dark silks and prints are absolutely perfect for autumn and winter.

You have a choice of versions in this pattern. The sketch at the left shows a high neckline with a crisp lingerie collar of linen or organdy, edged with rickrack or lace. The sleeves are long, and novelty buttons grace the front. The patch pockets, which are agreeably large, also are trimmed with the same rickrack which is found on the collar and cuffs. This sketch shows how effectively a print makes up in this model.

The design at the right is highly acceptable for wear at home and for early autumn sojourns at one's woodland retreat. It has a rever neckline and shorter sleeves. Two extra pockets, for good measure, are contributed to the bodice.

Style No. 3425 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 4⅝ yards of 39 inch material.

Many Menus Possible for Child's Party

"Yeast Breads in the Modern Manner," a booklet of interesting recipes for yeast rolls and breads, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, in stamps. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Every child, whether he plays in an alley or in a large, grassy yard, should have at least one party during his youngsterhood. The shy and sensitive child should have one more than any other. At his own party he becomes a popular and important person, and a shy child needs to feel popular and important occasionally.

Let the child plan his own party, from choosing the guests to passing on the menu which mother suggests. Let him help with invitations and selection of favors, if there are to be favors. Allow him to assist in putting the party site in order. Have him lend a hand in preparing the food. A child's party should be his own, not his parent's. Mother should guide, not direct the affair.

Everything should be simple, from favors to menu. Cookies and milk will delight children as much as more elaborate refreshment if the cookies are cut in animal shapes and the milk is served in tall glasses with colored sippers. The plainest of sandwiches becomes intriguing to a child if it is cut in an unusual shape—a square, a circle, a triangle, a doughnut or animal outline.

A few of the items on these menus may need a little explanation. The Noah's Ark birthday cake is built from a cake baked in a layer pan and another baked in a bread tin. The layer is frosted in chocolate and surmounted by the loaf, frosted in white, representing the body of the ark. Windows and doors may be made with chocolate icing. The animals, two by two, are animal crackers, forming a procession around the base of the ark, headed for the chocolate door. Birthday candles may top the cake. Children are invariably delighted with this type of dessert.

The snowball cakes mentioned in the second menu are cubes of sponge, white or chocolate cake, frosted with seven minute icing and rolled in cocoanut until they appear round. A tiny birthday candle may be inserted in each.

The ice cream clowns in the third menu are simply dipperfuls of ice cream on sugar cookies, each topped with a cone representing the clown's hat. Eyes, nose, and mouth may be made from gumdrops or slices of gumdrop.

Our booklet "Parties for Growing Ups" (5 cents in stamps, by mail) contains many more suggestions about children's parties.

ASKING BIDS.
[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

We already know that the controls include not only aces and kings, but voids, singletons, and, in some cases, even doubletons. From the standpoint of precise partnership information, all slam hands may be divided into two principal families:

1. Hands in which the slam depends upon key honor cards, the aces, and, in some cases, the kings. 2. Hands which it is necessary to find a distributional fit in addition to the key cards.

Suppose you hold
♠AKQ52 ♥6 ♦A9752 ♣A5.
With this hand you bid one spade and your partner raises it to three spades. He will not need much for you to make a small or even a grand slam. This is what he can hold:

Dummy No. 1:
♠J1098 ♥A854 ♦8 ♣K743.
With one and one-half honor tricks your partner has only a single raise, and yet the grand slam is cold with a fair break. Then again, your partner may hold something like this:

Dummy No. 2:
♠J1098 ♥AK ♦864 ♣KQ63
Not even a small slam can be mad because two diamonds must be lost Obviously, we must discover which o the two types of dummy we wil find. [See tomorrow's article.]

"As South, I put in that three clu bid with fear and trembling. I kne that I almost certainly would be dou bled and realized that I might b slaughtered. A you will notice, East's double wasn so good either, but he truly sense that I had my neck out.

"West apparently decided tha there was not much future in a di mond lead and decided to go out fo a ruff, hence opened the ten o hearts. Dummy played low, East pu up the ace, and I dropped the jac Evidently feeling that the lead mus be a singleton and that I had fals carded to stave off a continuatio East returned a heart. I overtook m queen with dummy's king and le dummy's three of clubs. East ducke I played the eight, and West wo with the ace, returning his fourt best spade. I climbed u with the king, led a club to th king, and ran hearts until East wa dizzy.

"By the time he had trumped wit his high club I had rid my hand o the losing spade and both losing di monds. In all, you will notice, I los only two club tricks, the ace o hearts, and the ace of spades.

Child Often Needs Variety in His Diet

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

There have been so many letters lately on the too prevalent problem of poor eating among the younger children! We have this from one letter:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: My baby seems to be a finicky eater. She will not eat eggs or cereal. She will not drink milk and has not done so for several months. She has me terribly worried.

"She eats the food on the family table as I have had to give up her own special diet because she did not care for it."

Any one with experience knows that there are some children who care very little for milk and some who can't get too much of it. They'll go into their teens drinking a quart and a half or more a day. However, unless there is some physiological reason for avoiding it, children should have milk in their diet.

When a child turns against a certain food, it is a good plan to give him a vacation from it. Although we think of cereals, eggs, and milk as among the essentials, if a child has developed an aversion for them, stop serving them temporarily. No real harm is done in that way.

But if you're anxious, present them all in thoroughly disguised form. What about junket, and custards, and puddings, and not too rich homemade ice cream? What about a warm drink with a milk base served in a cup and saucer like Daddy's? What about simple whole wheat cookies, muffins, baking powder breads, cold crackly cereals with a little fresh cut up fruit and a slight powdering of sugar? What about thick slices of whole wheat bread toasted in the oven golden brown, and buttered?

As to this little girl eating from the family's general diet, there is this to be said: young children are given a wider diet than they ever were before. Most of us who cook or plan meals for our families cover, in the course of a day, practically all the nourishing foods necessary to a balanced diet for young or grownup. And with a little coöperation from the family to avoid too much comment, I see no reason why this child cannot be adequately fed in this way. Of course all children must learn to accept the fact that they cannot eat everything a grown person does.

Bachman Band Gives Concert at Grant Park

A cool lake breeze kept e audience comfortable, and a thin escent moon decorated the star udded sky under which the people t.

Mr. Bachman is a sure and routined nductor, whose firm beat brings a nfident and attractive tone—not too ud—from the band. His musical eling is substantial rather than ghly imaginative or colorful. The ening, therefore, was satisfying ther than exciting.

The second Norwegian rhapsody F. Melius Christiansen of Northld, Minn., was played in Chicago r the first time. It is an engaging, t especially heavyweight sequence Norwegian folk tunes.

Girls' Circus Adds $16.25 to Free Ice Fund

Fifty-seven little girls whose parents can afford to send them away to a summer camp last week gave a benefit for the sickly, less fortunate Chicago children who must stay at home through the heat of the summer.

The result was a check for $16.25 received yesterday by the free ice fund operated by Tribune Charities, Inc., and supported by TRIBUNE readers.

The benefit was in the form of a circus, the eleventh annual event held at Camp Robinhood in Sherwood forest near Green Lake, Wis., to benefit either Camp Algonquin, supported mainly by TRIBUNE readers, or the free ice fund.

Among the fifty-seven participants were twenty Chicagoans.

Other contributions to the ice fund, through which free ice is supplied for sickly babies, cardiac or tubercular patients, and aged, needy Chicagoans, are:

Late Summer Brings Series of Marriages

A NUMBER of Chicagoans will arrange vacation schedules or shelve business engagements in order to attend one or another of several out of town weddings during the last week of August and the first week in September.

Reverdy Wadsworth is going east on Aug. 31 for the last whirl of parties prior to his wedding to Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of Mrs. Henry Latrobe Roosevelt, on Sept. 4 at Skaneateles, N. Y. The wedding will take pace at noon at St. James church in Skanateales, with a reception afterward at the Roosevelts' summer home. Mr. Wadsworth parent's, Congressman and Mrs. James W. Wadsworth of New York, have a home at Geneseo, about 80 miles from Skanateals. Miss Roosevelt's late father, a cousin of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, was assistant secretary of the navy.

After a three weeks' honeymoon in Bermuda Mr. Wadsworth and his bride will be at home in the apartment in Delaware place which she selected on a trip here in May. Mr. Wadsworth is employed in a packing concern here.

Number to Attend Palmer Nuptials.

Probably because it is not so far to go there will be a large number of Chicagoans at the marriage of Miss Anne Palmer to David Whitney Schoonmaker in Chippewa Falls, Wis., on Aug. 28. The bride and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Chapin Palmer, lived in Winnetka until a year or so ago, so a good many of the guests will come from that north shore village.

Mrs. Arthur W. Cushman, Miss Mary Cushman, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce MacLeish, the Charles Strongs, the Alvin Bastiens, whose daughter, Miss Barbara Bastien, is to be a bridesmaid; Mrs. Percival B. Palmer Jr., her daughter, Mrs. H. Ferris White Jr., and the latter's young son, H. Ferris White III., who is to be ringbearer; Mrs. Buckingham Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Dennis, and Miss Barbara Hobart, are some of these who will be present.

Miss Eleanor Janney of Winnetka, another bridesmaid; Miss Nancy Palmer, her sister's maid of honor; Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Russell Palmer, a bridesmaid and usher, respectively; and some of the Chicago guests have been invited to a luncheon to be given by Mrs. C. A. Hayes of Chippewa Falls, and a dinner to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mandelert on the Thursday preceding the wedding. The Palmers will give the bridal dinner the next night at the Eau Claire Country club. The reception following the wedding will be held at their home.

Miss Palmer is to wear her mother's wedding gown, trimmed with rosepoint lace which belonged to Mrs. Palmer's grandmother. The usher's in addition to young Mr. Palmer, will be classmates of Mr. Schoonmaker at Harvard. They are George H. Haselton of Chicago, Wilbur Dunn, Gordon Farquhar Robertson, and Judson Bemis, and Arthur Perry Jr., the best man, all of whom are easterners.

Perlitz-Baby Nuptials Aug. 28.

The marriage of Miss Anne Louise Perlitz to Henry J. Baby Jr. on the 28th at Houston, Tex., will take place at 11 o'cock in the morning at the Holy Rosary church with a reception afterwards at the River Oaks Country club.

The bridegroom and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Baby, and some of the bridal party, Raymond F. McNally Jr., who will be best man; Miss Mary Carroll, a cousin of the bridegroom, who will be maid of honor; Walter Crane of Chicago, David Dyer of St. Louis, and Martin White of New York will go south Aug. 21 to take part in some of the prenuptial festivities.

The night the bridegroom arrives

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

THESE August nights we go to sleep with strange gibberish wriggling in our brain, the result of the counting-out rimes readers have been sending in. Neatly typed, on conservative stationery, apparently sensible folk gayly send in things like:

More Counting-Out Rimes.

Icky bicky soda cracker
Icky bicky boo
Icky bicky soda cracker
Out goes you.

Or,

Intry, mintry, cutry, corn
Apple seed and apple thorn
Wire, brier, limber lock
Three geese in a flock.
One flies east and one flies west
O-U-T out.

Also:

Ocka, bocka, stona crocka,
Ocka, bocka, deuce.
Ocka, bocka, stona crocka,
Out goes youse.

And:

Hipga, hillaga, holliga sox,
Hip, ha-hilliga
Ga-boomp, ga-lay-ye-hoo.

ONE reader encloses a counting-out rime he learned as a boy in Scotland:

Ah, rah, jib ah rah,
Roney, pony, ping, ah ning ah nah
Itty, pitty, westy, canty pooh,
Itty, pitty, jitty, bitty Chinee stoo.

There are, he points out, various obvious influences—the rahrah of the American college boy, the equestrian theme, baby talk, and a strong Gilbert and Sullivan strain.

A FRAGMENT that is nearly driving us crazy, because of its persistent recurrence in the memory since it came in the mail Saturday begins: Inty, minty, tibberty, fig, Delia, dorma, norma, nig . . . It is one we have never before encountered, and the sender could remember only the opening bit. A similar beginning, of a verse that came from several sources, and that neither rimes, has rhythm, nor makes sense, is:

Intery, mintery, hickory, Dick,
Delia dolia, dominic,
Oche, poche, common ache,
Te ta touch, ugly bugly boo.
Out goes you!

APROPOS the counting-out gibberish, Sylvia Dandick writes that she remembers shouting, with the rest of the gamins on her street, "Ully, ully, unchum free!" in games where getting "free" was the high point. That was when she was just under 7, and one day when she reached the age of three times seven she learned, to her astonishment, that what the rest of the youngsters were shouting was, "All the little urchins free!"

Streamline Go Awry? Look to Nether Layers

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Don't give in to tears, if your newest fall dress, the one with the form revealing honesty, doesn't register properly with the appraising spectators! Take a good look in the mirror, see the results of pushing and pulling the model over your streamline, and admit to yourself the trouble. Upraised eyebrows that greet you, especially from your masculine public, should hustle you into town for some smooth bulge restraining underlayers.

Shape control is the most important fashion worry. When the new fall dresses not only cling, but do that clinging with a zipper at each side of the figure, you know every extra bit of careless living during the summer is going to be visible. Satin, satin lastex, expert designing of streamlines, supercomfort are all guaranteed in the undersheaths that are absolutely necessary if you would give your newest dress the best of fitting.

Fore and aft, you'll need shape control. Satin and jersey are the best of the clinging vine materials. Dull silk crêpe presents the same sort of problem. Unless the lines are long and lovely the best and most expensive of dresses goes pluggy, even sloppy. This information goes for young and not so young. After a carefree summer most of the time spent in slacks and the rest of the time in other summer easy apparel, even the slim acquire a fatal fullness.

All in one undersheaths, in bulge controling satin and satin lastex combines, will smooth out the distressing signs of a too easy diet and a lounging, lazy summertime. They're easy to wear. After the first few hours you'll wonder how you ever survived without them and the smooth magic they contrive as the proper underlayer for those new form fitting fall clothes is almost unbelievable.

Maggy Rouff Likes 'Merry Widow' Styles

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 9.—"The Merry Widow" plays a considerable rôle in the evening mode at Maggy Rouff's showing. Princess dresses flare extravagantly below the knees.

Bands of pink are set in the flounces of a black satin gown or royal purple set in white satin. These have extravagant and round décolletage with big rows of colored satin on the shoulders.

For the serious there are gowns made of flowing panels falling to the floor from a draped high, round neckline. As the panels separate they reveal a simple tubular, low necked gown.

Many are in solid colors. Others are in two colors, such as rose peony over pervenche blue. The most useful of evening gowns are slim and are made of black crêpe or dark jeweled toned velvet, with short jackets of paillette embroidered lamé.

Draping, in which this house excels, is featured in many evening gowns. A large number are in heavy silk jersey in white peony, rose, or pervenche blue.

Maggy Rouff's daytime dresses are smartly draped to the figure through the waistline.

Mainbocher's daytime mode is characterized by beltless dresses. Bodices come well down on to the hips with a fitted waist suggesting a tunic. Many skirts are very slim, others swing full at the back. Circular fullness is set on at the hipline in points.

Mainbocher's daytime skirt length is fourteen inches off the floor. The majority of daytime dresses have slim straight lines.

The most interesting novelty in this collection is hand knitted blouses that come over the skirt and are finished with a band of purling, are slightly draped to one side, looking as if made of fabric.

The loveliest evening gowns are slim and draped; a few have a low flaring peplum set on at the hipline, with the flare repeated at the bottom of the skirt. As usual, Mainbocher shows many short skirts. Quantities of skirts are slit to the knee.

Babson Warns Church Leaders of New Decline

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISLE OF SHOALS, N. H.—[Special.]—Members of the National Laymen's conference in session here tonight heard that church leaders are merely whistling in the dark when they boast of statistics showing increased membership during the last year. This view was expressed by Roger W. Babson, business statistician and the moderator of the Congregational-Christian general council.

Babson referred specifically to church membership figures made public in June by the Christian Herald and widely printed in newspapers. These figures, he said, are false. The Herald account said American churches had gained 837,404 new members during the year to reach a total of more than 63 million members.

"Such figures not only contain the names of millions who have repudiated the church which they joined in their youth but also millions who are dead and buried," said Babson.

Turning exclusively to Protestantism, Babson said his national studies show "a tremendous falling off" of attendance at Sunday services during the year. This decline, he added, was despite the increase of Protestant population during the year. Babson then turned to Sunday school decline.

"The Congregational-Christian churches of which I am moderator have had a net loss of over 150,000 scholars since 1925," Babson said. "This I assumed to be due to the serious falling off in birth rate among us indifferent Protestants, but the decline is due primarily to the loss of those of high school age. The young children are still sent to Sunday school to give fathers a chance to read the paper."

Babson said he had queried, personally, headquarters of many denominations for reasons for the decline. He reported that the one agreed cause was that the young are more inquiring today and do not accept as readily as before what their grandparents did. But Babson set this reason aside as untrue, citing the fact that the more liberalized churches which have cut with tradition have the most difficulty in holding youth.

Then Babson related what youths themselves had told him:

"Young people tell me they are getting their eyes open and are beginning to think for themselves," he reported. "They insist that for the church to interest them we laymen must be better men, better employers, parents, and neighbors than those who do not go to church. They stated kindly and diplomatically that we churchmen appear to them to be a group of hypocrites. In the face of our inconsistency, they ask, 'What use is the church?'"

Sees Adult Education as Link Between Generations

Adult education is necessary to enable the older and younger generations to understand each other, Floyd W. Reeves, professor of education at the University of Chicago, told the institute on adult education for librarians in service on the Midway yesterday. "As each generation grows to maturity another comes along with greater opportunities for securing new knowledge," Prof. Reeves said. "This knowledge tends to undermine the old and bring youth into conflict with their elders."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Eye makeup demands a special routine in hot weather. Use mascara sparingly to foil the smudging that perspiration usually encourages.

Whether it's blazing hot or bitterly cold, it's beauty wisdom to be discreet about eye makeup. Too much is always fatal. Lashes that drip with mascara and lids too heavily laden with shadow are neither good to look at or smart in their effect.

And in hot weather you've got to be especially careful. You can't ignore the fact that you'll perspire, be it ever so little — and when your shadow streaks and the mascara smudges it's going to look terrible.

We especially like the powder or dry eye shadow for hot weather use. It's dusted on gently with a tiny puff or a bit of cotton and won't break down into unsightly streaks as the cream kind so often will when the thermometer goes sky high. The powder has special attractions, too, for the woman who just can't be deft in applying the creamy kind. The dry shadow comes in all the popular shades.

You should be pretty choosy about the mascara you use in warm weather. Scorn the kind that "runs" because you'll look like a house-haunter half an hour after you put it on. There are several on the market that are creamy and easy to apply but that won't smudge. Use it, in any case, most sparingly on the lower lashes. That's usually where more smudge trouble centers. And if you perspire a good bit it might be wise to dispense with the touch of pencil around the eyes, again most especially on the lower lids. Draw out the corners if you like, but do it carefully and remember that too little is safer than too much.

Penciling the brows has no summer hazards. But winter or summer, to get the best effect, always draw in short, slanting lines, with the brows, rather than across.

"Find This Girl"

BY ROY VICKERS

[Copyright: 1937: By Roy Vickers.]

SYNOPSIS.

Bessie Mersand, a nurse, is acquitted of the charge of administering a fatal dose of medical to an elderly patient. Present at the trial were Gwynneth Bentley and her lover, Roy Gleeson. Bessie's husband is an invalid. On leaving the courtroom Bessie meets Jim Watkin.

INSTALMENT II.

A JOB OFFERED.

"James Watkin!" Bessie said aloud. "That sounds familiar."

"So it jolly well ought to! Six weeks ago today I was featured in all the news reels making a speech of one hundred and sixty-three words in the opening of the new wing of Scotland Yard."

"O! Then you're an architect!"

"Architect and sculptor. Haven't you been to this year's Academy? Haven't you seen my bust—of myself, by the way—O, but of course you haven't! Sorry!"

The slip reminded them both that she had been in prison on remand.

"Did you track me from the court?"

"Yes," he answered shamefacedly.

"Why did you track me?" she demanded.

There was a little pause. His voice had lost some of its cheeky confidence as he answered:

"Because when I saw you in court I saw something that made me want to mold you in bronze. But I gave up the idea when I saw you staring into the water."

Another odd thing about this very odd young man was that one instinctively believed everything he said.

"It's funny that you should waste time with me if you don't want me as a model," she murmured.

"It's funnier still that I wanted to do you in bronze almost more than I've ever wanted to do anything before. But when I saw you staring into the water I—well, I'll tell you one day why I dropped the idea of making—a reputation—because you were miserable."

She wanted to say something ladylike and a little distant but what she actually said was:

"I'm not so miserable now. You've bucked me up."

"Then it's my lucky day—perhaps the luckiest day in my life," he said quickly. As she glanced at him he sprang up. "I've said just enough to make you wonder whether you want to tell me to go to the devil or not. I'll save you from the trouble by deciding. If you ever want me, wire me at the Architects' club and I'll meet you anywhere. And if you never do wire me I shall come here—every day for the rest of my life—and think of you looking down at the water. Good-by—my dear!"

. . . .

"Maybe, missie, you'll be opening that gate for 'un."

Bessie, who had been leaning against the gate, opened it. The sheep, coaxed and bullied by the well trained collie, passed through the gate. The shepherd thanked her in his fashion and passed. A village dog picked a quarrel with the sheep dog; a car appeared and scattered the sheep still further. Bessie found herself waving and slapping under the shepherd's direction. She was dimly aware of another woman helping.

"I—— I hardly know what to say."

The hullabaloo died down. The shepherd had passed on his way, the sheep a compact mass, and the other woman was speaking to Bessie.

"That kind of thing happens every hundred yards or so. It's a good thing shepherds are never in a hurry." The voice was cool and pleasant and friendly, as was the woman herself. She was far from the first flush of youth but she had a ripe, arresting beauty.

"I had an awful feeling I was making things worse," laughed Bessie. "But you seem to know exactly what to do. I'm thankful they weren't cows."

"The golden rule with a cow is to shut your eyes and keep still." The woman was unaffected and rather charming, Bessie thought. "We are neither of us country people. I'm staying at the White cottage for a rest-cure. If you feel it wouldn't bore you drop in some time."

Gwynneth Bentley walked on, knowing that she had made a favorable first impression.

Bessie did not call at the White cottage, but two days later, when she was lounging on the moorland with a book, Gwynneth Bentley came upon her as if by chance. She sat on an adjoining tuft and produced a cigaret case, held it hesitantly for a moment, then helped herself.

"You don't smoke, by the look of you."

"You're quite right. You must be very observant."

"It's a disease with me. I picked up the habit in India where one has to watch the servants and more or less guess what they're up to."

"India must be lovely," opined Bessie.

"Not on the plantations, where we were for ten years. My husband was not an official but a business man. He did well but the climate finished him. That's why I have to have a rest-cure."

As the girl looked grave Mrs. Bentley went on:

"Don't be alarmed—there's no tale of woe. He's a charming man and an excellent husband. But he wants a lot of little things done for him. He doesn't like my doing them personally because I'm rather clumsy and forgetful. He has to have his temperature taken constantly and that kind of thing. That means a nurse. It's going to rain this afternoon. If it does come and have tea with me."

Bessie had tea at the White Cottage and learnt more about Mr. Bentley's nurses. They were all good at their work but they all chafed at the comparative quiet life of the Bentley household. A young woman had not yet been found who was of quiet tastes, yet able to take her part in the occasional, very mild gayeties of a semi-country house.

Bessie was listening partly from the professional angle. It sounded an ideal job—which was just what it was meant to sound.

Gwynneth Bentley gazed absently out of the window at the village.

"There goes old Mrs. Parfitt. Her daughter cut her finger yesterday. You bandaged it. I saw the bandage—and one does not need to be specially brilliant to know that you've had surgical training. What about it?"

"What about what, Mrs. Bentley? I don't understand."

"I want you to look after my husband. Live in the house, with the status of guest. No uniform. Three pounds a week and your evening dresses on my account. If acceptable, start next Monday."

A job! She had already begun to think anxiously on this subject and here was an ideal opportunity thrown into her lap. But difficulties loomed ahead. There was that false name which would render her certificates and testimonials useless. She had stuck to the "Bessie" but was now calling herself "Miss Mathews."

"I—I hardly know what to say. It's very kind of you to offer. But you've rather taken my breath away. Naturally you will want to take up my references and so on—and I haven't them with me."

"Yes, you have." Gwynneth Bentley smiled. "You carry them about with you and I have taken them up. There's one in your eyes and another in the way you dress and a third in the way you speak. I don't need any more. If you send me a bundle of papers I shan't look at them. I shall just say they are most satisfactory and—will you start next Monday?"

There was something almost hypnotic in the older woman's voice. Bessie was hesitant about accepting but before she had made up her mind she found herself saying:

"Thank you very much, Mrs. Bentley. Next Monday."

As she walked back to her diggings she found herself thinking again of James Watkin, wishing she had been able to consult him about accepting the post.

Good pay, easy work, amid surroundings that sounded very pleasant. All difficulties about the change of name and references swept aside. Yet Bessie woke up the next morning regretting that she had accepted. There was no drawback that she could think of or imagine. There was just the feeling that in some way she was being dragged into acceptance.

The feeling vanished about the middle of the morning—to be exact, the moment when Mrs. Bentley met her in the village.

It was the friendly manner that banished her misgivings. It would be absurd in the extreme to pretend that Mrs. Bentley had dragged her, would want to drag her, into anything. She had never before met a woman with such easy charm of manner, such a frank attitude to human relationships.

Doctor's Wife Has Special Role to Play

BY DORIS BLAKE.

It's a frequent occurrence to hear from a correspondent suffering the pangs of unrequited love over the doctor whose ministrations she has sought because of her health. In almost every instance one reads between the lines that said physician, true to his vows, ignores the patient's sighs if he recognizes them at all as of a heart ailment he, presumably, is causing or curing.

We have been sympathetic with the poor man whose patience is tried with this additional symptom in a patient. But in a medical journal just come to hand we discover that it is the doctor's wife who is in need of sympathy, for her rôle, of the two, appears to be the hardest if she must live up to the ten commandments recommended for her. These are the commandments for the doctor's wife if she would prove the perfect wife of the medical man:

1. She must not know the meaning of the word "jealous."
2. She must never gossip.
3. She must run a cafeteria, serving meals at all hours for her husband.
4. She must be, like Cæsar's wife, above reproach.
5. She must have self-reliance and self-control.
6. She must be able to think quickly and sanely in emergencies.
7. She must be a diplomat; see all, hear all, say a lot, yet say nothing.
8. She must learn to bear stoically, and without complaint, disappointments in her personal plans.
9. She must be a good mother and father, because doctors often are too busy to discipline their own children.
10. She must be a good "doctor" because doctors never take time to doctor themselves.

From the above, you gather, the perfect wife for the doctor must be a paragon of virtue, and praise be, there are many of her kind who seem to fill the bill sufficiently well to carry their marriages through to complete victory. On the other hand, doctors and their professional futures have been blasted in an ill choice of a helpmate. We might speak of one who ruined her mate by appearing at his office at the most unreasonable moments indicating a jealousy of every feminine patient. Another doctor known learned early in his career never to entrust a confidence to his wife about a patient. One occasion cured him of entrusting a secret.

Two Days Left to Ask Bid to Sally's Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Today's Tuesday, boys and girls, and the day after tomorrow is the deadline for letters requesting invitations to our theater party. If you're coming with me to see "The King's Sneezes," I hope you're thinking about your letter.

As I've told you, I want as my guests youngsters who like dramatics and exciting shows, who would like to see the young Jack and Jill players, under the direction of Marie Agnes Foley, present the play in their own charming little theater. These youngsters are all talented little actors and actresses, and the story of the play is a very funny one. Good King Nicholas sneezes every time the queen tickles him, and she does that every time their little girl, the Princess Lucy Lacy Lisabel, puts her finger into her mouth. Lucy says she does that because she has no one to play with. All the sneezing becomes so troublesome that the king offers half his kingdom and the hand of his daughter to any one who can cure his sneezes.

You'll see what happens if you win an invitation to my party, which is to be on Aug. 19. One hundred boys and girls will be invited to come to the Jack and Jill theater with me, and they'll be the youngsters who write the best letters about why they'd like to attend. Just tell me why you think you'd have a good time, and be sure to include your name, address, and age.

The letters will be judged on Thursday morning and the names of the winners announced in next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE.

The address is just Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

in Houston there will be the bachelor and spinster dinners. The following night Mrs. Henry Schuhmacher, aunt of the bride, will give a dinner-dance on the roof of the Rice hotel. There will be another dancing party, a swimming party, and a dinner-dance. The bridal dinner will be given on the eve of the wedding.

Other members of the bridal party will be Harry Schuhmacher of Houston, and Robert and George Perlitz, cousin and brothers of the bride, as well as Mrs. Robert Perlitz, the former Noel Cremin of Chicago. After a honeymoon in Mexico City Mr. Baby and his bride will come to Chicago to make their home on the near north side.

Miss Elizabeth Tittle to Be Bride Tonight.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Tittle, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Frémont Tittle, to David Gray Poston, will take place at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the sanctuary of the First Methodist Episcopal church in Evanston. The bride's father, who is pastor of the church, will give his daughter in marriage and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Arthur T. Clark, assistant minister.

Mrs. John M. Tittle of Winnetka will be matron of honor for her sister-in-law, and the bridesmaids will be Mrs. David MacDonald of Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Fredrica Sargent, Miss Elizabeth Lawrence, and Miss Lela Mason, all of Evanston.

Lawrence Poston will be his brother's best man, and John M. Tittle and William M. Tittle, the bride's brothers; Gerald Van Doren, Lawrence Somerville, and Francis P. Linneman of Evanston, Bruce Briney of Jackson, Tenn.; Francis Cox of Soochow, China, and William Jenks of Glencoe, Ill., will usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Sanford Poston are here from Louisville, Ky., for their son's wedding, and they will be in the receiving line at the reception afterward in the great hall of the church.

Mr. Poston and his bride will remain in Evanston until the end of the week, when they will leave for Vancouver. There they will embark on the 19th for China, where Mr. Poston is a member of the faculty of the Soochow academy. Soochow is about 100 miles from Shanghai.

Nine Grandchildren in Kohlsaat Family.

With the arrival of Barbara Ann Kohlsaat last Wednesday at the Evanston hospital, Mrs. Gates Kohlsaat became a grandmother for the ninth time. The new arrival is the third child in the family of the junior Mr. and Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat. The junior Franklin E. Agnews [Suzanne Kohlsaat] of St. Louis, Mo., have three sons, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Harkness [Cynthia Kohlsaat] have two boys and a girl.

The young Mr. and Mrs. Kohlsaat now have three girls, Starr and Cecily, in addition to Barbara Ann. Little Hewes de Muth Agnew is visiting his grandmother in Winnetka, and his mother is coming north this week to take him home. Hewes was named for two great grandfathers; his next older brother, Gates Kohlsaat Agnew, was named for a grandfather and a great grandfather; and the eldest boy was named Franklin III., for his father and paternal grandfather.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Porter [Betty Wales] became the parents of a five and a half pound daughter yesterday morning at the Evanston hospital. The infant is a granddaughter of Mrs. Robert W. Wales of Winnetka. The Porters have just moved into a new home in the Sunset Ridge district west of Winnetka.

Mrs. George L. Cragg is a new grandmother, too, for her son, and his wife, the George Thomas Craggs, became the parents of a son recently in Lafayette, Ind., where they are living.

Mrs. Augustus K. Maxwell is convalescing after an operation performed Friday at Billings Memorial hospital, where she has been for several weeks.

Pot of Gold.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The design of the "Pot of Gold" is similar to the natural phenomenon, but the colors used in piecing the pattern can be of equal brilliance, more vivid, or delicately pastel. If all print materials are used the "Pot of Gold" assumes a quaintness and charm which is highly individual and a perfect complement to certain types of young girls or women. When made in solid colors this same block has a masculine touch which would make it suitable for rooms of young boys and men. The block measures twelve inches square and forty-two of them are set together with two inch bands of white and surrounded by a four inch white border.

Radio Reporter Studies Likes of Farm Folk

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Definition: A vacation is two weeks in the country during which no one says Jack Benny. Your correspondent, just returned from a fortnght on the threshing front, failed, however, to escape radio altogether. For even during the arduous bundle pitching season, when farmers bounce out of bed at 4:30 a. m. and are still stripping the last bossy at 8:30 p. m., country people find time to tune in a few times a day. They do a lot of listening even before many city folks are up.

Rural women appear to have less time to follow the many serial script shows than their city friends—at least that seems to be so during the busy harvest season. In the north Iowa region visited, WHO of Des Moines, WMT of Cedar Rapids and Waterloo, and WLS seem to be favored spots on the dial. These stations all go for special features for farm folk. Programs like Bob Elson's Man on State Street interviews on W-G-N give country people a slant on city life they enjoy. Elson also seems to be an easy favorite with baseball followers. In stores, filling stations and homes visited his voice was invariably the one heard afternoons.

Weather reports and other service features are carefully followed. In urgent need of rain, the community turned to the loudspeaker for some reassuring word of a coming downpour. Early morning news reports—the morning papers do not arrive until almost noon—get considerable attention.

Shakespeare is another word we did not hear in two weeks. At the hour NBC and Columbia compete in streamlining the Bard of Avon's works, Fibber McGee and Molly were making the farm families chuckle. Bob Burns is well liked as are Uncle Ezra and Lum and Abner. And far more people out there seem to be concerned over the Arkansas Woodchopper than Rudy Vallee.

Radio also has brought the windmill a rival. It's the windcharger—invented by farm folks themselves but developed and perfected by E. F. McDonald's radio firm. Almost every farm—except the few served by electricity—now has a whirling propellor blade atop the barn or a special tower to keep the radio's batteries pepped up.

A quick dive into accumulated mail reveals that Gen. Hugh S. Johnson is going to go to work on NBC for a headache remedy maker on Sept. 27. . . . There is talk that Maurice Chevalier is coming here to headline a new network show in the fall. . . . A certain sponsor is offering Paul Muni $7,500 a broadcast for 26 weeks and he is reported weakening. . . . Florence George, young Chicago soprano, has been chosen to star with Lanny Ross in that new motor car series. . . . Rubinoff will appear at the Chicagoland Music Festival. . . Kate Smith will be back with her new show Thursday, Sept. 30, opposite Rudy Vallee. . . . Milton Berle winds up Aug. 29.

Artist Will Marry 'Miss Gallagher' of His Many Paintings

Today, Parcell, now a nationally known portrait artist, applied for a marriage license for "Miss Gallagher," and himself.

She is Miss Helen L. Gallagher, a teacher in Washington's eighth ward school. She gave her age on the license application as 34. Parcell said he was 41.

The artist, whose home is in Washington, is represented in many galleries. Numerous of the exhibits are paintings of Miss Gallagher. Parcell has showed in every international since 1920.

Robust Youth Is the Ideal of Feminine Beauty Today

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Not long ago we saw a second run, or maybe it was the third, fourth, or tenth run, of the "Camille" movie. After a day at a beach we were struck with the comparison of this historic Camille beauty and what we would demand of beauty today. A heroine wasting away today with an incurable disease would be as anathema to our taste ordinarily as would be the picture of a feminine prize fighter trying a Janet Gaynor rôle. Common sense, too, would dictate that the sick woman under her particular circumstances of illness would not have been too pleasant to be around.

But the illness and fragility were all in the picture of an ideal peculiar to the 19th century. If you weren't anemic then you weren't a lady to stir a gentleman's chivalry. Perhaps our modern girls stir less chivalry but they are a magnificent crop who can very well get about on their own without the chivalry, if need be. They do earn admiration with their clean young limbs firmly and finely proportioned, with their magnificent freedom of stride. Their straight spines and their skin, hair and eyes brimming with health and glow.

Earlier in our history the trim waist was a pivotal point of beauty. But women in those days got theirs by corsetting, whereas today the trim waistlines and firm bustlines are achieved with exercise, posture, and correct diet, in which this country excels in exploiting as our modern ideal of beauty. We are simply swamped with admiration for the waistlines seen in those play and bathing suits that leave said waistline uncovered. Girl after girl without a sign of rusty waist muscles, if we might so call them.

We are speaking of young girls, naturally. It's only an occasional woman with a thick spare tire who dares the younger one's halter outfit who reminds us of what waists may develop into. The beach we patronize this summer, at least, has few such waistlined women on view, however. If they're fat in the middle they cover up.

But we were talking of romantic heroine comparisons between Camille's day and that of our young heroines. Wrists, pallid brows, and slender, purely decorative and useless but for dainty needlework hands were points emphasized in those other days. Who'd care today if the feminine hand looks sturdy enough to wield a battle ax if need be, or if wrists are not exquisitely molded?

Screen Actors' Guild Orders Boycott of Brown Derby Cafes

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Screen Actors' guild, which embraces practically every film player here, stars included, today began a boycott of the Brown Derby cafés, where a culinary workers' union struck Friday.

"Certain of our members have stationed themselves near the cafés," said Aubrey Blair, guild business agent, "to warn affiliated players not to enter.

"In the past Hollywood screen people have hurried through picket lines, thinking the crowd was composed merely of autograph hunters."

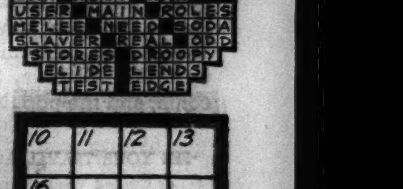
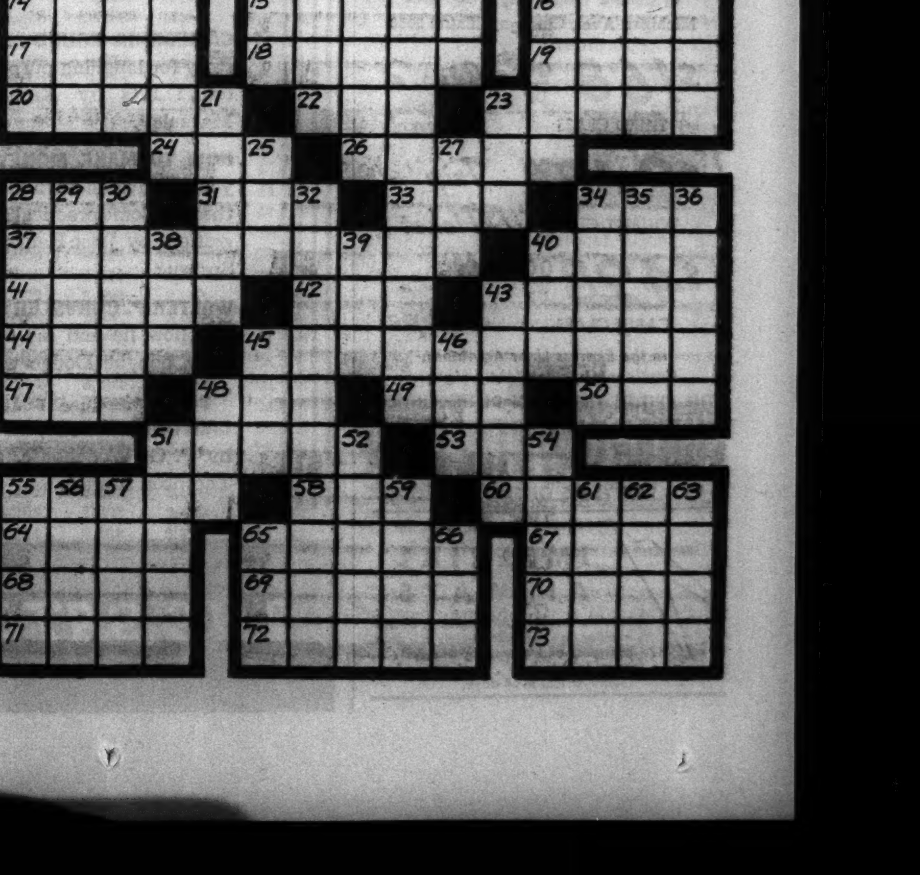
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





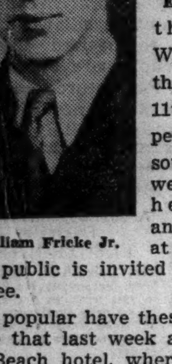
VOICE CONTESTS FOR WEST SIDE WILL BE TONIGHT

Preliminary Events for Music Festival.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

One hundred ninety-two vocalists living on the west and northwest sides of Chicago and Cook county will sing tonight and tomorrow night, beginning at 7 o'clock, in a preliminary voice contest of the Chicagoland Music Festival. It will be held in the Chicago Woman's Club theater, 72 East 11th street. Competition for the south and southwest sides will be held Thursday and Friday nights at the same place. The public is invited and admission is free.

Edith B. Duning.



William Fricke Jr.

So popular have these auditions become that last week at the Edgewater Beach hotel, where vocalists living on the north side were heard, scores of people had to stand.

All the singers hope that they will win in the preliminary contests and be chosen in the finals to sing at the festival concert in Soldiers' field on Saturday night, Aug. 21.

For the convenience of those attending these contests who wish to attend the festival luncheon and the festival concert, tickets for both may be obtained at the entrance to the Woman's Club theater. The luncheon tickets are $1 each and the reserved seats for the Soldiers' field entertainment 50 cents. The luncheon will be held Friday afternoon, Aug. 20, at 1 p. m., in the Silver Forest of the Drake hotel.

The judges of tonight's competition will be Adolf Muhlmann, Harriet Case, and William Phillips. Tomorrow they will be Louise Gilbert, Margot Rebeil, and Zerline Muhlmann Metzger. The vocalists residing in the west and northwest parts of the city and Cook county are as follows, listed by voice range:

SERGT. OTTO BECOMES REGIMENT'S 'COLONEL' IN CAMP GRANT HONOR

Camp Grant, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—A first sergeant of Chicago's 132d infantry today became "colonel" of his regiment at a parade in his honor. He is Henry M. Otto, a veteran of 36 years' service in the Illinois National Guard, who will retire Aug. 16 when he reaches the age of 64.

While the regimental commander, Col. Leroy Nelson, and the other officers stood aside, the regiment, commanded by noncommissioned officers, passed in review before "Colonel" Otto.

Otto joined the First Illinois Engineers in 1901. During the war he served in France with the 132d infantry and wears a victory medal with five stars representing the major engagements in which he took part.

Troops of the Illinois National Guard in training here resumed today the strenuous drills and exercises prepatory to the overnight "battle" maneuver which starts Wednesday.

ANGRY AT WIFE'S MOTHER; FIRES HER BARN; JAILED

Some husbands would have said something downright unpleasant in a quarrel with their mother-in-law. Frank Klotz of 10615 Green Bay avenue held his tongue and went over and set his mother-in-law's barn on fire, he told Judge Weiss in Felony court yesterday. Klotz, who is 24 years old, was sentenced to 60 days in the Bridewell on the complaint of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Anna Lager, who lives down the street at 10639 Green Bay avenue.

JURY SWORN IN TO TRY YOUTH IN CHILD RAPE CASE

Eleven men who are married and have families and one bachelor were sworn in late yesterday as the jury which will begin hearing evidence today in the Criminal court of Judge John Prystalski in the trial of John Ardelean, 17 years old, 272[illegible] Glenlake avenue. The youth, a former high school athlete, is charged with the stabbing and rape of a 9 year old girl on July 8.

Throughout the day the defendant calmly watched the proceedings. Near him sat his father, Samuel, janitor in the building in which the attack occurred at 2720 Glenlake avenue. The elder Ardelean will probably be called as a state witness.

Deputy sherifs searched every person who entered the room to prevent any further attempts on Ardelean's life. The father of his victim fired several shots at the youth while he was in a cell at the Summerdale police station a few days after he confessed the crime.

A Real Fan.

The All-Star football ticket department recently received this letter: "I am enclosing $4.40 for two tickets to the Green Bay Packer-All-Star game. I wish to explain the tardiness of the order which was unavoidable due to the fact that pa gave us a pig last spring to raise. The pig was very slow getting into shape, so we have just sold it. The money came today and we are sending for the tickets right away. This is the first time we ever came to Chicago so ma is coming with us. She is going to stay at Aunt Minnie's during the game. This is the first big game we ever saw and are spending all our money for it."

The letter came from a fan in downstate Illinois.

When Silence Is Golden.

At a dude ranch in the west not long ago a tenderfoot and a cow puncher somehow hit the trail up a mountainside together. Reaching a point overlooking a breathtaking panorama they stopped, unsaddled the horses, and sat down crosslegged to survey the scene below. After a prolonged silence the cow puncher ventured that it might rain. The tenderfoot said he didn't think so. A moment later the cow puncher got up and started to saddle his horse. This puzzled the dude because they had been there a comparatively short time so he asked the westerner why the sudden hurry. His only answer was: "Too much arguin'."

A Ghost Walks.

A ghost walks and it seems that he—
A hundred millions things can see.
He sees men struggle to the last
And lose the fortunes they've amassed—
Sees men war on neighbor, and
Take from him, his home and land—
Sees successful men who laugh
At struggles of the other half—
Sees men love when love is vain
And lose the love they sought to gain—
Sees man look not on the world
To view all nature's joys unfurled.
A ghost walks and it seems that he Laughs at fools like you and me.

An Idea.

The American boat, the Ranger, handled by Vanderbilt, has proven so far superior to the Endeavour II. that I have been wondering whether or not the result was due to the boat or the handling or both. A new contest between these two boats, with Vanderbilt on the Endeavour II. and Sopwith on the Ranger would be most interesting. Would it not be possible to arrange a race of this kind before Mr. Sopwith's return to England?

BY FRENCH LANE.

Bow to Me, the Bradley bred horse that has been the sensation of the Chicago racing season, rolled up his sixth straight victory at Lincoln Fields yesterday afternoon, but in so doing probably ended his career at the tracks.

After running a mile in 1:36 3-5 to beat a band of eligibles for next Saturday's Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap, Bow to Me limped back to the winner's circle a very lame horse. He would put no weight on his left foreleg. Horsemen who examined him were of the opinion he had broken down.

His trainer, Ben Jones, declared that he would not know until this morning if Bow to Me's racing days had ended. The horse appeared to walk out of some of his lameness as he was led back across the infield toward his stall.

Odds on Choice at Post.

It was the Green Diamond purse in which he triumphed so easily. As a result of the smashing victories he had scored at Washington Park and Arlington Park he went to the post with his stable companion, Robert L., as an odds on favorite at 90 cents to $1.

He bounded away from such fleet rivals as Threadneedle, Watersplash, and Salaam without effort. Soon he was romping down the backstretch in front by four lengths.

It was a runaway, for he rounded the first turn still that far in front. But before he hit the head of the stretch the left foreleg must have given away. His strides shortened slightly.

Not long after the stretch run started he was in front by only two lengths. Watersplash was driving up from behind with a challenge. Robert L. had not found it possible to outrun Watersplash in those late stages.

His Rivals are Groggy.

Bow to Me had gone so fast in the early stages, however, that his rivals all were groggy. Watersplash didn't have enough left to conquer him.

Bow to Me had run the first quarter in :23 2-5 seconds and the half in :46 2-5.

Bow to Me, a son of Epinard-Beginners Luck, once was the pride of Col. E. R. Bradley's stable. He was never a sound horse, however, so when he turned into his 4 year old campaign Col. Bradley sold the black flyer to Trainer Roscoe Goose.

Trainer Goose nursed him along. When he cut him loose for a serious engagement at Washington Park, Bow to Me never left the result in doubt.

On he rushed through more victories at Washington Park, still other ones at Arlington Park. This was his first start at Lincoln Fields. During that spectacular string of victories Goose sold the 4 year old to Trainer Jones who bought him with the idea in mind of making him chief sultan on the Jones breeding farm in Missouri.

Watersplash finished second in Green Diamond. Bow to Me's stablemate was third. Jocky S. Roberts on Robert L., was suspended for ten days for rough riding in the event.

Big Day for Reichert Stable.

The W. C. Reichert stable of Bellville, Ill., enjoyed one of its best days yesterday since My Dandy and Brown Wisdom once made their owner's silks prominent on the turf. For a time it looked like a truly great day for Reichert.

Miss Pittypat had won the 5½ furlongs third race for 2 year olds on a smashing stretch drive in which she overhauled the favorite, Chispa, and the stoutly suported Jean Cloud. She scored her victory by a neck, but was going stronger than any of the others at the finish.

Then in the seven furlong fifth race Denbigh carried the Reichert green and white silks to the post in a race fashioned for 3 year olds. A

Series Seats? Cubs Say It Won't Be Long

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

By the end of the week the Cubs, now topping the National league with a comfortable six game margin, may feel that they wouldn't be premature, or even taking a chance, by advising their friends to prepare orders for world series tickets.

If it is still six games next Sunday evening, when the first placers set forth on a long road trip, there shouldn't be anything to worry about, although there have been cases of better margins vanishing in the last six weeks of the race. But with the Pirates booked for three games here starting today and the lowly Reds arriving after that for four battles in three days, the present edge should swell instead of shrink, and there's still a long at home stay in September in which to make up ground, if necessary.

They Win When Necessary.

Although the Cubs weren't especially hot at times against second division invalids during the eastern invasion which closed with a double victory last Sunday, they landed punches where they counted. They beat back the Giants three straight times, and that's what helped to improve the two game margin they owned when they returned home July 27. Against Brooklyn the leaders won two out of three, dropped two of three to the Phillies, and won four of five from Boston for a total of ten victories against four losses.

The Cubs have slapped down the Giants eleven times in seventeen games this season, and if they maintain that ratio to the finish it will simplify everything because it will hold back the one team that has a chance to overtake the Chicagoans. Five games remain between the two contenders, two in New York next week and three here in September.

French Greets Pirates.

Larry French will pitch the opener against the Pirates today, probably drawing Cy Blanton as an opponent, but beyond this Manager Grimm isn't able to call the turn on his mound workers. Bill Lee is questionable because of the side injury he suffered in Saturday's game. Charley Root may require a couple of days off for his right hand, which was bruised by a batted ball in the second game Sunday. Clyde Shoun, if French's southpawing proves successful today, may be nominated tomorrow.

Bill Jurges, the shortstop who has been doing a man's sized job of hitting for the last several months, expects to be doing business at the old stand today. He rested Sunday because of soreness in his left shoulder, caused by a slide at the plate the previous day. Even if Jurges returns, thus relieving Frey for outfield duty, the latter may not go back to fly chasing.

LYNN WALDORF SECOND; ELMER LAYDEN THIRD

Announce Winner Tomorrow.

BY ARCH WARD.

Charles E. Dorais of the University of Detroit, apparently has won the national poll for a staf of coaches to lead the College All-Americans against the Green Bay Packers at Soldiers' field Sept. 1. While final figures will not be available until tomorrow morning it is unlikely that any of the other candidates can overtake him. The balloting ended at midnight Sunday.

Major interest now centers in the race for second place between Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern and Elmer Layden of Notre Dame. Both have run neck and neck since the voting began and this morning they are separated by less than 21,000 points.

Breaks All Records.

Dorais' vote breaks all records for sport polls. No baseball player, no football player or no other coach ever has acquired the total he possesses this morning. Of the 6,423,871 first place votes already counted, Dorais has received 1,163,817. Bernie Bierman of Minnesota won last year's coaches' poll with 1,047,173 first place votes.

The Detroit leader, who has the united backing of fans in the state of Michigan, has been pulling away steadily since the first returns. He has been in front every day except two. Within the last 24 hours his total has been boosted approximately 400,000 first place votes. The Detroit Free Press and radio station WJR, Detroit, which served as clearing houses for the Michigan returns, have been swamped with ballots for nearly a week.

While the bulk of ballots for Dorais was cast in Michigan, he has received national support. Thousands of individual votes and hundreds of petitions marked for him have poured into THE TRIBUNE from all over the country. Among the last to arrive was a block of 125 from Alden W. Thompson, dean of the physical education department at West Virginia university. They were signed by summer school students.

Everybody Goes to Town.

Nearly every important civic leader in Detroit has actively supported him. Union labor leaders, the police department, fire department, school board, lodges, and industrial and professional men have given generously of their time to make his campaign an amazing success. The following telegram, which reached this department yesterday, is typical of hundreds:

"Regret absence from city prevented me wiring my personal vote for Charles Dorais before the close of balloting. However, we are hopeful that the efforts of our organizations have materially aided him in winning first place as coach in your charity football game Sept. 1.

"[Signed] WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN.
"President, General Motors Corporation."

While the great drive for Dorais has absorbed major interest in the poll, the support for other candidates has been equally as heavy as in other years. The northwest section has gone all the way for Jimmy Phelan of Washington, but there isn't the numerical strength in that area to meet a campaign that has developed more than a million votes for an individual contender. The same applies to the south, where Bernie Moore of Louisiana State has been the front runner. The support for Phelan and Moore, however, has been just as enthusiastic proportionately as for Dorais, Waldorf, and Layden.

First All-Star Arrives.

Another interesting development of the poll is the size of the vote for Bob Zuppke of Illinois. There has been little or no organized effort in his behalf, but he has received more than 236,000 first place votes. It is evidence of the esteem in which he is held by the nation's fans. Even more surprising is the number of ballots for Pete Vaughan of Wabash. Both he and Bo McMillin of Indiana found their totals somewhat reduced because of the competition in their home state. Each cut into the other's vote.

The first of the 67 players who will comprise the All-Star squad arrived yesterday. He is Delbert Bjork, 215 pound tackle from the University of Oregon. Sam Francis of Nebraska will report today. All must be registered at Northwestern university Saturday.

Michalske Returns to Green Bay as Coach

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Rumors that August [Mike] Michalske planned to forsake his assistant coaching post at Lafayette university to return to professional football were confirmed today when Coach E. L. [Curly] Lambeau of the Green Bay Packers announced the sign of Michalske as player and assistant coach for the 1937 season.

HORSEMEN LOOK FOR FASTEST MILE FROM MARICA

Prepares for Peabody Memorial Saturday.

Horsemen at Lincoln Fields believe that if she hits a fast track in the Peabody Memorial handicap on Saturday, Marica, the French Lick Spring's speedy mare, will run the fastest mile of the year in America. She is tuning up for that race, in which her most formidable rivals will be J. W. Parrish's 3 year old, Dellor, and the Valdina Farm stable's Eagle Pass. The fastest mile run on a Chicago track this year was 1:35 4-5. That mark has been reached on four occasions, three times at Arlington Park and at Lincoln Fields.

Jocky Paul Keester arrived from a vacation at his home in Newport, Ky., yesterday and tossed his boots and saddle into the jocky room at Lincoln Fields. Another new arrival was Jocky C. Lamb.

About 1,500 delegates now in Chicago for the International Apple association convention will be guests at Lincoln Fields tomorrow afternoon.

J. W. Parrish's Perlette, a candidate for the Peabody Memorial on Saturday, thrilled the clockers yesterday morning when she dashed 6 furlongs in 1:12 2-5 under stout restraint.

Greyhound to Seek Trotting Record Today

Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The Widower, driven by Vic Fleming and owned by W. F. Hetherington of Rhinebeck, N. Y., won the Langhorne stake, feature race of the four event program which opened the Grand Circuit meeting here today.

The races opened a week of racing which will include the 12th Hambletonian stakes Wednesday, the Good Time stakes for 2 year olds tomorrow, and the Hollyrood stakes Thursday.

Chief Counsel from the Parshall stable was a strong favorite in today's feature, but the Widower won the event in straight heats. The stake was for 2 year old racers.

Mrs. Harriman Wins.

Mrs. E. R. Harriman drove the winner of the handicap trot for amateur drivers, the stallion Calumet Eric. Calumet Eric won the second and fastest heat.

Hollyrood Marshall, owned by James Cox Brady of New York and driven by Harry Whitney, won the 2:24 trot in four heats.

Tomorrow's program includes Greyhounds' attempt to break Peter Manning's 15 year old record for the mile in 1:56¾. The big 5 year old gelding will be paced by a running horse and driven by Sep Palin. The event shares interest with the Good Time stakes, in which the top trotters of the 2 year old class are entered.

Big Field for Classic.

One of the Hambletonian's largest fields appears probable for the classic Wednesday. A dozen, possibly thirteen, 3 year olds will go to the post.

The time limit for entries expires at 11 o'clock tomorrow By that time it is expected Twilight Song, Schnapps, Desota, Shirley Hanover, Dilphia Hanover, Alice Hanover, Farr, Southland, Athlone, Iosola Guy, and Earl's Spencerian will have entered with Norma Hanover, Hollyrood, Audrey II., and Carioca strong possibilities to complete the field.

MUSCLETONE VS. GREYHOUND RACE PLANS DISCUSSED

New York, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Giovanni Maiani of Milan, Italy, arrived nere today aboard the Europa to discuss terms for a match race between Muscletone, his champion European trotter, and Greyhound, the American champion.

Maiani conferred for several hours with E. J. Baker of St. Charles, Ill., and Sep Palin, owner and trainer, respectively, of Greyhound. The conference then was adjourned to Goshen, N. Y., where Maiani will witness the running of the classic Hambletonian on Wednesday and will see Greyhound in action for the first time tomorrow when he seeks to better the world record of 1:56¾ set by Peter Manning in 1922.

*Field. Time, :23 2-5, :47 2-5, 1:12 2-5, 1:25 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Beaver Lake, $8.60 straight, $5.00 place, $3.20 show; Bold Bid, $12.40 place, $6.60 show; Noah's Pride, $2.60 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:46.

BEAVER LAKE, lucky and never a great distance back, forced his way through on the inside on the turn, drew into a good lead while under strong pressure when approaching the final eighth and withstood BOLD BID'S rush. Latter slow to begin and on the inside early, was taken out after a half mile, swerved out badly when entering the stretch and coming with a rush when straght, was wearing down the winner.

THIRD RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 2-5, :47, :59 3-5, 1:06 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Miss Pittypat, $13.60 straight, $5.80 place, $3.80 show; Chispa, $4.40 place, $3.00 show; Jean Cloud, $5.20 show. Daily double paid $58. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:15.

MISS PITTYPAT, away fast, forced the early pace under snug restraint, came around CHISPA gradually and won drawing clear. Latter, also away fast but urged in showing the most speed, saved ground after the first three-sixteenths and held on creditably, but could not withstand the winner.

MISS SYCAMORE, kept well up while racing on the inside the first half mile, responded with good energy after coming to the outside and, wearing down NIGHT GAIL, was going away at the end. Latter, having speed from the start, was under mild reserve for a half mile, held on courageously after gaining a short advantage in the stretch, but was not good enough.

FIFTH RACE—Seven-eighths of a mile, out of chute. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Time, :23 2-5, :47 1-5, 1:12 3-5, 1:25 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Pompasse, $11.40 straight, $9.00 place, $3.60 show; Frontier, $22.40 place, $7.80 show; Denbigh, $2.80 show. Winner trained by R. L. Rogers. Went to post at 4:13.

POMPASSE, away poorly as she broke to the inside, began to move up on the stretch turn, came between horses when coming with a rush in the final quarter and, coming to the outside of the leaders, got up within a few strides of the finish. FRONTIER, on the inside throughout and under steady restraint for about five-eighths, quickly recovered after meeting interference from BOULEVARD near the final eighth and finshed resolutely.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Allowance. Three year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

BOW TO ME took command quickly, made a steady pace under restraint, sustained good speed without need of urging and had something left but pulled up lame. WATERSPLASH, raced wide early, was taken to the inside when again moving up on the stretch turn and held on with good courage in the drive.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $200; third, $75; fourth, $25.

OUR COUNT, inclined to bear over, was permitted to improve his position very slowly, stood a hard drive gamely and got up in the final stride. SAFE AND SOUND, much used in the early stages, took a short lead on the stretch turn, swerved out slightly when holding on stubbornly and barely failed to last.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $125; third, $50; fourth, $25.

BLIND SAGE took command at once, was rated along under restraint to the stretch and, continuing well following a brisk shaking up, held sway to the end. BOILING POINT, lightly restrained for three-quarters, failed to rally to urging, yet held on with good courage. UNKIE TOM saved much ground and also held on courageously.

Favorites Gain Third Round in Eastern Tennis

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP)—One upset marked third day play in the eastern grass courts tennis championships at the Westchester Country club today as most of the third round brackets in men's and women's singles were filled and a start was made on the doubles.

Helen Pedersen of Stamford, Conn., third seeded woman player, fell before Barbara Winslow of Hollywood, Cal., 6-3, 6-8, 6-4. Miss Pedersen still was weak as a result of ptomaine poisoning, suffered at Southampton, N. Y., last week and was unable to play her usual game.

Art Hendrix Beaten.

A couple of oddities marked the day's play, which saw all the seeded Americans in the men's division except Art Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., reach the third round. Bryan Grant, the little Davis cup star from Atlanta who is second on the seeded list, had to go back and play his first round match after eliminating William J. Clothier of Philadelphia in a provisional second round match yesterday. Clothier had to return home, so Grant disposed of him first, then today whipped Charles Carr of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-2.

Gene Mako, another Davis cup player, who had won his first round singles match yesterday, defaulted to Peter Lauck of Wynnewood, Pa., in the second. He explained he wanted to rest before playing in the doubles with Don Budge. As a result Lauck reached the third round without playing a match.

Budge-Mako Win.

Budge and Mako came out late in the day to win the only men's doubles match from Modesto Alloo of Berkeley, Cal., and Armand Bruneau of Brooklyn, 6-0, 3-6, 6-0.

Top-seeded Frankie Parker had little trouble gaining the third round bracket with a 6-0, 6-4 victory over Henry M. Culley of Santa Barbara, Cal.

great plunge was made on him. The odds dropped suddenly from 5 to 2 to 7 to 5.

Denbigh Almost Does It.

Denbigh left the gate flying. He ran with the leaders until he finally poked his nose in front a furlong from the finish. His backers roared. Too much had been taken out of him in that drive, however, and Denbigh had nothing left. Pompasse thundered past him to be the winner by almost a length. Frontier also conquired the faltering Denbigh in the final strides to take down second money. Denbigh finished third.

Miss Pittypat paid $13.60. Even though Denbigh was at a short price, he would have wound up a parlay that would have made all the Reichert backers happy. That wasn't to be. H. Mora, a lad from Panama, rode Miss Pittypat. The skilful Glen Smith was up on Denbigh. Pompasse, the conqueror of Denbigh, paid $11.40. She is a fast running daughter of Pompey-Passe. Her owner is Mrs. R. L. Rogers of Louisville.

FISHERMEN! PACK FLASHLIGHT WHEN IN QUEST OF PIKE

Night Life Holds Appeal for Wall-Eyes.

BY BOB BECKER.

The wall-eyed pike is more of a nocturnal feeder than many of our other fresh water game fish. The vitreous-eyed pike think nothing of cruising around on any kind of a night to hunt for minnows, nature having given them eyes that seek out food in the dark. Although it is possible to catch wall-eyes during the day, fishermen often find [especially in midsummer] that the very best wall-eye fishing comes from sundown until dark.

A few days ago we tried the wall-eyes around sundown and discovered on this particular occasion that they refused to hit anything until it became dark. In fact, it was around 8:20 when the big fellows began to sock our lures.

Near Laona, Wis.

We were fishing a crystal clear lake not far from Laona, Wis. We had been told that the night before the fishermen on the lake couldn't do a thing until well after 8 o'clock. But this was a cloudy evening, so we felt sure that the pike would start in a little earlier and give us some fun. But the wall-eyes weren't to be fooled by clouds. Their schedule called for activity when it was so dark that we had to use a flashlight in the boat.

After trolling and carefully fishing a number of bars in the lake until 8:15 we had just three fish, although our party had put back five small ones. By this time the glow in the western sky was fast disappearing. In the north, close to the tops of the wooded hills, we could see the northern lights. An owl started to hoot 'way down the lake. We answered him a couple of times. Back came his eerie call through the stillness of the night.

Bing! A Hit!

About this time Joe, who was at the oars, guided the boat close to a big weed bed. We felt the tug of the weeds and we lifted our trolling lure. Then, bing! a hit. P. H. D., sitting in the front of the boat, called out that he had a strike, too. He had hooked a dandy 3 pounder. We had located a school of pike, and the fish were ready to strike.

From that time on the wall-eyes gave us plenty of action. It was obvious after considering the way the fish wouldn't hit around sundown that the pike had been waiting until it was just about dark before going places to find minnows. They wanted darkness for their feeding time.

DEMPSEY ENTERS WHOLESALE LIQUOR FIELD

Within three or four months, he said today, he expected to put on the market blended whiskies of all kinds under his own name.

He has just returned from Washington, where he sought permission of the Federal Alcohol administration to use his picture on the bottles.

"No," he said, "I'm not going to give up the restaurant. Business is too good."

WE COULD USE SUGARS or SYRUPS in Brewing BUT WE WON'T for that may make the beer TOO SWEET!

by RICHARD SEIBOLD, Meister Bräu Brewmaster

Drink a Beer made the old-time way . . Bottled with Natural Draft Beer Carbonation . . Created in the Beer itself

I'M frank to admit I'm old-fashioned . . . that I use the same old slow method of brewing as when I began to make MEISTER BRÄU in 1906.

Take putting MEISTER BRÄU in cans. Eight months ago we had our beer in cans. Hardly a day went by that dealers didn't try to get some of it. But we weren't ready. We spent those eight months in satisfying ourselves that we would satisfy you.

We're just as slow in brewing. We start with a special grade of Malt and Hops. Then we clean and wash these ingredients as for your table. This removes the chaff. So we don't have to boil and boil to dissolve the chaff.

That's how I retain that life and sparkle—with the natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself. Thus MEISTER BRÄU has the true draft beer flavor.

Then I could save time in brewing by adding sugars or syrups . . . but that may make a beer too sweet.

Drink some MEISTER BRÄU today. I know you'll be grateful for this beer, made slowly and carefully the old-time way. That's why it has become the fastest selling bottled beer in this great mid-western area.

SOX OPEN THREE GAME SERIES IN DETROIT TODAY

Lee to Oppose Wade in First Contest.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—The White Sox are here in none too friendly environment, but are they happy to be away from that fishy old Atlantic ocean! Of course the lads' spirits might have been low even in the blissful midwestern atmosphere if John Whitehead in yesterday's second game hadn't led them out of the darkness that had engulfed them in a seven game losing streak.

Defense Is Shaky.

The swooning which caused the White Sox to drop the first game in Boston yesterday was but one of similar faints that had contributed to a majority of defeats in the seven game slide. Of course, home runs both in New York and Boston furnished the main wrecking qualities, but in O, so many instances, the scene was set for those devastating homers by woeful defensive play.

But turning to the Tigers, it is a painful duty to remind suffering Sox fans that the Tigers were beating the Sox before the Chicagoans became afflicted with that Atlantic ocean mal de mer that brought such havoc last week to drop them from a strong second place berth to a distressing fourth place bog.

Lee vs. Wade.

The Sox and Tigers tomorrow will start a series of three single games with the Tigers possessed of a seven to three edge in the season series. Thornton Lee will pitch the opener for the White Sox, who expect to oppose Jake Wade.

Cunningham Seeks P. G. A. Presidency

First definite opposition to the administration of George R. Jacobus of New York, president of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, appeared yesterday in an announcement by Alex Cunningham of the North Shore Country club that he will be a candidate for the national presidency when the annual meeting of the organization is held here in November. Cunningham is president of the Illinois section of the P. G. A.

Open Plank in Platform.

"The objective of my brother professionals," Cunningham's announcement reads, "will be to set up a national administration which will hold to an impartial, strict, and complete observance of the association code and resist efforts of a minority group to control the P. G. A. by a self-perpetuating political machine. With other members, I favor an administration in which the entire membership shall be at all times advised concerning the business of the associaton, and be permitted to function freely and in the open.

"During recent years professional golf has been frequently involved in controversies and publicity about which the membership has not been given official information and has not been permitted to exercise honest judgment."

Jacobus Under Fire.

Jacobus' policies have been the subject of considerable dissension throughout the P. G. A. His discharge of Robert E. Harlow as the association's tournament manager last winter never has been fully explained. The Illinois section this spring filed a formal protest to Jacobus' rejection of the Radix low scoring trophy, donated after solicitation by the P. G. A. by Harry E. Radix, Chicago sportsman.

Cooley, Former Major League Player, Is Dead

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 9—(AP)—D. C. Cooley, 64, former big league baseball player, died today following a heat stroke Saturday. He started his baseball career with the St. Louis Browns in 1893, later playing with Pittsburgh, Boston, Philadelphia and Detroit.

Erickson's 67 Leads Public Links Tourney

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 9.—(AP)—A 67, five under par, permitted Don Erickson of Alhambra, Cal., to lead at the halfway mark today in 36 hole qualifying trials for the national public links golf tournament. Erickson set a new record for the Harding Park course.

The 25 year old gas company employé got three birdies on each nine, dropping a 30 foot putt on the 18th. He was out in 34 and back in 33.

Greene, playing for the Philadelphia team and assistant foreman in an automobile plant at Chester, went out in 33 and finished in 36. He missed three easy putts, the ball rimming the cup.

Ennis Has 72.

Defending Champion Pat Abbott of Pasadena, Cal., was out with a 33 but took a 37 on the second nine for a 70 and third place.

Two other favorites, Carl Kauffmann of Pittsburgh, three-time champion, and Claude Rippy of Washington, D. C., runnerup to Abbott last year, were within striking distance. They tied at par 72 with Hal Dufour of Sacramento, Edward Sams of Buffalo, N. Y., and William Ennis of Chicago.

A stroke behind Abbott and a stroke better than par are Van Hall of Long Beach, Robert Abeles Jr. of Santa Monica, and Paul Genung of Dayton, O.

Four man teams from San Francisco and Sacramento were tied for the team trophy, each with 295. The cup is decided on the total medal scores for the 36 holes of qualifying play.

Chicago Is 20th.

The second qualifying round will be held tomorrow with match play among the 64 low survivors starting Wednesday. Scores:

CARHTAGE JOINS SELF HELP IDEA WITH EDUCATION

Over Half of Its Students Working Own Way.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Carthage, Ill., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Carthage college, which was established in 1870 to meet the need for a school home for the Lutheran families who had come to this section of the Mississippi valley, is evidence today of the strength of such foundations, the capacity to endure, the ability to uphold standards of scholarship, and to face the future with courage and assurance.

The old idea of manual labor in connection with liberal arts colleges which was practiced for a time in Knox, the old Prairie college at Galesburg, and other similar institutions, and then dropped, has almost come to reality again at Carthage, where more than a half of the 337 students are working their way through and where there is room for more of this "self-help" variety. Much of the work on the 60 acre campus is done by students and they are working on several farms which the college has been obliged to take over due to the depression crop of mortgages.

Cornfields Adjoin Campus.

The old campus with its lovely "evergreen walk," planted by the first president, Dr. David Loy Tressler, in 1873, runs into the cornfields which surround the town, and college life in many ways is dependent on what sun and rain and the markets do to this corn and the wheat and oats and cattle of the farm country. Depression and drouth have worked havoc with college finances, but they have weathered through, skimping in equipment, buildings, and other externals but not in the essentials of scholarship.

Coming to the presidency of Carthage in the fall of 1935, Dr. Rudolph G. Schulz Jr., an A. B. of Carthage in 1927 and a D. D. of Wittenberg college, took as his text the words of Robert E. Lee who said to a southern mother who brought her babe to him: "Teach him that he must deny himself."

Confident of Permanence.

Dr. Schulz looks upon the condition of his college as an assurance of the permanent place for the Christion college in the educational program of the nation.

"The church related college," he said, "calls for no defense, asks no apology. It is a record which speaks for itself. The Christian college has given, and is giving, leaders in every worthwhile realm of human endeavor. It is a foundation stone in the development and progress of the nation.

"In an age which has been witnessing a marked trend toward regimentation of thought, which in turn results in the teacher so often becoming only a propagandist, the responsibility of the Christian college was never greater, or were its opportunities more abundant."

Dr. Schulz was a junior clerk in the auditing department of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE before the world war. He resigned to enter the army and served with the 108th field signal battalion, participating in the Somme and other battles.

The first graduating class of four in 1875 at Carthage has now been multiplied by more than a thousand alumni who call this home. Through these living aids and the bodies of the United Lutheran church in America it reaches into many states for support and drawing power.

Authors Among Alumni.

Among its old students is the name of Ralph Waldo Trine. One likes to think of the author of "In Tune with the Infinite" in the shadows of these campus evergreens, redbuds, and maples, listening to the musical notes of the wood doves, hearing the high chorus of the birds, and the murmur of the winds across the cornfields.

Others on the alumni list are ministers and missionaries. The list also includes Dr. Fred Hawley, president of Park college; Dr. C. C. O'Harra, president of the South Dakota School of Mines; Dr. Fernando Sanford, professor emeritus of physics at Leland Stanford university; Dr. Ernest Mensel, professor emeritus of Germanics at Smith college; Dean Caroline Crote of Western State Teachers' college; Harry Brinkman of the Harris Trust company, Chicago; Alfred Kent, bank president of Peabody, Kas.; Karr Parker, inventor of modern hotel radio installations; Frances Gilchrist Wood, novelist; Ina Poole, story writer; Scott M. Ladd of the Iowa Supreme court; Frank Helsell of the Nebraska Supreme court; T. J. Scofield, Chicago lawyer.

Biology Department Able.

Carthage has a distinctive department in biology under Dr. Alice Lovina Kibbe, who came here from the University of Washington in 1920. Dr. Kibbe, a gray haired enthusiast in laboratory and field work, may be found today superintending the installation of museum and other equipment in the remodeled gymnasium which has been turned over to her department. With little money to spend she has assembled a notable collection of geological and other material, mounted birds, animals, plants, insects and curios.

The Carthage courses are the regular liberal arts subjects, but they have been grouped into suggested pre-engineering, pre-medical, pre-law, and pre-theological courses. A two year course in agriculture is offered. This will be housed with biology this year. Each student is required to select a major in the sophomore year.

It is interesting to find that in all suggested pre-professional courses the Bible is included. The continuing purpose of the college, through all courses, through all trials, is characterized by the president as "the gift of God." They pray at Carthage and they expect answers to their prayers. They gave up their idea of building a library because of depression finances, but there is no doubt in their minds that this will be built and their other needs met.

UNION PICKETING BARRED IN FIGHT FOR MILK TRADE

Court Hears Charges of Conspiracy.

Judge Walter T. Stanton yesterday issued a temporary injunction restraining the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, and its officers from interfering with the business of the Douglas Dairy company, 2254 South Troy street, by picketing stores it services and other means.

Charges were made that the union officials conspired with the large dairies to take customers from the Douglas company for the large operators. Without the monopoly forced on Chicago by the large dairies and the union, said Attorney Edgar J. Cook, counsel for the company, milk could be sold for 9 cents a quart instead of 13 cents, the prevailing rate.

Union Heads Deny Charge.

Union officials denied the accusation of conspiracy, terming it ridiculous. Robert Fitchie, president; Steve Sumner, treasurer, and Ray Bryant, business agent, spoke for the union.

"The Douglas company pays its fifty employés the union scale," declared Attorney Cook, "and all its employés are members of the union. But the union officials have conspired with the big operators to crucify the small milk companies.

"They picket stores serviced by the company and harass the store owners. As soon as they give their business to one of the large dairies the pickets are withdrawn. Thirty stores which bought milk from Douglas were picketed until they changed their source of supply, and the pickets prevented them from getting deliveries of ice cream, bakery goods, and other products."

Union Threat Is Charged.

Attorney Cook charged that union officials had threatened to drive the Douglas dairy out of business, although it had been in business since 1920, asserting, "We've put away bigger fellows than you."

"Obviously there is no quarrel between the company and its union labor," declared Judge Stanton. "It seems to be purely a matter of taking away the company's business. The injunction is issued forthwith and without notice."

The navy department today awarded a $554,300 contract for construction of fifteen single engine amphibian planes to the Grumman Aircraft Engineering corporation of Bethpage, N. Y.

EVANSTON GIRL VANISHES AFTER FATHER BANS JOB

Evanston and Chicago police were asked last night to hunt for Mary Alice Seippel, 15 years old, 1204 Sheridan road, Evanston, daughter of John A. Seippel, buyer for a large mail order house. Miss Seippel left home Saturday and has not been heard from since. It was reported last night that she had found employment in a loop store.

Mr. Seippel told police that his daughter is unusually ambitious, and had asked him to allow her to work during the summer vacation. He refused. She had been teaching dancing to a class of forty little girls, and also conducting a play class. Miss Seippel is large for her age—5 feet 6 inches tall, and weighs 145 pounds.

Mrs. James Skala, wife of an Oak Park policeman, was severely cut inside the mouth and throat and possibly injured internally yesterday by her false teeth, which she swallowed in the excitement of an automobile collision north of Lake Forest. Dr. A. J. Rissinger, who attended her in the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest, cut his hand on the plate, which had been broken, while removing them.

Mrs. Skala, who is 40, was returning to her home at 1165 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, with her husband and son when their car was struck by an automobile occupied by two deaf mutes from Milwaukee.

DEDICATE MONUMENT TO FIRST DIVISION'S VICTORY AT CANTIGNY

CANTIGNY, France, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The United States 1st division was honored today with a monument celebrating its first victory in the world war.

Cantigny Memorial.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, a veteran of the division, said its taking of Cantigny May 28, 1918, was "a small but significant victory at a moment when victory was indispensable to the allied cause."

Reviewing the division's part in the historic battles of Soissons, Saint Mihiel, the Argonne, and Sedan, Col. McCormick declared:

"In all battles the division never failed to take its objectives, never left a dead comrade unburied, and lost in dead and wounded more men than it numbered on its mustering day."

Josephus Daniels, United States ambassador to Mexico and wartime secretary of the navy, urged veterans to "fight to maintain peace." Americans, French officials, and villagers attended the monument dedication ceremonies.

SILK AND RAYON WORKERS IN EAST OUT ON STRIKE

About Half Respond to C. I. O. Call.

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Approximately 30,000 of the 58,000 workers in the silk and rayon industries scattered over several states responded today to the strike call of the Textile Workers Organizing committee, C. I. O. affiliate, in its efforts to organize the two industries. This was the first big strike since the T. W. O. C. took over the task of organizing the textile industry from the United Textile Workers, formerly affiliated with the A. F. of L. Northern New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New England, and New York were the regions affected.

Declare Strike Success.

Spokesmen for the Textile Workers Organizing committee in New York declared that the strike movement was "extremely successful." They expected that "a considerable portion of the industry will be signed up before the week is out."

Directing the organization drive from this city is Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and Chairman of the T. W. O. C.

Union leaders, it was learned, place hope for success of the strike to a considerable extent in the fact it has the sympathy of many employers who wish to see the silk and rayon industries organize as a means of stabilizing operating conditions.

Only a Few Shops Open.

About 4,000 broad silk workers and 2,000 throwsters answered the call in Paterson, N. J., and vicinity. Only a few of the 500 shops in that region were reported at work.

From Boston, Hyman Bloomberg, New England director of the T. W. O. C., reported that 95 per cent of the 10,000 New England silk workers would not be called upon to join the strike for the reason that all large plants and most of the small units are already under contract.

In Pennsylvania, where 40 per cent of the employés of the two industries are concentrated, union leaders declared that 17,000 of the 23,000 workers were out.

Mr. Alston said his son had no worries or troubles, and that he believed his death was accidental. Park Ridge police declared, however, that a rubber tube, connected with a gas burner, was found near the body. Young Alston worked nights as an electrician at the Reliance Dye and Stamping company plant, 1260 Clybourn avenue, and attended a business college during the day.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT ACTS TO SAVE QUADS BORN ON BLEAK ISLE

MOSCOW, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Dispatches from desolate Sakhalin, subarctic island off the Siberian coast, said today the soviet government had intervened to save the lives of girl quadruplets born to the wife of a worker in the Sakhalin oil fields named Yashin. [Russia owns the north half of the island and Japan the other half.]

Black area is Russian Sakhalin.

The babies were born prematurely last May in the village of Katangli, and soviet health authorities, following Canada's example in the case of the Dionnes, immediately took charge. Powdered milk was rushed by airplane from Alexandrovsk, on the Siberian mainland. A physician and nurse were appointed to care for mother and babies, all of whom survived.

Then, the dispatches said, the family was presented with a cow and a year's supply of feed by local public organizations.

ALDERMAN TELLS OF BERWYN SLOT MACHINE OFFER

Ald. Karel Marsicek of Berwyn's fourth ward revealed last night that he had been asked to use his influence in obtaining official sanction for slot machines in his ward. Marsicek has been a leader in the fight against the gambling devices in the suburb.

"A man came up to me a month ago," said the alderman. "I am not sure of his name. He said: 'Why don't you get lined up, and put slot machines in your ward?' I told him 'Nothing doing.'"

That was the last Ald. Marsicek heard of the matter, although rumors have come to him, he said, that several aldermen had been offered $50 a week to allow the machines in their wards. Soon after the feeler was put out, Ald. Marsicek said, a few machines were installed in his ward, but he promptly had them removed.

WPA PUTS SICKLE CREWS TO WORK IN WAR ON WEEDS

Sneezers who suffer from hay fever yesterday welcomed the news that a WPA crew of scythe and sickle wielders had cut the tall weeds in Burnham park. Hay fever victims were becoming concerned over the prospect of clouds of pollen dust that soon would have been floating across the outer drive from ragweeds and other pollen producing plants that were shooting up on both sides of the boulevard from 31st street to Pershing road.

George T. Donohue, general superintendent of the parks, said that Burnham park and other weed growing areas in the city are being cut by WPA workers according to a schedule worked out by the federal government and city officials as part of the state-wide weed control campaign. A special mowing machine rented by the city of Berwyn to cut pollen producing weeds was put to work yesterday in prairie space about the suburb.

2 SKYSCRAPERS CHANGE OWNERS IN REALTY SWAP

Deal Closed Without Use of Cash.

BY AL CHASE.

Two well known Chicago skyscrapers will be swapped in one of this city's most unusual real estate deals, as a result of negotiations concluded yesterday. Not a dollar will change hands, no brokers figured in the transaction, so no commissions will be paid, and the trade, involving a total of several million dollars in actual value of land and buildings, will have been closed in exactly twenty-seven days when actual signatures are placed on the deeds. Ordinarily a deal of this magnitude takes several months to close.

The Estate of Marshall Field is trading the nineteen story Times building, at 211 West Wacker drive, for the sixteen story Central Life Insurance company building at the southwest corner of North Michigan avenue and East Superior street. Possession of the buildings by the new owners will be taken shortly. The Central Life Insurance company, however, will not move to Wacker drive until next month, according to President Alfred MacArthur.

A Dollarless Deal.

Although this was entirely a "dollarless deal," several millions are actually involved. A rough estimate shows that the Times property represents more than two million dollars in land and building and the Central Life building $1,065,000 for site and structure.

The nineteen story Times building occupies a site 60 by 150 feet, which was bought by the Field estate in July, 1927, for $615,000. The Chicago Evening Post Building corporation leased it for 99 years and erected the present building at a reported cost of approximately $1,400,000. Two months ago the Field estate took back the property, wiping out a $1,800,000 leasehold bond issue, on a court order issued because of nonpayment of ground rent.

According to Ward Farnsworth, who alone negotiated the skyscraper swap with the Field estate, a new fifteen year lease was made with the Times in July, specifying that the building continue its present name. It is now 55 per cent rented, the Times using nearly eight floors and two basements. The Central Life will use the 17th and 18th floors.

May Remodel Building.

There is a possibility that the Field estate may later remodel the entire sixteen story former Central Life building for exclusive use of physicians. It is to be renamed the 720 North Michigan building.

Both parties to yesterday's deal point with satisfaction to results accomplished through the trade. George Richardson, trustee for the Field estate, said that through the acquisition of the Central Life property the estate has consolidated its holdings so that it now owns the entire block bounded by Michigan, Huron, Rush and Superior.

The Field estate in June, 1934, bought the northwest corner of Michigan and Huron, adjoining the Central Life building on the south, from Mrs. Randolph Santini, formerly Mrs. Noble B. Judah, for a reported half million dollars. It is improved with the five story 700 North Michigan avenue building, erected in 1928 at a reported cost of $650,000. A month later the estate bought the northeast corner of Huron and Rush from Mrs. Santini for $103,500.

View of MacArthur.

"We have more actual bricks and mortar in the Times building than we had in our Michigan avenue building," said President MacArthur. "In other words, we have an actual value and the Field estate has a potential value in the Central Life building."

The Central Life Insurance company bought the near north side property, fronting 54½ feet on Michigan avenue and 211 feet on Superior street, in 1922 for a reported $215,000. The sixteen story building is 54½ by 68 feet and cost a reported $850,000.

The Central Life building is 100 per cent rented. The insurance company has been forced to rent additional space in nearby buildings. It will be able to consolidate all its activities in its new Wacker drive building.

BIG BUILDINGS TRADED

Stock Markets Lack Liquidity, Sales Indicate

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The number of comparatively small issues of regularly listed securities which have been placed on the investment market recently serves to emphasize the lack of liquidity of the organized security markets at present.

Instead of liquidating the securities through sales on the stock exchange, it has been necessary to effect distribution through public offering by underwriting syndicates. Large holders who for one reason or another find it necessary to sell some of their securities, cannot do so as formerly through their brokers. The volume of trading in many securities on the exchange is so small that the market cannot absorb a sale order of any size.

Blame SEC for Situation.

Brokers attribute the lack of liquidity in the market to the excessive regulation by the Securities and Exchange commission. The SEC has deliberately acted to reduce the volume of speculative trading. The commission did not set out to lessen the marketability of listed securities but the effect of its policies has been just that, brokers declare.

In some cases the recent distributions have been made by members of the stock exchange who find it necessary to go outside the exchange to find buyers.

Sell Issues to Public.

Kidder Peabody & Co. recently distributed a block of stock of F. W. Woolworth & Co. It was necessary to liquidate the stock for tax reasons from the estate of a former official.

Although not excessive in size it was not found expedient to sell the shares on the exchange. Instead the firm made a formal public offering. Hemphill, Noyes & Co., another exchange house, recently sold 20,000 shares of Sharon Steel preferred stock through public offering.

Little Fellow Forgotten in Wage Bill, Says Griswold

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9—(AP)—Representative Glenn Griswold, Peru, Ind., house labor committee member, said today "the little businessman" was forgotten when the pending hours and wages bill was drawn.

"No high power, acute pressure lobbyist represented him or organized propaganda in his behalf," the Indiana Democrat said. "His voice was not heard largely because he does not know what the legislation is attempting to do to him. Congress has not heard him, but his voice will be loud when the blow strikes."

Treasury Sells New Bills to Yield 0.211 to 0.478 Pct.

The treasury department announced yesterday the sale of $50,086,000 of the 129 day bills dated Aug. 11 and maturing Dec. 18 at an average price of 99,924, equal to a yearly rate of 0.211 per cent on a bank discount basis, and $50,058,000 of 273 day bills dated Aug. 11 and maturing May 11, 1938, at a price of 99.638, equal to a rate of 0.478 per cent.

Estimate Farm Mortgage Debt Cut by Forced Sales

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The bureau of agricultural economics estimated today that forced sales of farms reduced farm mortgage indebtedness from $9,200,000,000 in 1930 to $7,600,000,000 in 1935.

DOUGLAS AIRCRAFT'S UNFILLED CONTRACTS TOTAL 36 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—The Douglas Aircraft corporation has unfilled orders amounting to $36,000,000, W. H. Lewis, controler of the company, testified before the naval affairs committee in the house today. About the same time it was announced in Amsterdam that an order had been received by Douglas from the Fokker factories for four DC-3 Douglas planes on the Royal Dutch airlines. This will bring the total of Douglas planes on Dutch airlines to 18.

Present business is made up of 65 per cent army contracts, which include an $11,000,000 contract granted in June, 16 per cent navy contracts, 6 per cent domestic transport, and 11 per cent foreign transport, Lewis testified.

Lewis said that orders now on the books will keep the Douglas factory busy until the spring of 1939, if operations are uninterrupted. He opposed the 10 per cent limitation on profits now carried in navy contracts.

MAGILL OFFERS PLANS TO STOP TAX AVOIDANCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The house ways and means committee heard Roswell Magill, undersecretary of the treasury, suggest today that the government might use a constitutional amendment and international treaties to stop tax evasion and avoidance.

Magill testified at a committee hearing on legislation designed to close some tax loopholes immediately. In response to questions he said he has "reasonable hopes" that the states would approve a constitutional amendment permitting the federal government to tax interest on state securities. But it would have to be a reciprocal arrangement, he said, allowing the states to tax federal securities.

He also asserted that the state department, working with the treasury, has begun discussions with other nations about interchange of tax information.

Pass Bill to Permit Cities to Refinance, Scale Debts

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The senate passed and sent to the White House today legislation authorizing political subdivisions to refinance and scale down their indebtedness through federal bankruptcy proceedings. The measure is similar to an earlier municipal bankruptcy law declared invalid by the Supreme court, but Senator Pepper [D., Fla.] told the senate the new bill would meet the court's objections.

COTTON STATES DEMAND NEW U.S. LOANS, SUBSIDY

Bounty Might Total Half Billion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—Agriculture commissioners of twelve southern states, meeting with the senate agriculture committee today, demanded that the government resume the 10 cent loans on cotton and that it pay in addition a subsidy equivalent to the difference between the average selling price and "parity," which is now placed at about 17 cents a pound.

The parity figures take into consideration the farmers' purchasing power, after the payment of taxes and interest, in terms of things the farmer has to buy. The usual base period for parity is 1909-'14.

While the agriculture commissioners contended that bounties equivalent to the difference between the selling price and parity would cost only about $220,000,000, Senator Elmer Thomas [D., Okla.], a member of the agriculture committee, insisted that the cost would be at least $500,000,000.

Roosevelt Waves Stick.

President Roosevelt precipitated the controversy with southern senators and representatives by threatening to withhold cotton loans unless congress stayed here long enough to pass his entire legislative program, including a new AAA production control and "ever normal granary" scheme.

A fight is expected in the senate tomorrow when Senator Ellison D. Smith [D., S. C.], chairman of the agriculture committee, calls up his resolution directing the holding of regional hearings on the farm bill with a view to reporting a measure at the opening of the next session. Senator Hugo L. Black [D., Ala.] has an amendment directing the committee to be ready with its report by Oct. 15, which would give the President an opportunity to summon a special session.

Raise President's Ante.

The agriculture commissioners not only called the President on his threat to withhold the 10 cent loans but raised him, demanding parity subsidies. Two years ago the administration worked out a formula extending 10 cent loans with an agreement to pay subsidies representing the difference between the average price at ten designated spot markets for ⅞ inch middling and 12 cents. Today, however, the farm representatives demanded:

"That legislation be enacted that will permit farmers to sell their cotton at any price not under 10 cents, with the understanding that they will subsequently be reimbursed in an amount equal to the difference between the average price at the ten designated spot markets of ⅞ inch middling on the day the cotton is sold and parity. Under this plan, if the market should decline below 10 cents, then a loan would be made on the basis of 10 cents a pound with the provision that parity would be subsequently paid to all farmers who should coöperate in next session's control program."

Urge Congress Take Control.

The farm representatives, refusing to trust the extension of the loans to President Roosevelt, through the commodity credit corporation, which now has discretionary authority, recommended "that the responsibility for determining the general terms and conditions upon which loans should be made or assistance extended should be assumed by congress."

GENERAL MOTORS' SALES INCREASE TO NEW PEAK FOR JULY

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Showing a contraseasonal increase from June, consumer sales of General Motors corporation cars and trucks last month set a new high record for July at 163,818 units, the company reported today. In June sales were 153,866 units, while a year ago 163,459 units were sold.

This is the first time on record that sales in July topped the preceding month. The increase from June was believed to reflect the carryover of demand from early spring, when production of the company was held up by labor difficulties. Only in March this year did sales top the level of a year ago.

Sales to domestic dealers in July totaled 187,869 units, compared with 162,390 in June and 177,436 units in July, last year, which was the previous high mark for the month.

FORD, PLYMOUTH PLANTS REOPEN AFTER SHUTDOWN

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 9.—(AP)—The motor car industry swung back into a production program promising close to 100,000 assemblies this week with the reopening of the Plymouth division of the Chrysler corporation, closed last week because of labor troubles, and the approximately two score branch plants of the Ford Motor company, which had been closed for three weeks for inventory taking.

The resumption of assemblies by the two large volume producers brought close to 110,000 workers back in Detroit alone. About 60,000 workers in Ford branches in other cities were affected.

Suspension of operations by the Plymouth plant last Wednesday resulted from a fight involving members of the United Automobile Workers of America and of the Independent Association of Chrysler Employés. In the settlement agreement, approved by the U. A. W. yesterday, four of its members discharged for alleged participation in the beating of two independent association members within the Plymouth plant, are to be given a hearing beginning tomorrow.

Got $49.92? Your Share of Money in Circulation

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Money in circulation on July 31 totaled $6,460,099,147, or $49,92 for every person in the United States. This compared with $6,447,132,642, or $49.85 per capita, on June 30.

Dawes' Bank Pays Over Half of RFC Loan

The Reconstruction Finance corporation on Aug. 1 had been repaid $50,238,316 of principal of the original $90,000,000 loan made to the Central Republic bank shortly before it closed in 1932, Charles E. Albers, receiver, disclosed yesterday. Interest amounting to $15,126,584 also has been paid.

Announcement of repayments to the RFC was made following issuance of the quarterly report of settlements by Central Republic Trust company, liquidating shell for the old Dawes bank. All funds collected by the liquidator with certain exceptions have gone directly to the RFC. The report covered the three months ended July 31.

Settle Insull Firms' Claims.

The most important transaction during the quarter was payment by the liquidator of $221,389 to trustees of Insull Utility Investments in exchange for withdrawing all pending litigation which has prevented sale of collateral securing $2,612,577 demand notes of Insull Utility Investments and $184,000 of 5 per cent serial notes of Corporation Securities company.

The payment was in accordance with similar settlements made by other banks holding collateral against the Insull companies' notes. The settlements were on the basis of 10 per cent of the value, as of Jan. 28, 1937, of collateral held by the banks. In an exhibit attached to the quarterly report, the receiver listed settlement payments made by other banks.

What Other Banks Pay.

According to the report the Continental Illinois paid $1,468,388; First National of Chicago, $396,230; Northern Trust, $71,327; Harris Trust, $50,771; Guaranty Trust, New York, $418,132; Irving Trust, New York, $354,497; Central Hanover, New York, $316,847; Commercial National, $106,411.

The receiver also disclosed that the $184,000 notes of Corporation Securities held by Central Republic will be purchased by trustees of the former Insull concern at $5.14 per $100, or $9,463 the lot.

Albers authorized the release of 3,108 shares of Union Gas & Electric common stock posted as sub-collateral or a note of Rufus G. Dawes for $56,522. Dawes has agreed to replace the stock with $12,873 cash and 155 shares of Dawes Brothers' preferred stock. Union Gas has voted to dissolve.

The name of H. Roy Berry, at one time a wealthy Chicago real estate operator, whose divorce case created a sensation in 1931, appears in the report. Mrs. Frances M. Berry, the divorced wife, died May 15, 1935, and left her estate to a sister, Mrs. Mae Scholtz. The chief asset of the estate was a claim for unpaid alimony against Berry for $16,312. A claim against Mrs. Berry's estate was a note for $1,349 held by Central Republic, and the receiver has agreed to arrange a compromise settlement of the note.

"Her husband, H. Roy Berry, never paid anything under the order for alimony and disappeared," the receiver's report said.

Offers to Compromise Claim.

Berry now wishes to return to Chicago and is offering, through his attorney and his brother, to compromise the claim against him, the receiver disclosed.

Another compromise settlement concluded during the month was with the retired executive of a large concern, a man who lost his fortune in the 1929 crash and now supports an invalid wife on $100 a month. The man agreed to pay $5 a month for 40 months in settlement of a $2,606 note.

A Chicago woman school teacher, past 60 years old and earning $1,800 a year, agreed to borrow on her life insurance policy to settle. Former officers of a Chicago concern contributed $100 to pay the debt of a former doorman.

CASUAL

Casual "investment" results in many casualties. Lack of a sound program with a well-defined objective accounts for a high proportion of investment failures. In our procedure, with all the facts before us, we assist each client in defining his purpose in investment and lay out a definite program to achieve it. Thereafter, we keep the program under constant and vigilant supervision, knowing well that change is the only certain factor and that we must repeatedly adapt our funds to these changes.

Why not let us replace aimless guesswork with competent, unprejudiced counsel based on skilled research and wide experience?

Worthy professional investment guidance is worth many times its nominal cost.

When Nature Goes on a Rampage

The most careful extension of credit proves inadequate when nature, or human nature, goes on a rampage. Floods, fires, earthquakes, tornadoes, strikes, riots, and other upheavals sweep the "best" of customers out of existence or cripple them so badly they cannot pay their bills promptly or at all.

Such catastrophes cannot be foreseen nor forestalled. Credit losses due to "natural causes" or any other causes are always surprising and disastrous.

American Credit Insurance

guarantees payment of your Receivables, no matter what befalls the debtor — bankruptcy, receivership, reorganization under 77-B, etc. And delinquencies are treated as insolvencies, too.

Manufacturers and Jobbers who carry Credit Insurance make selling safer, profits more certain, capital turn faster, and their own credit standing better.

Liberal protection is now available on Individual Debtors, Special Groups, Non-rated Debtors, etc., besides General Coverage. Telephone or write this office for information.

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 9.—Despite light profit taking which set in after the list had improved on early strength, prices on the stock exchange closed irregularly higher today. Steel stocks and a few miscellaneous issues highlighted the industrial division with gains up to 2 points. Changes in the rail and utility sections were mostly of a fractional nature, the majority of them showing gains.

Public interest was small and the trading pace slowed somewhat, volume for the day approximating 752,000 shares.

A slight drop in this week's estimated steel operating rate had a negligible effect on the buoyancy of steel shares. While United States Steel common could not hang on to its best figure of the day, closing with only a half point gain, several other steels enjoyed better support. Among them were Bethlehem, up 1⅝, and Youngstown, up 2½.

Increases in automobile prices spurred support for motor stocks. Chrysler, selling ex dividend, improved 1⅝ points. General Motors turned upward for a moderate gain on good buying. Auburn was conspicuously weak.

Nonferrous metal shares again enjoyed more activity, although some irregularity crept in. Inspiration Copper, Park Utah, Anaconda, and Callahan Zinc were the most active.

Rails generally were higher. Utilities reversed their recent trend with fractional advances.

Merchandising issues worked fractionally higher, Sears-Roebuck making a new high for the year and closing at 97. Douglas and Boeing in the aviations also moved in a higher fractional range, as did the majority of oil shares.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 9.—[Special.]—Volume of bond trading was about on a par with that of Friday and the market was a specialty affair throughout. In general prices held on an even keel.

United States Treasury loans, lately inclined to creep ahead, moved in a narrow course despite reports from Washington the government soon may be able to curtail its weekly borrowings through bill offerings because of incoming cash from sales of "baby" bonds and social security taxes.

Many bond traders prolonged their vacation from active participation in the market to await better clews to the underlying trends in money rates and business. Transactions on the stock exchange totaled $5,292,400, par value, against $5,424,000 Friday. For several weeks transactions have been at the lowest ebb since the recovery got well started.

Japanese loans held their ground in face of the far eastern crisis and German government 5½s and 7s advanced fractionally.

A few rails moved up fractions to more than a point, including Santa Fe 4s, Great Northern 4½s and 4s, and Missouri Pacific 5s.

Chicago Stocks.

Cord corporation common stock set the trading pace on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, climbing 25 cents a share to close at 4⅞ on turnover of 9,250 shares. Total sales were only 40,000 shares and the close was highly irregular. Of the 91 issues traded, 29 advanced, 37 declined, and 25 were unchanged.

Other volume leaders were Rollins Hosiery which closed unchanged at 2⅝, and General Finance, also unchanged at 5½. Middle West declined ⅛ point to close at 9⅞ on a trade of 950 shares.

Trading will begin today in Belden Manufacturing common, the exchange announced.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet yesterday. Continental Illinois stock was quoted at $2.50 to $4 a share higher by various dealers and First National stock was $3 higher. Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank stock dipped $5.

COTTON

Cotton prices declined as much as .51 cent, or $2.55 a bale, at the extreme yesterday, following the issuance of the government crop estimate, which was construed as decidedly bearish. Numerous stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, while the best support came from shorts, both domestic and foreign, and from traders who felt that the prospective large crop would result in increasing agitation for a government loan.

Closing trades on cotton futures in Chicago were at net losses of .34 to .39 cent, while other American markets were .28 to .43 cent a pound lower, with all deliveries in new low ground for the season.

Spot cotton closed .40 to .50 cent lower, with New York, 10.85 cents; New Orleans, 10.75 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 10.40 cents a pound. Prices follow:

WILLYS OUTPUT LOWER.

A decline in production by Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. from 7,154 cars in July to 6,889 in June was attributed by company officials to a four day shutdown in July because of shortage of parts.

Commodities

Heavy buying yesterday lifted the price of export copper in New York to 14.825 cents a pound, the highest level in recent weeks. The advance followed sales of electrolytic copper in London as high as 15.04 cents a pound. Both the American export price and the London quotation closed slightly below peaks for the day.

Purchases in the domestic market over the week-end totaled 11,744,000 pounds, bringing total sales in the first week of August to about 50,500,000 pounds. Unofficial reports said that sales yesterday, which will be officially reported today, were heavier than over the week-end as consumers feared the climb in export and foreign markets would necessitate an upward adjustment of the American domestic quotation of 14 cents.

Buying of zinc subsided after the price boost of 0.25 cents a pound last week. Lead sellers reported a good demand at 6.50 cents a pound, New York, and 6.25 cents in East St. Louis. Both quotations were up a full half cent during the week. Metal futures in New York advanced sharply. Copper climbed 0.11 to 0.19 cents a pound, lead was 0.05 cent higher, and zinc moved forward 0.13 to 0.15 cent.

Cottonseed oil ran into selling in the New York futures market following publication of the government cotton crop report, and final prices were 0.25 to 0.29 below the previous close. September contracts finished at 8.14 cents a pound.

Selling by New York and European traders drove cotton futures lower. Cash coffee markets were dull and unchanged. Hides were unchanged in the Chicago cash market and unchanged to 0.02 cent higher in the New York futures market. Rubber was irregular.

Bearish interpretation of storage statistics and failure of cash prices to improve caused heavy selling of October eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. The closing price was at the season's low of 23½ cents a dozen, off ¾ cent a dozen. Cash eggs advanced to ¼ cent lower.

'MYSTERY MAN,' E. L. CORD, FADES FROM BUSINESS

Silence Shrouds Actions of One Time Mechanic.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.

Errett Lobban Cord, one time dishwasher and auto mechanic who relinquished control Saturday of the extensive interests he acquired in transportation industries, passed out of the business with characteristic silence. It was a silence of the kind many believe only Cord to be capable. He was not only silent, but earned the title of "invisible man."

E. L. Cord.

Seldom, if ever, has Chicago known such an exclusive financier and corporate executive. Even his close associates often said they had no idea where Cord was. L. B. Manning, known as Cord's business twin for fifteen years, the other day said he had not seen "E. L." for two months.

Activities Kept Quiet.

Never known to be talkative, Cord retired into a shell that was practically impenetrable after he and his family fled to England in their yacht in the spring of 1934, following reported kidnap threats against his wife and children.

Manning became the chief of the Cord interests soon thereafter, so far as the public knew, and remained so until June, 1936, when Cord again took over the presidency of Cord corporation. Cord had made frenquent trips back to the United States during the two years and was "known" to have been active in his widespread interests for months, but his presence in this country often was denied.

"E. L." had a habit of bobbing up where not expected, and almost never could be located definitly. He maintained his residence at 1500 Lake Shore drive, Chicago, and main offices of his enterprises were 105 South La Salle street, but a speech before the Illinois Manufacturers' Costs association is about the only public appearance he is known to have made here. Few Chicagoans ever saw their fellow citizen. He eluded reporters with rare artistry.

He's Here, He's There.

In Chicago it sometimes was reported that Cord was in New York, while in New York he was reported to be in Chicago. A third place where the elusive financier was reputed to pass much of his time was his 11½ acre estate in the foothills of the Santa Monica mountains near Beverly Hills, Cal. His home there was a $250,000 mansion built in 1931.

Almost the only statements Cord ever gave out were terse announcements of changes in official positions or in connection with one of his numerous financial coups or the battles which preceded them. Interviews with "E. L." were almost unknown—entirely so in the last few years.

Cord moved in such secrecy that his acquisitions seldom were known until they were accomplished, or at least until his efforts had started a fight.

Works Quietly.

One of his most bitter struggles was for control of Aviation corporation in 1932. One of the quietest coups came in 1933, only a few weeks after he got control of the New York Shipbuilding corporation. It was purchase of control of Checker Cab Manufacturing company and with it control of Parmelee Transportation company and taxicab business in New York, Chicago, and Pittsburgh.

The speed of this deal left financial men breathless, and with the opinion that Cord had outfoxed the du Pont interests. Morris Markin was ousted as president of Checker a few months after optaining an option to buy Checker stock from du Pont interests. It was thought Markin could not find money to exercise his option before it expired. But suddenly Cord bobbed up in his usual mysterious way, Checker became a part of the Cord corporation setup, and Markin recovered his job.

CORD QUITS CHECKER

E. L. Cord yesterday retired as a director of the Checker Cab Manufacturing company. At the same time Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney, started a study of the bill of complaint filed Saturday by the securities and exchange commission to see if Cord and Morris L. Markin, head of Checker, misused the mails in their stock transactions.

As a result of the news of the Cord abdication stock of the Auburn Automobile company, one of the key manufacturing concerns in the Cord group, broke $5.12 a share on the New York Stock exchange yesterday. However, it finished at $20.12 for a net loss of $2.62.

Shares of the New York Shipbuilding, Checker Cab, and the Cord corporation showed small gains, while Aviation corporation closed unchanged from Saturday's finish. Cord had substantial interests in all these companies.

Crop Experts.

To supplement information on crops compiled by the department of agriculture many large brokerage firms employ private crop experts who estimate the size and condition of the various crops with remarkable accuracy.

These experts base their findings on personal observations and on reports from correspondents in the field. Some of these crop statisticians have several hundred correspondents.

Chicago has five nationally known grain experts while a sixth entered the field this year. They are H. C. Donovan, of Thomson & McKinnon; B. W. Snow, of Bartlett Frazier company; Nat C. Murray, of Clement, Cutis & Co. Mrs. E. H. Miller, of Shields & Co.; R. O. Cromwell, of Lamson Brothers & Co., and the newcomer, C. M. Galvin, of James E. Bennett & Co. They issue their reports about the first of each month. These are followed on the tenth of the month by the government's official figures. The average of the private statisticians and the government experts is usually close.

Primary purpose of the private reports is to furnish information to customers of the brokerage houses in advance of the official statistics, and thus help the customers in their trading operations. However, all the firms make their reports available to the general public.

Harvest Placed at 15½ Million Bales.

A cotton crop of 15,593,000 bales or nearly 3,200,000 bales in excess of the 1936 harvest, was forecast yesterday by the department of agriculture. If the Aug. 1 outlook is maintained the current crop would be the sixth largest on record. It would compare with 12,399,000 bales havested in 1936 and a 1928-'32 average of 14,667,000 bales. In 1926 the crop totaled 17,978,000 bales.

A yield of 223.3 pounds of cotton per acre was indicated, a new high record, compared with 197.6 pounds in 1936 and a 1923-'32 average of 169.9 pounds. The previous record yield was 1898 when it averaged 223.1 pounds per acre.

The estimated cotton crop this season was well above trade expectations. Brokers had looked for around 15,200,000 bales. Nat C. Murray, statistician for Clement, Curtis & Co., came the closest of the private statisticians, his estimate being only 17,000 bales in excess of the official return.

Condition of cotton on Aug. 1 was reported by the department at 81.3 per cent of normal, the highest for that date with the exception of 1911 when it was 89.1. A year ago condition was 72.3, while the 1923-'32 average was 67.7 per cent of normal.

Ginning of cotton from July 1 to Aug. 1, according to the census bureau, amounted to 142,983 bales, against 41,130 bales in 1936 and 94,346 bales in 1935.

Cotton Prices Slump.

Cotton prices slumped more than 0.40 cents a pound, or $2 a bale yesterday to a new low for the season following issuance of the report. The market made only a small recovery from the low.

The indicated yield of cotton in bales of 500 pounds, as estimated by the department, and the final returns in 1936 follow:

New York, New Haven & Hartford.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad stock.—T. B. T.

Answer: This railroad, operated at a loss since 1931, is seeking to reorganize under the federal bankruptcy laws.

A plan submitted by the company, June 1, 1937, provides for issuance of new fixed interest bonds, income bonds and first preferred stock to bondholders and other secured creditors. Second preferred stock would be issued to holders of debentures and other unsecured claims. New no par common stock would be issued to holders of present preferred and common stocks and to stockholders of three leased roads which would be acquired under the plan. Five shares of new common would be issued for each 4 present preferred shares and one share of new common for each 5 present common shares.

The $13,084,000 of equipment trust certificates and $36,258,000 of underlying bonds would be undisturbed. New securities to be issued: $147,101,000 of 4 per cent fixed interest bonds, $47,414,000 of 4½ per cent noncumulative income bonds, 459,504 shares of $100 par 5 per cent noncumulative first preferred, 434,278 shares of $2 noncumulative dividend participating second preferred, and 1,182,151 shares of common stock.

Fixed interest and other charges would be reduced from $20,330,000 to $9,943,000 annually. On the basis of estimated revenues of $87,500,000 for 1937, the company's said earnings on the proposed capital setup would be equal to $3.61 per first preferred share after full interest on all bonds.

Considerable opposition to the plan has developed, and a bondholder group intends to present a rival plan calling for cumulative interest and dividend provisions on new bonds and preferred stock. Present stockholders would receive only warants to buy new stock.

Basing figures on present capitalization, loss was cut to $2,101,000 for the first half of 1937, compared with $4,286,000 in the first half of 1936. The record of recent years, compared with the 1929 peak:

	Revenues.	Net loss.	†Loss per com. shr.
1936	$ 78,867,000	$ 3,677,000	$ 4.52
1935	71,113,000	4,084,000	5.17
1934	69,283,000	6,656,000	6.42
1933	67,225,000	5,977,000	5.99
1929	142,459,000	*21,839,000	*11.72

*Net profit figures. †Based on present capitalization of 490,367 preferred and 1,571,186 common shares, both of $100 par.

The New Haven system serves practically all of southern New England.

PRICES OF PORK RISE AGAIN ON SMALL SUPPLY

Swine Sell Readily at Steady Level.

Dwindling supplies of meats sent some wholesale cuts to new 1937 high marks yesterday. Fresh pork lead the rise. Gains of 50 cents to $1 per hundred pounds were registered in Chicago pork markets, with a new eleven year high of $33 paid for fresh loins. Some eastern points quoted gains of $2 to $3.

Beef, veal, and lamb was mostly steady to strong.

Live stock prices at the stockyards were uneven, some grades selling 15 to 25 cents lower, while other kinds were steady to firm.

Good Clearance for Hogs.

A good clearance was reported for hogs after a slow start, news from wholesale markets having a stimulating effect. Most prices were steady.

Selected 175 to 197 pound Illinois new crop hogs topped at $13.70, while better grade 225 to 350 pound butchers sold at $12.40 to $13.60 and most 275 to 450 pound sows cashed at $11.50 to $12.15.

Outstanding sales of butchers were 349 pound Iowa hogs at $12.40 and 347 pound averages from an Illinois farm at $12.40. Prime 320 pound butchers reached $12.50.

Cattle Hits Nine Year High.

Urgent buying orders for prime longfed steers forced the top for cattle to $17.25 yesterday, a new nine year peak. This price was the second highest for August in 17 years, comparing with a top of $10.25 in August last year. The bulk brought $9.50 to $16.35.

A larger run of grassfed steers broke these grades 15 to 25 cents. Best cows and fed hefers were steady, but "grassy" stock was weak to unevenly lower. Bulls were weak to 15 cents lower. Calves slumped 25 cents.

HOG SLAUGHTER NEXT TO LOWEST FOR 20 YEARS

Packers Kill 1,643,112 Swine in July.

Packers under federal inspection last month slaughtered only 1,643,112 hogs, the second smallest number for any month since September, 1917, and the smallest for July in forty-one years, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday.

This slaughter compared with 2,109,817 in June and with 3,519,422 in January this year. In July, 1936, packers killed 2,691,815, and two years ago they slaughtered 1,712,312. Three years ago the July slaughter was 3,324,440, and four years ago 3,914,452.

In the first seven months of 1937 there were 18,055,894 hogs slaughtered, which compared with 18,933,256 in the same period last year. During the seven months of 1933 farms sold 28,622,629 to plants under federal inspection.

Beef Production Declines.

Beef production also showed a tremendous decline last month. The cattle slaughter at 790,020 was 49,548 less than in June and 137,516 smaller than a year ago. During the first seven months of the year 5,577,239 cattle were killed, against 5,789,219 a year ago. The calf slaughter for the month at 519,826 compared with 523,363 in July, last year, while the seven months' kill at 3,760,870 compared with 3,420,301 last year.

Slaughtering of sheep and lambs showed an increase. The total for July at 1,390,365 compared with 1,352,468 a year ago, and the seven months' kill at 9,847,630 compared with 9,368,746 in 1936.

Meat Production Figures.

The decline in slaughtering of live stock during July represented a decrease of about 283,624,000 pounds of meat, or 26 per cent, compared with a year ago. It was estimated that plants under federal inspection produced only 782,565,000 pounds of all meats last month, compared with 1,066,189,000 pounds in the same month last year.

Beef production at approximately 379,209,000 pounds compared with 462,949,000 pounds a year ago. Veal at 51,982,000 pounds compared with 55,451,000 pounds last year. Pork and lard at 295,760,000 pounds compared with 497,956,000 a year ago, and with a high of 707,930,000 pounds in July, 1933. Lamb and mutton at 55,614,000 pounds compared with 49,833,000 pounds a year ago.

LONGS UNLOAD, SENDING WHEAT DOWN SHARPLY

SeptemberCornContinues to Move Higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$1.10⅝	$1.13	$1.10½
Corn	1.03¼	1.02	1.03¼
Oats	.29⅝	.30	.41⅞
Rye	.81⅛	.82½	.78⅝
Soy beans [Oct.]	1.00¼	1.00	......

Wheat prices in North American markets dropped sharply yesterday, with closing prices showing net losses of 1¾ to 3 cents a bushel. Weakness in Liverpool and a break of $2 to $2.50 a bale in cotton futures were largely responsible for the lower trend in wheat.

September corn continued strong advancing nearly 2 cents and touching $1.03⅞ a bushel, a new high on the current recovery. It later eased but closed 1¼ cents a bushel higher. New crop deliveries of corn declined ¾ to 1¼ cents a bushel, although at one time they were fractionally above Saturday's closing level. Price changes in oats and soy beans were confined to fractions, while rye declined as much as 2¼ cents in sympathy with wheat.

Speculation Is Curtailed.

Speculative operations in wheat were restricted because of the Canadian crop report ,to be issued after the close, and the American government report, which will be released today. Mills were persistent buyers of wheat futures in Chicago and Kansas City, but were unable to stem the downturn, which in large measure was said to represent selling by holders of contracts who failed to get out of their holdings on the recent bulge.

Scattered rains, which fell in parts of Argentina where the wheat crop has been menaced by drouth, had a depressing effect on Liverpool, which closed as much as 1⅛ cents a bushel lower.

The domestic visible supply increased 13,897,000 bushels last week, and stocks now total 101,984,000 bushels, the largest since the week ending Nov. 2, 1934, reflecting the abnormally heavy movement of new winter wheat crop.

Short covering was responsible for the continued strength in September corn.

CANADA'S CROP FALLS

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 9.—[Special.]—This season's spring wheat crop is expected to be the lowest in thirty years, the dominion crop bureau reported today. Condition of the crop on July 31 was only 35 per cent of the long time average yield per acre, against 51 per cent a month earlier and 45 per cent on July 31, 1936. The sown area of spring wheat in the prairie provinces is estimated for this year at 24,599,000 acres, or 77,000 over the 1936 area.

Other coarse grains, except rye and flaxseed, showed slightly better prospects on July 31 than a year ago, mainly because of better conditions in Ontario, Manitoba, and Alberta. Compared with June 30 of this year, however, practically all grains had an anticipated lower yield.

Ontario's fall wheat crop is estimated at 17,428,000 bushels, an increase of nearly 5,000,000 over last year's small harvest. Fall rye for Canada is estimated at 4,276,000 bushels, 1,000,000 over the 1936 crop.

SENATORS PLAN COMPROMISE ON SUGAR MEASURE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Senators essayed the rôle of peacemakers in the sugar controversy tonight after receiving a warning from Secretary of State Hull that restrictions on refining in Cuba would breed a monopoly in the United States.

Fearing a presidential veto unless changes are made in a sugar control bill which passed the house recently, senators from states which grow or refine the product undertook to rewrite the measure. The administration objects to a proposed curb on insular refining as unfair to Cuba, Hawaii, and Porto Rico.

From Senator O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], a leader in efforts to enact legislation to revise and extend the 1934 Jones-Costigan act, came a prediction that a "satisfactory" compromise would be worked out. Chairman Harrison [D., Miss.] of the finance committee, which heard Hull and others today, suggested that the output of all plants, insular and continental, might be "frozen" on approximately its present basis as answer to the "discrimination" charge.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Grasshoppers Hit Farm

Aug. 9, 1937.

GREAT hordes of grasshoppers have been swarming over THE TRIBUNE's Wheaton farm during the last two weeks, eating the foliage from field and pasture crops, garden vegetables, and shade trees. Men who have lived at the farm for many years say this is the worst hopper invasion they ever have seen there.

Poison bran mash is being used effectively to kill the pests around the test plots. It may become necessary to spread the poison on other portions of the farm to save the crops. The poison mash is being made by mixing 4 pounds of white arsenic with 100 pounds of bran and adding 1 gallon of blackstrap molasses and enough water to moisten the mixture. The mash then is spread by hand on the ground.

The grasshoppers ate an eleven acre field of young alfalfa to the ground. The alfalfa had been seeded in with oats last spring and was high enough to have been cut for hay. The farm manager estimates that the yield of oats was cut five to ten bushels an acre in the different fields by the grasshoppers cutting down the oat straws before harvest.

Trees Stripped of Leaves.

Much of the grass in the pastures has been eaten by the hoppers and shrubs and shade trees around one of the farmsteads have been stripped of their leaves. Sheep will be turned into a field of young clover to save it from destruction by the pests.

Cornfields have not yet been damaged by the grasshoppers, but probably are endangered, now that practically all the small grains have been harvested.

Turkeys at the farm have welcomed the grasshopper outbreak and have given valuable assistance in putting the pests under control. There are practically no grasshoppers to be found in the fields and woods where the turkeys range, and especially around the ponds where they go for water.

Crops Need Rain.

Crops on both the Tribune farms began to show the need of rain last week. Pastures started drying up, especially those that had not been clipped earlier in the summer. The corn was beginning to need rain, although it was not suffering badly. Deep, wide cracks were appearing in many places in the ground.

Shade trees at the Wheaton farm that have not been transplanted long enough to be well established were being watered. The practice followed is to give each tree 1,000 gallons of water at a time.

The water level in the swan pond began to drop last week and an additional windmill was installed in a deep well near the pond to pump water into it. Water from two wells is being pumped into the pond when there is wind enough to keep the windmills turning.

How corn grows is only one of many interesting subjects of the fascinating book, "Day by Day on the Farm," which Frank Ridgway, Tribune's agricultural editor, has written about activities on the Tribune experimental farms. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. On sale also at the Tribune Wheaton farm. Price, 25 cents. Postpaid, 32 cents.

AUTO ACCESSORY SHOW ATTRACTS 1,500 PERSONS

More than 1,500 buyers from thirty-three states registered yesterday at the fourth annual winter item exposition of the Automobile Accessories association at the Stevens hotel. R. Garland Ames, secretary of the association, said there were forty more exhibitors than last year.

He estimated orders to be placed at the show will total $5,000,000. Items sold at the show will be offered to the retail trade for sale in the fall and winter. Buyers at the show represent independent automobile supply dealers and chain stores.

A considerable number of the articles being offered consist of safety devices.

Has a large built-in trunk on rear. It's very low mileage accounts for the wonderful condition of the tires and the unused appearance of the upholstery. The motor is Certified by Studebaker. Horsts Take Donald Home—Senator Copeland Assails Roosevelt—Paternity of Baby Center of Divorce Case

BOY RESUMES PLAY ON RETURN TO HORST HOME

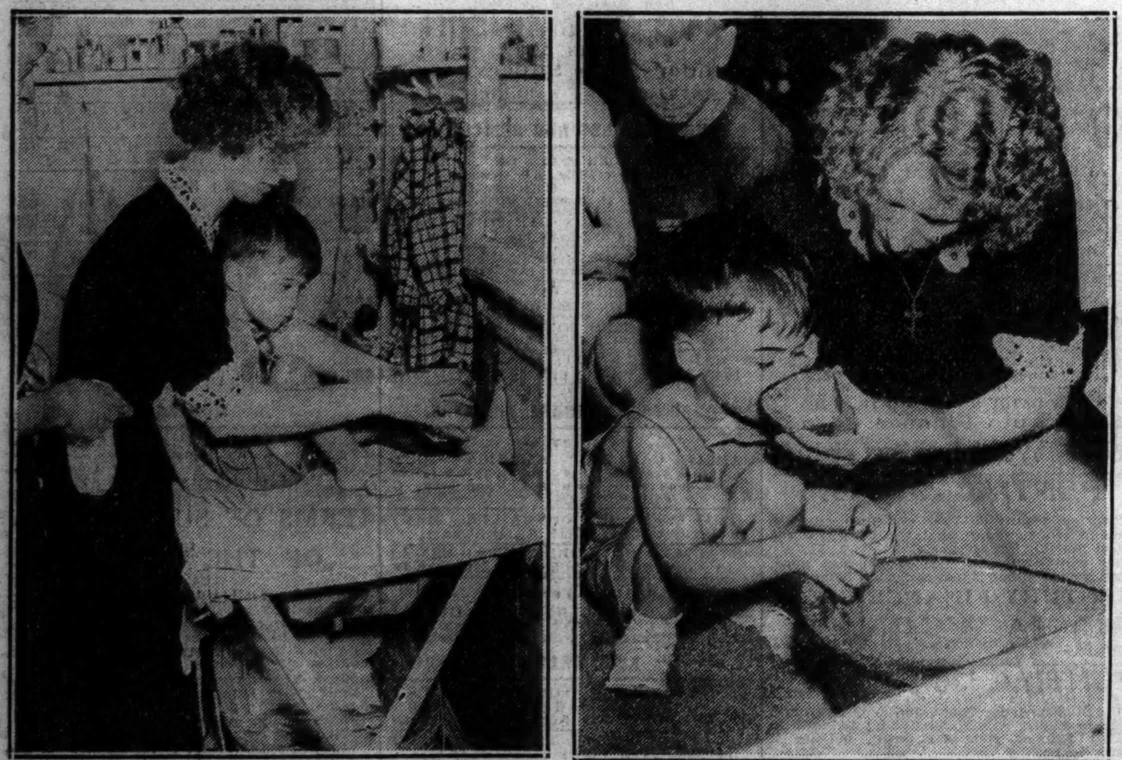
Mrs. Martha Horst carries "son" into home after the court hearing. He was wrapped up because of his slight illness.

Little Donald takes up his normal life at the exact spot where it terminated when his real mother and father, John and Lydia Regan, kidnaped him. The arrow points to him among group of friends in his sandbox in yard of home. It was from this box that he was taken when the now famous case first came into the limelight.



At left is Mrs. Horst putting a clean play suit on Donald after arrival home and at right she is giving him a glass of milk as he plays. The Horsts are to retain custody of the boy until Judge Jarecki makes a complete investigation of the case and rules on their plea to adopt the child formally. The Regans have already agreed to the adoption proposal. The next hearing will be on Aug. 23.

Mr. and Mrs. Horst at the court hearing in the afternoon. The woman who has posed as the mother of Donald ever since his birth wept almost constantly until the child was restored to her.
